The well is located between the main road and creek, in a place which Smith pronounces one of the most forbidding and lonesome on God's earth where the innocent drillers will be effectually protected from the curiosity of visitors for no one would be fool enough to go along that road unless compelled to do so. The well is now claimed to be 4,000 feet in depth and it is now proposed to drill it to a depth of 6,000 feet. They have lately struck a soft slaty substance which caves and runs in from which the drillers anticipate trouble more or less in their further progress. Owing to the unusual depth already drilled, considerable breakage and many breakdowns have taken place in the machinery, etc. The drilling outfit consists of a derrick of the usual height, but of double was caused by the oversetting or explosstrength on top, and part way triple ion of certain tanks belonging to the strength. ### DIED.

ANDREWS-At his late residence of Church Hill, Hickory township, Forost county, Pa., at 7:50 o'clock Saturday morning, May 26th, 1894, Daniel Audrews, aged 53 yrs, 3 mo. and 18 days. The subject of this notice was well known throughout this section as a hard working and industrious man. His reverses in this life came fast and severe. A few years ago he lost his leg above the knee by amputation. As soon as he was able to be about he cheerfully went to work as best he could; he was not disheartened over his misfortune and seldom refered to it. Next came an attack of la grippe in a severe form, which left him a constitutional wreck. It soon became evident that the final crisis was near. He sought and found peace with God while passing through affliction, and left behind evidence of his acceptance through faith in Jesus. On the eventful morning of his departure he called his family to his bedside and gave them the farewell hand, with kind admonitions to meet him in the better World. The moment he finished, and while still sitting up in bed, the spirit took its flight from the afflicted earthly prison house, wafted by angelic hosts across the line of worlds into the sweet beyond. The family and friends did all in their power for his comfort during his illness of many long. weary months, but God alone giveth His children rest.

On Sabbath day, at 2 p. m., funeral services were held at the home of the family, which is all grown up, Rev. Fink officiating, after which, in the presence of a 3. Examinations will commence at 9 large concourse of friends, the remains side Cemetery at Tionesta, to await the G. W. KERR, Supt. Forest Co., Pa. final reveille. Capt. George Stow Post 274, had charge of the services.

EST The dentistry of the horse is a science in itself. Horses' teeth the cause of disagreeable habits. Horses having diseased teeth are hard to keep in condition, and if poor, it is impossible to fatten. There are few horses, young or old, without more or less sharp-edge or rough projections upon their molars. The sharpe edges lacerate the mouth, caosing torture to the horse, and he tries in various ways to rid himself of the trouble. Some start suddenly or stop short, toss the head, drool or stopher; others shy, drive sideways or hold their head in an unnatural manner. Improper grinding of food causes indigestion, and indigestion produces loss of appetite, hide-hound, swellen limbs, starring or dead like coat of hair, coughing, discharges at the ness, running at the eyes, etc.

All irregularities of molars or incisors easily removed. Practical experience enables me to give satisfaction in all cases: Have inc roomy stalls for the treatment of all disabled animals. All calls promptly attended to, night or day.

No charge for examination at office.
