COURT'S OPINION ON LICENSES.

The general interest in matter has induced the publication of the following opinion of the Court on the license question in Tionesta, as delivered by Judge Noyes last week:

In Re, the Applications of Brownell and Agnew, for License to sell

Liquor. OPINION OF THE COURT. The applicants for license in the Borough of Tionesta, have complied with the law with respect to the form of their petitions and bonds, and no objection is made to the fitness of either applicant. Nor is it denied that hotels are required in each of the houses for which license is asked, for the accommodation of the public and the entertainment of strangers and travelers. Although many careful judges in the State of Pennsylvania have held that under the act of 1887, as well as under previous laws, these facts alone satisfy the requirement of the law and entitle the applicants to license, are of the opinion that in addition to these the accessity of a license to sell liquor must be made to appear, dis-tinct from the necessity for a hotel or tavern. It is obvious, however, that the word "necessary" in the license law, does not mean indispensible, or even necessary to the best interests or well-being of the individuals composing the "public." If used in such a sense, it could not be said that a li cense to sell liquor is necessary any-where. But the phrase used in the law is "necessary for the accommoda-tion of the public and the entertainment of strangers and travelers," Places for the sale of tobacco are nec-essary for the accommodation of the public, where the public is accustomed to use tobacco, although its use may be injurious and noxious. In the same sense, a place for the sale of opium may be considered to be necessary, if the consumption of opium is common in the community, although its use is unquestionably injurious. But because a certain number of people are accustomed to use intoxicating liquors, it does not follow that there should be a license, nor because a cer-tain number, or a large number are opposed to its use, that there should not be. The Courts are re-quired to determine the public necess-It cannot be said that because a majority of the people in a town are opposed to license, that there is no public necessity. Just how large a portion of the people is necessary to comprise what is known as "the pubis a very difficult matter to determine. For my own part I have no hesitation in saying that I regard the license law of 1887, as intended to restrict and limit the traffic in intoxicating liquors. And, therefore, where it appears that a community without license will not use intoxicating liquors in any great quantity, and will not supply itself by indirect and illegal means, or where the senti-ment of the people is such that, in the absence of licenses, it will enforce, practically, prohibition of the traffic, I am in favor of refusing license in such a place. As to the situation in Tionesta, the petitions, and a large supplemental petition in each case, allege that there s a public necessity for license to self liquor. Large remonstrances allege that there is no such necessity. The number of signers upon the remon-strances is somewhat greater than the number of signers to the petitions. This, as the Supreme Court has repeat edly instructed us, is not conclusive, but is to be considered as evidence, and the Court must determine the fact by its own judgment and knowledge of the circumstances.

e evidence in open Court. opinion, tends rather to show the necessity than the want of it. The only distinct fact brought out, bearing directly upon the question as we view it, was the fact that there had been established in the town surreptitious means for supplying this de-mand; that, however appears to have been but a temporary expedient, and for a number of years no such clubroom was shown to have existed, although the witness testified that he knew that some other means of supplying the demand had existed. Thus we are left, by the evidence before the Court, largely in the dark, as to the precise facts. Personally, I do not know how the matter is. 1 should be obliged to decide altogether upon the papers, and the evidence given in Court, if I were sitting alone. But my Associates are well acquainted with the situation of Tionesta, and they are of the opinion that the necessity exists here as much as in other places. It is a matter of reluctance to me, and I have no doubt to my associates, to enter upon what may be deemed an experiment, and one which may not turn out to be for the best interests of the community; but we are not here to decide such cases upon moral grounds, or upon our personal views; we are simply to deter-mine the questions of fact, taking into account the personal knowledge of the judges, of the situation.

If there is in Tionesta, such a de-mand for intoxicating liquors that, without license, it will supply itself by means which the law does not recognize, it is our clear duty to supply it by legal means; and it is the opinion of my associates, who are familiar with the town, that such is the case. For that reason the bonds in these cases are approved, and the licenses granted. By the Court. C. H. NOYES, P. J.
