As to Clevelandism and McKinleyism, which would be your honest choice to-day?

It calls back the old "bread or blood" free trade days to read that "thirty-five hundred hungry people were fed with bread, meat and milk" by Denver missions. And this is a land of plenty and peace. The Democratic party has much to answer for.

CLEVELAND'S message may cover an entire page of a newspaper, but he can say a great deal more if he makes it about one column long. The people know what is the matter, and will not be hoodwinked by long-drawn platitudes. Cut it down, Grover, and people will read it.

SENATOR QUAY says that if the House adopts the Reed rules and acts promptly, it may do some work. But there is a kick among the Democratic rank and file when leaders give the least hint of adopting the Reed rules. And the bare mention of Reed's name throws the New York Sun into spasms.

The Democratic organs continue to proclaim that the financial difficulties are at an end, but the news columns of the daily press continue to announce the closing of banks and bankruptcy of commercial and manufacturing establishments all over the country. The number of failures were never so great as at the present time, and yet the people were promised that the millennium would come if they would but restore the Democratic party to the control of this government.—Brookville Republican.

SENATOR HILL is getting ready to be the Democratic Moses, that is to lead the country out of the wilderness. He is an ardent bi-metalist but will advocate a repeal of the Sherman law with the ultimate idea of establishing free coinage. The senator will doubtless make matters very interesting for Mr. Cleveland, who does not propose to allow any one to interfere in the Moses act. The Democratic party is not large enough for more than one Moses, and the coming session of Congress promises to be a greater show than the World's Fair.—Derwick.

The Democrats of Franklin county have endorsed the soundness of Cleveland's views on the financial question. Isn't this taking a leap in the dark? Who knows what Cleveland's views on the financial question are? It is said that he favors the repeal of the Sherman silver law, but he was elected on a platform that would enlarge the scope of the Sherman law rather than contract it. Again they say that the best interests of the country are safe in his hands, yet, while he goes fishing banks go up, industries go down, and the country goes to the demitition bow-wows. The Franklin Democrats must be densely stupid or mediocrally partisan.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THERE is nothing the equal in silliness to the Democratic argument that Governor McKinley is estopped from criticizing the "financial management of President Cleveland," because, as one newspaper puts it, "this Ohio bankrupt didn't know how to manage a small fortune of his own." Governor McKinley, through his well-known kindly disposition, indorsed notes for a friend who was doing a prosperous business that he wished to enlarge, and who furnished evidence of financial soundness. The friend proved false and Mr. McKinley lost his small fortune. Hence, according to Democratic argument, McKinley knows nothing about the tariff or the finances of the country. This is the kind of Democratic wisdom that is copied into the Philadelphia Record. Daniel Webster and many of our great men, including Mr. Randall, were financially bankrupt, but no one ever before heard that this unfitted them for the duties of statesmen. A man who gives his time to his country has little opportunity to look after his private fortune. But it cannot be said that President Cleveland has neglected his private interests. When he was elected Governor of New York the highest estimate put on his wealth by his intimate friends was $30,000. After several years' public service his wealth is now estimated at 500,000, over $100,000 of which was made in a real estate speculation in Washington while he was President. Perhaps this makes Mr. Cleveland a statesman and perhaps it does not.—Phila. Press.

It makes a difference whose ox is gored. When the pension of Judge Long, of Michigan, was stopped on the ground that a man capable of earning $6,000 per year was not totally disabled, there were many inquiries from Republicans as to whether similar action would be taken in the case of General Black, of Illinois, ex-Commissioner of Pensions and now a member of Congress, at a salary of $5,000 per annum. General Black draws a pension of $100 per month on the ground that he is a physical wreck and totally disabled. He was wounded in both arms, but can sign a voucher as well as any other member of Congress. The answer to this is that General Black will not be disturbed. Of course this is explained by the fact that Black is a Democrat and Long is a Republican. Everything goes with Hoke where a Republican is concerned.

Senatorial Election.

Not long since Sergeant-at-Arms of the State Senate Myers served the following notice on Sheriff Osgood of this place, in accordance with which there will be one more person to vote for at the fall election than was calculated on:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENN'A., ss: To the sheriffs of the counties of Cameron, Elk, Clarion and Forest, comprising the thirty-eighth senatorial district of Pennsylvania, greeting:

Whereas a vacancy has occurred in the office of senator of the state of Pennsylvania for the thirty-eighth senatorial district, composed of the counties of Cameron, Elk, Clarion and Forest, by reason of the resignation of the Honorable Harry Alvin Hall, senator from the thirty-eighth senatorial district.

Now, therefore, I, Louis Arthur Watres, president of the Senate, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the constitution of the state of Pennsylvania and by the act of assembly in such a case made and provided, do hereby command you that you cause an election to be held in Cameron, Elk, Clarion and Forest counties, comprising the thirty-eighth senatorial district, on Tuesday, the seventh day of November, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three (the time appointed by law for holding the general election) to choose a person to represent said thirty-eighth senatorial district in the state of Pennsylvania for the remainder of the term expiring November thirtieth, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and that you give due and public notice of said election throughout Cameron, Elk, Clarion and Forest counties, comprising the thirty-eighth senatorial district in the form and manner directed by law.

Given under my hand and seal at Harrisburg the twenty-ninth day of June, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

LOUIS ARTHUR WATRES,
President of the Senate.

What Whitney Says.

The asinine blather of ex-Secretary of the Navy Whitney can scarcely be accepted as an indication of what Cleveland means to do when Congress assembles. Whitney is a millionaire and has very little sympathy with the toiling masses of the country whose wages he proposes to put on a basis with the pauper wages of Europe. What he says about their oppression by taxation is so absurd as not to be worthy of discussion. In the face of thirty years of prosperity he makes statements which are absolutely false, known to be such by every sensible reader of his country's history. His declaration that the Congress, soon to meet, must carry out the declarations of the Democratic platform of last year, considered from his own standpoint is as silly as the rest of his blather. It is generally supposed that President Cleveland called Congress together for the purpose of repealing the silver purchase act, and yet the pledge of the Democratic platform, if it is anything on the subject of silver, is against the repeal of this act. Does Mr. Whitney mean that only such pledges as suit the millionsaire of his own clique will be held to be binding upon a Democratic Congress? If this Congress repeals the Sherman law, it violates his pledges to the people who made Cleveland's election possible. Mr. Whitney believes this violation of a pledge to be in the interest of himself and fellow-millionaires who will not be deprived of a mouthful of food or a single comfort by any legislation possible with Congress, but he is perfectly willing that the laboring man, for whom he sheds crocodile tears, shall be reduced to the level of the foreign paupers who are flocking to our shores in order that his theory of government may be adopted.

The interview with Whitney does not promise good for the country. The last Democratic administration in this country went out with soup houses on the street corners of our large cities and the probabilities are favorable for the re-establishment of soup houses after their thirty years' absence. It is a mighty cold snow we are having in this Democratic weather.—Harrisburg Telegraph.
