COURT MINUTES.

When our report of court proceedings closed last week, the trial of James Carson, on the charge of larceny, was in progress. The case was given to the jury on Wednesday at 4 p. m. The jurors were out all of that night until Thursday at about 4 p. m., when they were discharged, being unable to agree on a verdict. Some time in the early part of the summer Mrs. M. Andrews, postmistress at Kellettville, lost a pocket book containing money, notes and checks to the value of something over $500. After the lapse of a week or two she made information against Mr. Carson, who carries the mail between Tionesta and Kellettville, charging him with the theft of the pocket book. The evidence adduced at the trial was not sufficient to convince all of the twelve jurymen that the accused was guilty, hence the disagreement. It is said the Jury stood 10 for acquitted and 2 for conviction ; another re port says it was 8 to 4 in favor of acquital, but as no one outside the jury room is supposed to know, it still remains an uncertainty as to just how Another case which elecited considerable interest was that of Louisa D. Kaman vs. R. Kaman. The young woman sued her father for wages alleged to be due her from the time she became of age until about a year ago. Many witnesses, pro and con, were heard, and the case was contested at every point. The jury awarded the plaintiff a verdict of $560.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury also reported that they acted on six bills of indictment, of which two were found true bills and four not true bills. They recommend that the stove pipes in the jail and the main sill on the East side of the building be repaired, and that the building be repainted on the outside. Also that three more bulletin boards be placed in the court house hall, and that the practice of pasting bills on the doors and walls of said hall be abated. They recommend the repairing of the plaster and stove pipes throughout the court house. They further present, that the Pittsburgh & Western R. R. Co., do permit and allow their employes to leave cars and trains of cars to stand on the tracks on South Forest St., It being a public road, in the town of Marienville, Jenks township, and thereby detain the traveling public to an unlimited length of time, and thereby, cause a public nuisance ; and they recommend that the said railroad company be advised of the fact by the court, and the nuisance ordered abated. children. The fund has done incalculable good and there remains much for it to do. A sprightly writer expresses his opinion of old maids in the following manner. "I am inclined to think that many of the satirical aspersions cast upon old maids tell more to their credit than is generally an old United States, as well as financial and imagined. Is a woman remarkably near on? She will surely be maid. Is she particularly reserved toward railroad experts in Chicago and the West, the other sex? She has all the squeamishness of an old maid.
