WHAT explanation or excuse have Northern Democrats to make for the flaunting of the "bloody shirt" in Congress by Patterson of Tennessee, Bankhead of Alabama, and Turner of Georgia? What possible provocation had they? What Republican said a word to provoke their action?

HISTORY is repeating itself in Congress with wonderful exactness. Secession took its rise sixty years ago in mutterings and complaints that the South was unjustly taxed to pay pensions to the veterans of the Revolution and of 1812. The same thing is being heard again.

THE hearty, unostentatious endorsement of President Harrison by the Republicans in convention at Harrisburg last week, meets the unqualified approval of every true member of the party in the great State of Pennsylvania. While the convention did not deem it prudent to issue direct instructions to the delegation which will represent the State at Minneapolis, the meaning of its endorsement cannot be misconstrued by any one with a thimble full of brains.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Republicans Nominate a Strong Ticket, and Adopt a Platform That Can't be Beat.

The Republican State Convention met at Harrisburg last Wednesday and immediately proceeded to business by nominating a ticket which receives nothing but praise from even those who are not strictly in sympathy with the party. The platform adopted is such as to meet the unqualified approval of all the party, while its critics frankly admit its soundness.

and the nomination of Judge Dean was made unanimous amid the wildest cheering.

The next in order was the nomination of two Congressmen-at-Large. The nominations were made on the first ballot, resulting, 195 for Major Alexander McDowell, of Mercer, and 137 for General Wm. Lilly, of Carbon county. Mr. Taggart, the farmer candidate, received 108 votes. The result was very satisfactory, even to Mr. Taggart, whose splendid showing puts him to the front as a leader in Pennsylvania politics.

The work of selecting Electors-at-Large was quickly accomplished the choice falling on the following gentlemen: B. F. Jones, Allegheny; William Wood, Philadelphia; J. Francis Dunlap, Lancaster, and William H. Sayer, Delaware.

Delegates-at-Large—William Elkins, Hamilton Diston, Philadelphia; William Fliam, Harry W. Oliver, Allegheny; S. A. Davenport, Erie; Lyman D. Gilbert, Dauphin; H. Clay McCormick, Lycoming, and General Frank Reeder, Northampton. They were elected unanimously.

This completed the work of the convention and at a late hour in the evening it adjourned sine die.

The platform was adopted as presented and read by the resolutions committee. The salient points will be found in the following:

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania assembled in convention on the eve of another national campaign send greetings to the Republicans of sister states. To the Republicans of Rhode Island especially we extend hearty congratulations upon the triumph they have just achieved, and hail it as the omen of a more decisive victory throughout the country in November. We earnestly invite the calm and dispassionate judgment of the people of our State upon the record of the Republican party since its organization at Pittsburgh thirty-six years ago.

The party of Lincoln and Grant, of Harrison and Blaine, has always had the wisdom to do right and the courage to be consistent. It has never been found on both sides of any great public question. It has never in one breath, as our Democratic opponents in Pennsylvania have just done, invoked the shades of deceased statesmen who were protectionists and shouted hosannas to living free traders.

In the unfortunate disputes with Italy and Chili, in the threatened complications with Great Britain and in the development of principles of reciprocal commercial intercourse the Republican administration has acted with judicial temper and with American spirit, and in the achievement of these victories of peace, we, as Republicans of Pennsylvania have an especial right to pride in the eminent service of the distinguished secretary of state, that brilliant son of Pennsylvania and ideal of Republican leadership, James G. Blaine.

We reaffirm, as the cornerstone of Republican faith, the principle of protection to American labor and heartily commend to the McKinley act. We favor liberal but well guarded appropriations for internal improvements, and especially commend among these the construction of a ship canal to unite the waters of Lake Erie with those of the great river system which is the highway of commerce for the western section of our state and the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

R. BARNETT.

We have never had such a fine array of harvest machines to show farmers as this season. Every one shows inventive skill, strength and symmetry derived from the touch of

WALTER A. WOOD.

The Wood machines, as made for 1892, are winning crowds of new friends. Examine the new chain-drive, and balance-reel, on the Wood harvester. Examine the new spring lift and the new axle extension on the Wood mowers. Examine the Wood hand-dump rakes, virtually self-dumping.
