GRANT HILLARD.

Ulysses Lionel Grant Hillard died at his home at Clarington, on December 24, 1891, at 6 o'clock and 5 minutes P. M., of typhoid fever. Born March 17, 1863, he was aged 28 years, 9 months, and 17 days.

The deceased had been confined to his bed only 10 days previous to his in sewing it up. The nature of the death, but had been feeling quite unwell for two weeks previous to the time he quit work and came home. He was a workingman and unmarried. He was well known in the old part of the county where he had lived and labored most of his life. He had uncommon strength of body and power of endurance. Few men of his weight and size were his equal in these respects. He was reckoned more than an ordinary hand as a laborer. He was trusty, of good judgment, had a cool head, and possessed steady nerves. These qualities made him a valuable man in the woods, on the water as a raftsman, or anywhere else. None could handle a cable in landing a raft better than he. He was rather of a quiet disposition, and read considerable though saying little about it. Some of the books he read at times furnish a striking illustration of the fact that there is often in human lives an undercurrent of thought that belies what appears on the surface. Some years ago he was converted in a revival meeting, but fell away again. He never spoke disrespectfully of religion. He believed in it, and believed in men. Anna and Ella Work, Miss Blanche From the time he came home sick his McMahan, Miss Blanche Pease, Miss thoughts seemed to dwell deeply on Bertha Wilkinson, Miss Gettrude the welfare of his soul. Some hours would die. He was rational and so remained for some time. His last words were those of the wanderer returned and received again to the haven of safety from whence he had once strayed away. He said, "I am going to see my blessed Saviour and Rubie." Rubie was his sister who at 8 years was called away nearly 2 years ago, its most promiuent and useful citizens. and for whom he had an affection very

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

At 2:30 p. m., Monday, Dec. 28, 1891, the annual lustitute of the teachers of Forest county was called to order by Supt. G. W. Kerr. Prof. F. A. Wheeler ied in singing, followed by responsive reading led by Supt. Kerr. Prayer by Rev. C. C. Rumborger. T. F. Ritchey delivered an address of wel-come to the teachers which was responded to by Mias Kate Guenther. An organiza-tion was then effected by the election of the following officers : G. W. Kerr, ex-officio Prisedent; T. E. Armstrong, Vice President; Secretaries, Blanche Pease, Della Mohn-kern, Anna Work, Winnie White. Ad-journed.

In the evening the fourth contest for In the evening the fourth contest for the Demorest silver medal, under the aus-pices of the W. C. T. U., took place. The large content of the class of contestants, every one of the class of the class of contestants, every one of the class Profs. Lord, bwift and Elliott, awarded the prize to Miss Anna Keifer, the choice giving very general satisfaction. The speaking was interspersed with singing, by a good choir, and "the male quartette, which never failed to "bring the house down." But the feature of the occasion was the work of a large class of little folks drilled by Mr. and Mrs. Bitchey. The singing, marching and calisthenic exercises of these young folks were well nigh perfection and the pleasure of the audience in this part of program was manifested in many bursts of applause given the performers. The decora-tions of the cont room elicited many flatter-ing compliments, and were allowed to retions of the court room elicited many fatter-ing compliments, and were allowed to re-main during the remainder of the institute. The session on Tuesday morning was opened in usual form, after which Supt. Swift, of Elk county, talked on the subject of Reading. Among his points were: We should have in mind what we wish to ac-complish; teachers that are adopted to tracking reading are generally moreasful. complian; teachers that are adopted to teaching reading are generally successful; children learn to read and talk by repeated acts of association; the word and sentence methods are more in harmony with the organic mind, but the word method is to be preferred; the teacher should be prepared for the work. Instruction in music by Prof. Whealar A for roll call Sunt Kerr an Wheeler. After roll call Supt. Kerr ap-pointed Kate Guenther, Bertha Weikal and C. M. McNaughton a committee or resolu-tions. After recess the hour for informal sessions was fixed from 11 to 12 a. m., each day with Prof. Elliott as chairman. Prof. Lord gave a talk on civil government. He stated that there is no subject we know so stated that there is no subject we know so little of as this one. It should be taught in all our public schools, and one of the first things should be the teaching of the laws of our own town and State. The subject cau be made very useful if handled in the views we right way.

Tuesday afternoon Prof. Swift continued Tuesday afternoon Prof. Swift continued his talk on reading. He would question the pupil, and would not use the "pointer" at each word. Questions should be propound-ed to the class and not to individuals, or-dinarily. Prof. Wheeler's talk on music was of more than usual interest. Prof. Lord resumed "civil government." He gave an excellent definition of the word government "the direction of human right, founded on human interests." A review of the town-"the direction of numan right, founded on human interests." A review of the town-ship, county and state officers was had, to-gether with their duties, salaries and fees. Prof. Swift for a few minutes entertained the institute with a talk on "little things." Attention to the small details saves much time and trouble, while neatures insures time and trouble, which heaters there better results, always. Tuesday evening Dr. Jas. Hedley deliver-hus lecture, The Sunny Side of Life, to a large audience which listened with pro-foundest interest to the very last. It was one of the most scholarly and highly cutertain-ing loctares ever listered to by a Forest county audience, and the flowery Doctor may rest assured of a crowded house upon his next visit here.

may rest assured of a crowned house upon his next visit here. Wednesday morning Prof. Swift resumed his talk on reading adding many new points to his already large collection. Prof. Wheeler's musical instruction was "resum-ed. He would first teach the pupils to sing by may then something about notes Mr. sing by ear, then something about notes. Mr. McNaugh'on discussed the subject of work. Reading should not be studied merely for the pronunciation of words. The query box as opened and numerous question s an-examinations. Examinations for promotion should be conducted by the school board, or in its presence. Neatness of papers should be observed. Mr. Stroup talked entertain-ingly on thoroughness. It is not how much can we teach, but how well we can do it. Things done by halves are never done right "What do you consider the best method of

"What do you consider the best mathod of teachingspelling?" was discussed by Col. Copeland, Profs. Thomas, Lord, Hillard, Rev. Rumberger, and several teachers. Is the afternoon, Prof. Thomas explained many kno'ty points in difficult sentences in Grammar. Prof. Lord's talk to the School Directors, (who were not present by a large majority by the way), was very instructive and entertaining. He gave the approximate amount of the State appropriation which the different townships would receive under the new act, and showed that in some it would be about twice and in others three times as new act, and showed that in some it would be about twice and in others three times as much as formerly. He would like to see houses built of ample sizs, and provision made for proper ventilation; the walls of a dull color so as not to injure theeyes; a good black-board and plenty of it should be pro-vided; and last but not least, adequate sal-ary of teachers. Gol. Copeland was enthu-siastic in his talk on the beautifying of school rooms.

In the evening the Colonel delivered one of In the evening the Colonel delivered one of his best lectures, "Handsoms People." It was not as humorous as the audience had ex-pected, judging from the subject, but it more than made up for this in other respects, and was received with enthusiasm by the large crowd assembled. Friday morning was devoted to summing us the work of the preseding asselong read.

up the work of the preceding sessions, read-ing of minutes adopting resolutions and say-ing farewells. The election of the committee on permanent certificates resulted as follows: T. E. Armstrong, Chairman; Gertrade McElhoes, Secretary; Bertha Wilkinson, Mary Ross, Ida Paup. Tobe frank, caudid and to the point, the whole institute was a success.
