Hood's Cures

Terrible Headaches

Distressed and Discouraged

Health all Broken. Thoroughly Built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mrs. Eva Covert
Of Bath, N. Y.

"I am glad to have my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla widely known, because the medicine has done me so much good, I think it will benefit others who are out of health. I was in a very distressing and discouraging condition. I had no appetite whatever; could not sleep well; suffered with excruciating headaches. I felt

Tired and Languid,

Had no ambition and seemed all broken down. After I had taken medicine prescribed by two of our best physicians, a kind neighbor advised me try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I followed her advice, and the result is, I am perfectly well. I do not have the headaches now, sleep well, that tired feeling is vanished, and I am bright and ambitious. I can eat heartily at every meal, and have gained in weight from 95 to 105 pounds. I do not have any distress in my stomach, and epileptic fits, to which I was formerly subject, never trouble me now. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla and do not wish to be without it." Dr. Kilmer's SWAMP-ROOT

CURES A PHYSICAL WRECK!

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—I desire to tell you just how I was, so that the public may know of your wonderful Swamp-Root. Two years ago last October I had spells of vomiting, I could not keep anything in my stomach; the Doctor said I had consumption of the stomach and bowels; continued to run-down in weight; I was reduced to 60 lbs. I would vomit blood, and at one time as much as three pints; we had two of the best Physicians and they said, my case was hopeless. "Oh, my sufferings were terrible." A neighbor told us of your Swamp-Root, and my husband got a bottle; I took it to please him. I used six bottles of Swamp-Root and I am now nearly as well as ever. I weigh 108 lbs., do my own work and take care of my baby. Every one says, I was raised from the dead, and many will not believe that I am still living until they come and see me, and then they can't believe their own eyes, I am looking so well. Very gratefully.

The fashionable fardingales of 1560 were twenty-six feet in circumference.

Queen Margarita of Italy possesses a coral necklace which she always wears, day and night.

Mink is in high favor, its soft shade of brown mingling readily with most of the colors in vogue.

Large, light-colored felt hats have a charming effect trimmed with feathers and shaped to suit the wearer.

The extension of width in shoulders grows and grows, giving, in some cases, a winged aspect to the wearer.

Triple capes edged with fur are very becoming to slight figures, but over a sack-back coat we consider them a failure.

No better or briefer description of Mrs. George M. Pullman can be given than the mention of her resemblance to Patti.

Paris actresses, it is said, wear paper lace, which by night looks as delicate as the best of real lace, while it costs but a trifle. To wear an expensive lot of lace, which may be ruined in one evening, is considered the height of folly.

Plain fine serges have been succeeded by the wide-ribbed varieties which show to such advantage in the plain trained skirts. In tweeds there is a distinct feeling for boucle effects, and fluffy curls break out of unexpected places in the latest textures.

It may be observed that as a general rule, skirts have widened at the top, and plaits and gathers contribute to this effect. In some very stylish examples there are as many as six or seven breadths in a bell skirt, while five straight breadths are seen in round skirts made full.

Bodices which have the stuff cut on the cross are popular, and the linings for them are cut in the usual way. These bias cut corsages, which have seams under the arms and on the shoulders only, unless they are fastened in the front, require a good figure in order to be really effective.

Mrs. Gladstone is said to be as much entitled to be called the "Grand Old Woman" as her husband is to be known as the "Grand Old Man." Although nearly eighty-one years old, she writes many letters to her friends without the aid of glasses, for her eyes are bright and undimmed. While at Hawarden she attends church, three-quarters of a mile away, every morning, driving there and back in her little pony carriage, unattended. Mr. Gladstone goes, too, but he prefers to walk.

TEMPERANCE.

DRUNKENNESS AND FAMINE.

And now comes Count Leo Tolstoi with the assertion that drunkenness was one of the great causes of the recent awful famine in Russia. We begin to wonder if there is any really widespread disaster nowadays to the human family in which the alcohol fiend is not present as a contributing cause or to increase the resulting misery.—The Voice.

INTEMPERANCE AND FEVERS.

The Laws of Life publishes the following concerning "intemperance and fevers:"

Intemperance is rated as one of the chief predisposing causes of yellow fever. "From my own knowledge," says the author of "Tropical Diseases," "as well as from the observation of others, I aver that those who drink nothing but water, or make it their principal drink, are but little affected by the climate, can undergo the greatest fatigue without inconvenience, and are less subject to the contagion of troublesome or dangerous diseases." "For twenty years," Dr. L. C. Warp writes from Sumatra, "I have had the opportunity of observing the comparative effects of the use of of spirituous liquors and less stimulating drinks by different classes of the natives, and I find that while the former expose themselves with impunity to every degree of heat, cold and wet, the latter can endure neither wet nor cold for even a short period without great danger to their health."

HOME DRINKING IN ENGLAND.

The announcement is made that the British Government proposes to deal with the very serious and growing evil of home drinking by women of the middle and lower middle classes. The existence of this vice is due in large measure to granting to retail grocers licenses for the sale of wines, beer and spirits. Since this system was established, about twenty years ago, the drink demon has entered thousands of decent households and has stayed there with consequences that are told almost daily in the police and divorce courts its victims would lose caste if seen drinking in taverns or hotels, but it is deplorably easy for them to arrange with the family grocer to supply an occasional bottle of wine or spirits and enter it in the bill as tea or coffee. The thing is done every day in thousands of homes, and almost the only way to kill it is to abolish the grocer's license, which the Government is expected to do.—New York Sun.

TWO BIG MISTAKES.

How long the belief has prevailed that if you are going out into the cold you cannot stand it without having something to warm you! And people would testify before a court of justice that it did warm them! How many doctors have been giving it, are giving it to-day, when the feet are cold, to help to warm the patient; and yet, says Dr. N. S. Davis, the clinical thermometer tells you accurately, step by step, that from thirty minutes after it is taken, on to the end of its influence, the temperature is diminished—the body is getting cold. The patient would testify the contrary. Why? Simply for the reason that the anæsthetic effect diminishes his consciousness of whether it is cold or not; but he finds out the fact the next morning. Had his sensibility remained he would have known when he was getting cold, and he would adopt the proper precautions.

Look again when July comes, and the sun is pouring down, and the laborer, stripped almost to the skin, is delving or working, and dripping with perspiration. Watch him as he goes in front of that saloon; you will see him go in and take exactly the same drink that he took last January to keep off the cold. You meet him at the door and ask him why he spends his money for such a purpose. From his very looks you judge that his family are poor, and are, perhaps, needing the necessaries of life. He will reply: "Oh! I cannot stand this heat without something to protect me from it"—exactly reversing the case. It warmed him in January, and now it keeps him cool—the same delusion! "It protects him from the heat," he says. The sun's rays permeate him as freely with the alcohol in his blood as it would without it, but he does not realize it; and hence hundreds and hundreds, year after year, persist in this practice till perhaps a sunstroke arrests them and sudden death follows. Leave their brain clear and free from the stupefying effect of alcohol, and they will know when to get on the shady side.

THE GREAT MENACE TO NATIONAL LIFE.

Dr. Ezra M. Hunt, in a series of most valuable articles upon "Race Questions and Health," and the relations of alcohol and tobacco thereto, writes:

"If statistics did not show a large increase in the consumption of alcohol, we would be able to suspect it in studying the etiology of disease and the evidence we have of some worm at the root of the sapling life of the Nation. We have lived amid the colored race before and after and during the war, and tried from a National point to study its relation to National force and perpetuity. We have lived in States passing through the ordeal of restricted tavern license, of free saloon license, of local option, and at last have seen the saloon in politics, and quite a part of the family life of the people. And we find ourselves compelled to say that from a physical, social and sanitary point of view, such as radically effects the prowess and perpetuity of the United States, we regard the present freedom of license and freedom of use of alcoholic beverages as a greater menace to race vitality and so to National life than slavery ever was. It is sustained by the same greed for indolent and easily acquired wealth, it seeks to wield and aggregate for itself the same bold exercise of governmental power, it corrupts physically as well as morally in the same directions, only that it permeates more generally the masses, the family social life. Its bondage is more general. It puts shackles on many a man and woman of misery, of lunacy, of crime, whose clanking is worse than that of the slave mart, and has overseers and dealers as cruel. It sells out of homes or burdens in the homes wives and children, as many as were ever brought to the block in trading marts. If we could be oblivious to all the dire results to individuals, to minds, to souls, to real credit, when we see it seizing upon the vitals of the body politic and endangering the Republic in health as well as morals, in that race vitality which is indispensable to National existence, we may well resolve to let listlessness give way to alarm and alarm to a steady plan for National remedy. Dr. Lord tells us that in Rome loss of race vitality was the first step toward the downfall."

TEMPERANCE NEWS AND NOTES.

Bottled beer is much stronger in alcohol than beer on draught.

The 631 ministers of the free church of Scotland are total abstainers.

The Cossacks and Circassians of the Russian army are mainly Mohammedians and consequently strict testotalers.

Agent Brown, of Pine Ridge Agency, says the Indians desire peace and that the chief danger is from the effects of whisky on them.

Queen Anne, of England, was extremely fond of brandy, and her face became so bloated that among the populace she was known as "Brandy-Faced Nan."

Mrs. Ada M. Bittenbender, after devoting nearly four years to work in behalf of temperance measures in Congress, has resumed her law practice in London, Neb.

The Long Island Railroad Company has informed all its employes that the mere fact that a man drinks liquor will be considered by the company sufficient reason for his discharge.

The St. Louis Hygienic College of Physicians and Surgeons, which admits both men and women, teaches thoroughly and scientifically the fallacy of alcoholic medication. It explains to the students the dangers of wasting vitality with a stimulant.

Dr. Richardson, senior physician in the Temperance Hospital, London, says it is a remarkable fact that the patients who are nonabstainers rarely ask for their accustomed drinks. He says that the absence of the temptation seems to lead to a moral revulsion against its use.

Those who have worked among both classes say that a white barbarian is more hopeless than a black one. As regards morals, some savage tribes, like the Zulus and Maoris, are ahead of certain classes in European countries; at least they do not get drunk until taught or coerced to do so by so-called civilized Nations.

An Apache Torture.

In the summer of 1882, when the Apaches were raiding the ranches and haciendas of southern Arizona, said Thad R. Morris, I was a private in Company K, stationed at Whipple Barracks. The Indians had caused the department ceaseless trouble. We were kept on the march continually, but for two months we failed to get close enough to them to become engaged in a fight. One morning, while we were camped at the base of the Chiracon Mountains, a courier came to the camp bringing the information that a band of about 200 renegade bucks had attacked a small emigrant train about ten miles away and had killed the entire party. We were soon in our saddles and were riding rapidly towards the scene. The day was almost insufferably hot. The sky was not obscured by a single cloud and the sun beat down with excruciating fierceness upon the weary soldiers. When arrived upon the scene of the massacre, we found the bodies lying about on the burning sands horribly mutilated. We had made but a short stop and had mounted our horses to give chase to the redskins, when I heard faint groans. It was some time before we could locate the place whence the agonizing sound came. Finally we found it. The Indians had skinned one of the dead horses and had sewed up a man (whose name was E. R. Tarleton from Ohio) tightly in the green hide. His body was doubled up and the hide was closely tied around him. We released him as quickly as we could, and applied restoratives that soon brought him to himself. But when he gazed around at his murdered family, he drew a knife from his pocket, and before any one could stop him cut his throat.

Tying a man up in a green hide was a new mode of torture to the soldiers. They had never seen it before. But I have since learned that in the early days of that Territory it was not infrequently applied by the Chericans as well as the Apaches.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Curious Antics of Panama Pelicans.

"One of the many singular sights that greet the eye of the traveler in the beautifully picturesque harbor of Panama," said J. F. Foster at the Riggs, "is the curious antics and tumblings of the big long-billed pelicans over a school of fish.

"The pelicans are found, of course, along the entire coast, but one clear, sunny morning as we neared the islands which semi-circle the harbor we observed ahead a flock of probably 300 of the monster birds getting their breakfast. They would fly heavily, yet swiftly, a few hundred feet above the water, and then, head down, wings close to their sides, they would drop like shot, dead weight, splash into the placid blue waters of the Pacific, sending the spray high in the air and disappearing for a second from sight, reappearing with a fish in their bills or already out of sight in the pouch, struggling and splashing a moment on the surface, and rising awkwardly and slowly in the air to repeat the operation.

"Some of the young ones would turn a somersault, landing on their backs, their big heads and heavy bills being too much for them to control always with certainty. To see a big flock of these huge birds splashing like shot in the water, sometimes dropping their prey when in the air, but always making a close finish to the surface with the fish, is a most interesting sight."—Washington Star.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

Priceless Find of a Stone Prospector.

Martin O'Neill, the well-known stone prospector of this city, has made a priceless find of lithographic stone, near Thebes, Alexander County, Ill.

"The tract contains 165 acres," says Mr. O'Neil, "all of which appears to be underlaid with the stone. I have drilled through it, and find that it is 300 feet deep. There is enough lithographic there stone to supply the world for the next 500 years.

"Aside from the steep prices commanded by lithographic stone, as an inducement to persons of stone-studying proclivities to hunt after deposits of this character, is the fact that the Bavarian lithographic stone quarries, from which all now in use, with very few exceptions, was produced, are almost exhausted."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Remarkable Hole in the Rocks.

In Ireland, near Horn Head, in County Donegal, Ireland, there is a remarkable natural hole in the rocks of the seacoast, which is known all over Britain as "McSwiney's gun." It is believed to be connected with a sea cavern. When the sea "runs full" the "gun" sends up jets of water to a height of more than one hundred feet, each spouting being followed and preceded by loud explosions. The "gun is a perfectly smooth hole about ten inches in diameter, and its history can be traced back to the first settling of the country. No one seems to know, however, how it got the name of "McSwiney's gun."—Chicago Herald.

A Scheme to Make Good Indians.

In Arizona there are now nearly 35,000 Indians, distributed among the various tribes as follows: Navajos, 16,285; Moquis, 1976; Apaches, 4829; Pimas and Papagos, 8721; smaller tribes, 2911. In this large body of people there should be material for the backbone of a laboring class of people adapted to the wants of this country in a most admirable manner. They are natives to the soil and climate, hardy as a whole, energetic. They need, however, the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the more modern ideas of agriculture and with horticulture, of which they know nothing, with the breeding and handling of fine stock, and, in fact, they need to be taught in the ways of civilized life, when they will become a useful factor of the Southwest. It is the only solution of the "Indian problem."—Phœnix (Arizona) Herald.

IT COSTS MORE to make Royal Baking Powder than any other, because its ingredients are more highly refined and expensive. But the Royal is correspondingly purer and higher in leavening strength, and of greater money value to the consumer. The difference in cost of Royal over the best of the others does not equal the difference in leavening strength, nor make good the inferior work of the cheaper powders, nor remove the impurities which such powders leave in the food.

Where the best food is required, the Royal Baking Powder only can be used.

World's Fair Souvenir Coins—

The Official Souvenir of the Great Exposition—

5,000,000 of which were donated to the World's Columbian Exposition by the Government, are being rapidly taken by an enthusiastically patriotic people.

As there early promised to be a demand for these Souvenirs that would render them very valuable in the hands of speculators, the Exposition Authorities decided to place the price at and sell them direct to the people, thus realizing $5,000,000, and using the additional money for the further development of the Fair.

Considering the fact that there were but 5,000,000 of these coins to be distributed among 65,000,000 people, in this country alone (to say nothing of the foreign demand,) and that many have already been taken, those wishing to purchase these mementoes of our Country's Discovery and of the grandest Exposition ever held, should secure as many as they desire at once.

For Sale Everywhere

Realizing that every patriotic American will want one or more of these coins, and in order to make it convenient for him to get them, we have made arrangements to have them sold throughout the country by all the leading Merchants and Banks. If not for sale in your town, send $1.00 each for not less than five coins, by Post-office or Express Money-order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft, with instructions how to send them to you, all charges prepaid, to
