THE financial failure of ex-Secretary Foster is to be deplored. He simply had too many irons in the fire.

ALL of these financial failures in New York and the West, and Cleveland in office but three months. This administration will have to brace up in its financial policy or it will beat the record. It has been so busy devising schemes to reduce the tariff that it has not had much time to deal with really great questions that demand its attention. But what could be expected with such a "dandy" Secretary of the Treasury?

THE revenue collectorship of the 23d (Pittsburg) district has been awarded to Edward P. Kearns, of Pittsburg, thus leaving out in the cold Franklin's aspirant, J. S. McGarry, who was supposed all along to have the dead cinch on the plum. But that's the style down at Washington. A basket full of "endorsements" count for no more than a simple application with the right man's recommendation hitched to the bottom. The collectorship pays $4,500 a year, and there are 118 appointments under it, including 19 deputy collectors.

MORE exhibitors are removing their exhibits from Chicago because of Sunday opening of the World's Fair Gates. The latest to take action are the Methodist ministers of New York, who resolved to withdraw the exhibit of the Methodist Church, and the agents of the Methodist Book Concern have been instructed to act promptly if the gates are opened. This shows how the Christians of the country feel on this Sabbath breaking question. They do not propose to countenance or be parties to any desecration of Sunday, and they are a class of people who are outspoken and not afraid to say what they think. That their action will hurt the fair no one pretends to doubt, but the managers of the fair are desperate in their defiance, and will do as they please despite every protest. And they say they are Americans.

It looks as if there will be something done in the matter of a road law. A Senate special committee, having received an intimation from the Governor that he will sign no bill containing an appropriation, at once got together and in a short time constructed a bill out of the half dozen bills prepared in the last six months, taking what it considers the best feature of each. Briefly the bill provides for the levy of a maximum tax of 6 mills for road purposes, places the construction and repair of roads in the hands of a county supervisor, who will direct the township supervisors, and repeals all local road laws including the one permitting road tax to be worked out. This bill may become a law, and if it does we hope to see it work all right, but its changes are very radical. However, as an experiment, let it go. The one feature of doing away with the working out of road tax is a good one and a radical departure from the old laws that seemed so firmly rooted as to be incapable of being repealed. A county supervisor, one who attends strictly to business, and devotes his whole time to the work, ought to do a great deal of good, but he must know something of roads and he must be a practical man. The county roads in almost every county have been the subject of much ridicule and abuse, and rightly so, for they are very bad, and the correction of existing abuses will very much please the people who have to use the roads. —Harrisburg Telegraph.

Gov. PATTON on Friday last vetoed the compulsory education bill, this being his second veto of that measure. He repeats his objections of two years ago. He thinks it is a doubtful experiment, and is not in accord with enlightened sentiment. It will establish a system so intricate, burdensome, elaborate and expensive that it will break of its own weight or be utterly neglected and inefficient. The whole school system will be demoralized and expense increased. The Governor's ideas of what the bill would or would not do are precisely contrary to the combined judgment of two legislatures, and while he may be right and all the others wrong, the people would have liked very much to have tried the experiment at least, and if found of no good could easily have repealed the law before much damage was done. Compulsory education will come sooner or later.

SPEAKING of the income tax, which, it is said, Cleveland favors, the New York Press says: "When David A. Wells was Commissioner of Internal Revenue he asserted that the income tax in force in 1868 was paid by only 250,000 persons out of a total population of 40,000,000."

The Telegraph said recently that it is almost impossible to make an honest collection of income tax, and Mr. Wells' statement bears out our assertion. But why should we have an income tax to help the revenues of the country when we have a system of tariff revenue that not only provides funds but protects American interests? Only for a short time in this country has an income tax been collected during and subsequent to the war period. An income tax is essentially English and the Democratic press which follows where Cleveland leads is loud in its praise of the British income tax. —Harrisburg Telegraph.
