The situation in the Senate reminds one of the old-time game between two lovers who go to see one girl at the same time, and try to sit each other out.

COLD FACTS.

The Mirror yesterday referred editorially to the extraordinary depressed condition of trade in Philadelphia, as demonstrated from a canvass made among the factories of that city.

To-day comes a circular from San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21, stating that the condition of business is worse with them than at any previous period, and urging upon printers not to go there, as at present there is in that city "a camp of the unemployed numbering hundreds of men, who sleep in the open air or in rude sheds, their only rations being the 'free soup' made from the contributions of vegetables and meat by charitable market men."

These are cold, hard, discouraging facts, which, although but general news, and besides of a character to make it manifest to the most obtuse American citizen that the Democratic party has not brought the prosperity that it so loudly presaged when with honeyed words they held out enticing allurements to voters.

We say that for all this is now so clear, yet we are loathe to place before our readers these unfortunate results, because although true, it behooves us as Republicans and good citizens to help restore confidence and business, and no better way is there than for each and all to speak encouragingly and hope for better times.

Democracy has placed the country into a very deep ditch, indeed, but the people of the United States have grit and ability to fight their way back to brighter days. The straitened condition will at least have had the good effect of teaching the voters a lesson which will not be lost upon them.

Seers for Pensioners.

Certain Democratic and Mugwump organs of a peculiar and lamentable type do not conceal the sneer with which they ask, referring to the pensioners, whether they went into the war for pay. They seem to think, or wish to intimate, that the act of accepting a pension is a quarter of a century afterward is proof irrefutable that the person so accepting was animated in the first instance by a sordid and ignoble motive.

This is not the right way to treat the question. Those who revile the pensioners by hint and innuendo are as wide of the mark as those who hail every inquiry into a pension award as covert rebellion and calculated treason.

Both classes are fanatics, both are disturbers and incendiaries. No one who knew the men composing the Union Army, and who wished at the same time to tell the truth, would insinuate that they shouldered their muskets for a mercenary purpose.

There was more money for able men in staying at home during those four years of tragedy—infinitely more—than in entering the Army. The only men who made pecuniary profit by the transaction were those who had neither the brains nor the industry to win a livelihood in civil life.

to imbeciles and drones. All this disparagement of the pensioners is silly and mischievous. It is neither honest or becoming. There is just one proper course for the Government to pursue, and that is to go ahead and detect and punish every imposter on the rolls.

Bad Business.

The recent sales of woolen goods in New York showed a lamentable dull condition of trade, utterly discouraging to the manufacturers. This should be a lesson to the "tariff reform" Congressmen, and induce them to keep hands off and not throw open the American markets to foreign goods.

Said a leading auctioneer yesterday: "Not for a great many years have I seen our woolen industry so completely paralyzed as it is to-day. I have been selling goods of the best mills in the country, goods which have a reputation as to quality and finish that has stood the test for years and are recognized as standard articles, for less than half the cost to manufacture, and even at these figures it is very hard to find purchasers, as the retailers are buying nothing except for actual needs."

A member of one of our leading commission houses of this city, which in good times does a business running up into the millions, when approached on the subject, said: "The woolen business is stagnant. It is impossible to make any sales and what are made are at the buyers own terms. Hardly an offer, no matter how ridiculously low, is refused. We have a large stock on hand, and all the mills are also carrying a large line, and there is a rush to get rid of them even at ruinous prices. The uncertainty as to what Congress will do in regard to a tariff bill has caused a rush to get rid of all manufactured goods, lest they may go still lower. One year ago this month we did a business of $150,000. This month it amounts to $25,000."

It would hardly be expected that under such lamentable conditions the free traders would endeavor to still further pull down American industries, but that is just what they are doing, and they will keep up their efforts until they are successful.

Only 1,182 Pensions A Week.

The difficulties of the old soldier are not likely to be lessened much for the balance of his life unless he belongs to that class who live forever. It has taken an ordinary lifetime to get his pittance, and now it looks as though he must live another in order to secure what he already has.

The working force of the Pension Department is more than 5,000 divided about equally between clerks and doctors. The average number of pensions adjudicated per week is about 1,182. From this it may be seen that it takes five men a week to pass upon one case, and the entire 5,000 only average two-fifths of 1 per cent. of a case a day. Thus it takes twenty-five and a half men working an entire day to allow a pension to an old soldier.

The amount of red tape gone through with and the passing from one department to another is enough to confuse the greatest mathematician who ever figured the distance to the sun or counted the number of hairs on the whiskers of the man in the moon.

Now when considered that in the case of every suspension it will take an equal amount of time and the measuring of all the red tape, it begins to look as though the last veteran will be far beyond the need of a pension and safe in "Abraham's bosom" long before the last mile of tape is measured.

The average age of the war veteran is above 50 years, and there is not a brilliant prospect before them of reaching the half score mark beyond that. The hardships endured in their younger days is telling upon them. Already the muster out roll is growing at a rapid pace, and whatever is to be done for them must be done quickly.

ate will be in receipt of his pension while the thousands of Union soldiers will be looking for the "completed files" from Washington. The necessity for all this slowness is not apparent, and if 5,000 are not enough to do the work the Government will have no difficulty in engaging 50,000 more. There are plenty of clerks to be had, and doctors enough to poison the world are annually being turned out of the hoppers of our medical schools. The rising generation are noting all these things, and a government that does not treat its veterans with due regard may want for help when the day of trial comes.—New York Press.

Those farmers who voted for Cleveland and dollar wheat still have the wheat. The dollar seems to have escaped.

CHOLERA is declining in Russia, but it is more than holding its own in Italy in the dirty towns along the sea coast. From all accounts no efforts are being made to suppress it.

"DEMOCRATIC good times" have made it necessary for the Philadelphia Inquirer to distribute 23,000 loaves of bread to unemployed workmen and their families in that city. This is the kind of good work necessitated by the change that was voted for last fall, but the Inquirer seems to be doing it to the satisfaction of the man out of work.
