If the pugilistic industry continues increasing it may become necessary to make room in the cabinet for a Secretary of Pugilism.—Blissard.

Pass the free text book bill and give the public school children their books for nothing. It would help the cause of education in this State.

At last accounts Mr. Harrity was holding up the Democratic offices in Pennsylvania, with the Democratic Congressional Combine around him begging to be let in out of the wet.

A CRY goes up from the Combine of Pennsylvania Democratic Congressmen that Messrs. Harrity and Hensel will not control the Pennsylvania appointments. If they don't, it is safe to say that nobody else in this State will. The man who does not stop in Harrisburg on his way to Washington to apply for a position simply commits political suicide.

To show how popular he is, the Republicans of Ohio are going to renominate William McKinley for Governor. Of course this means a Republican Governor in Ohio for another term. There isn't a man who stands a particle of chance against McKinley in a free and fair fight. It is his alleged friends he has to fear, rather than his open foes.

The woods are full of them up around Meadville. The Tribune says: After the applicants from Meadville for places under the new administration have been cared for, if the places are not all taken, the applicants from the balance of the United States will be given a hearing, but at present it don't look as though there would be many places left to fill.

The tariff reformers in New York have drafted a bill on free trade lines which will be presented to the next Congress. It puts pretty much everything on the free list, which is what the Democracy promised to do in their platform. But what will Congress do? There are so many varied interests to satisfy that there is sure to be a conflict, and after all the bill may fail. If the Democracy are honest, they will urge drastic free trade measures, but nobody ever accused that party of honesty.

The Road Bill May Pass.

The bill for the betterment of the roads in this State is now well on its way in both Houses at Harrisburg and there are indications that it will pass in some practical shape. The bill as it now stands provides for a county supervisor to be elected next November, for a term of 3 years. He must have a special knowledge of road-making and be a surveyor or civil engineer. Where there is a county surveyor he may also act as supervisor. His compensation will be fixed by the township supervisors who are to be elected in February.

The county and township supervisors are to meet next March and declare what shall be considered as public highways. The payment of employees is to be fixed by the township supervisors, and taxpayers are to be given the preference. Revenue is to be provided by a levy of 8 mills on property now subject to taxation, and a tax of $1 upon each male person. A State appropriation of $3,000,000 is proposed for the next two years.

THREE schemes of Congressional apportionment have been submitted to the House Committee. The first groups Venango, Mercer, and Butler together. The second makes a district out of Venango, Warren, McKean, Forest, Elk and Jefferson. The third lay-out is Crawford, Venango, Forest, Clarion, and Jefferson.—Franklin News.

Either of the two last propositions would strike Forest county about right, though, perhaps, the second would be preferred. But anything to get out of the hole we're now in would satisfy the Republicans of Forest.

It is the habit of the truly good people who don't know anything about it to point to the Pennsylvania Legislature with the finger of reproach, and refer to it as a corrupt body. They have no proof that this is so, but they do these things, and the poor old Pennsylvania Legislature is regarded as something awful. But with all its faults it is not half so bad as the Minnesota Legislature, where two members formed rival syndicates and undertook to do business on strictly cash principles. One syndicate underbid the other, and the man who wanted the bill passed exposed the whole matter. An investigation has been called for, and somebody is going to have a great deal of trouble of assorted kinds on hand.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

The legislators who are having so much to say about a road law for the improvement of the roads in this State should do more and talk less. It is a fact, as declared by Mr. Walton in debate, in the House, that the roads of Pennsylvania are a disgrace to the age in which we live. The newspapers in the State have time and time again called the attention to this sad condition of affairs, and have done their duty so faithfully that the entire people are aroused on the subject and demand that something be done. Governors of the State for years back have incorporated in their messages references to the bad condition of our roads, but it does not seem as if the Legislature will take the hint. Give us something practical and not so much talk.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

COL ELLIOT FITCH SHEPARD, editor of the Mail and Express, died suddenly at his home, in New York on the 24th inst. His death followed the administration of ether by Dr. Charles McBurney, and the family physician, Dr. J. W. McLane, who were about to make an examination to ascertain whether the Colonel's suspicion that he suffered from stone in the bladder was correct. Col. Shepard was born in Jamestown, Chautauqua county, N. Y., July 25, 1833. He was educated at the University of the City of New York, admitted to the bar in 1858 and for many years practiced in New York city. In 1861 and 1862 he was aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor Edwin D. Morgan, was in command of the depot of volunteers at Elmira, N. Y., and aided in organizing, equipping and forwarding to the field nearly 50,000 troops. He was instrumental in raising the Fifty-first New York regiment, which was named for him, the Shepard rifle. He became the owner of the Mail and Express in 1888.

Col Shepard was a princely giver to many a worthy cause. When the matter of the great disasters at Oil City and Titusville last June was presented to the Republican National Convention, then in session at Minneapolis, it was he who made the motion that the secretary of the convention be made treasurer of the relief fund, and then accompanied his motion with a subscription of $500, the first on the list.

Jumping on Mr. Higby.

A Harrisburg dispatch to the Pittsburg Times gives this interesting information:

Mr. Higby and his little bill for the expenses of his contest with Mr. Andrews is a topic of unfeeling interest, and the Democrats are jumping on the gentleman from Crawford with both feet. Mr. Metzgar, of Potter, who introduced the bill, says he never read it, and disavows all responsibility, saying that the Democrats should go before the Appropriations Committee and ask that it be cut down one-half. Chairman Falbot says that not more than 15 witnesses were examined by the committee, and that $125 would be ample for this expense although Mr. Higby's bill asks for $551. A very prominent Democrat said to-day that Higby's outrageous action had lost the Democrats all the advantage they had gained by the seating of Andrews, both in the State and Crawford county, and that had the Democrats known what Higby was going to do, they would have raised a purse of $1,000 to stop it.

The truth is, however, that a great many Democrats are secretly rejoiced at Mr. Higby's downfall. He was a Populist candidate, endorsed by the Democrats, while the latter were quite willing to reap all the benefit possible to their party, from his arbitrary unseating, they did not care to see him made too prominent. As a fusion assemblyman he would do, but when it came to making him the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, the dose was too strong. So when they see this professed taxpayer guardian making a grab at the State Treasury and this anti-corporationist not only riding on passes, but afterward putting in a bill for $800 for railroad fare, they are inwardly rejoiced and outwardly shocked.

The strongest recommendation that any article can have is the endorsement of the mothers of the town. When the mothers recommend it you may know that that article has more than ordinary merit. Here is what the Centerville, South Dakota, Citizen says editorially of an article sold in their town: "From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our children. We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day." 50 cent bottles for sale by Siggins & Nason.
