Cool nights with frosts will follow all these disturbances. -Mr. Willis Brace has moved into the The 24th and 25th are reactionary storm centers, and will be followed also with frost. The month will end with a growing warm wave, and with storms advancing from western extremes of the country.

-The largest raft, so said by old lum bermen, ever run out from the upper Tionesta creek was piloted down one day last week by Stephen Cooper, from the mouth of Fools creek. It contained nearly 70,000 feet of lumber, and toploaded with several thousand feet of boat siding; was 24 feet wide and 23 courses deep. Two of Balltown's brave young ladies, Misses Gertie Griffin and Nellie Jackson, took passage on the raft, and rode over all the dams along the creek, until Nebraska was reached, when the -'Squire J. F. Proper, who has been pilot's better judgment prevailed upon erected bridge below the mill some of the again. "stagging" was knocked down and almost completely covered the raft. This was too much for the forward hands and the first of the month. they jumped off to save themselves, and pilot Cooper was left to manage things from that on.

-The rafting season on Tionesta creek is already about over for this year. Time was when the breaking up of the winter ce marked the beginning of the rafting business and the end came only when the summer's sun licked up the waters and made running impossible. But those were the halcyon days of the lumbering industry along the "Tionesta," and any one now on the sod knows of. Twenty board and 18 timber rafts is the output from Salmon creek this year, while further up the creek, Cooper Bros., and White & Co. have each a number of pleces out. Flynn & Weller cut of the grand Russian Wedding March out a small "Allegheny" on the Whiteman & Bauer mill above Newtown, and are now on the way to market with it. So we say, the "rafting" is all over with this season. There are three principal reasons for this shortness of season: scarcity of timber, shipment by rail, and the building of boats and barges. 'Tis and to reflect that the first of these reasons should exist, but that don't help the matter any. Facts are facts no matter how stubborn.

-Any sudden change in the condition of the atmosphere is certain to bring its harvest of coughs and colds. These, if suffered to run on are likely to terminate in consumption; but they may be readi-
