Republican League Convention.

Philadelphia, Penna., August 4th, 1894. The Seventh Annual Convention of the Republican League of the State of Pennsylvania, to elect officers, and transact such other business as may be necessary, will be held in the Opera house, Harrisburg, Penna., on Wednesday, September 5th, 1894, at 10 o'clock, a. m. All clubs should, as soon as possible, elect three delegates and three alternates, and certify their names and P. O. addresses to these headquarters. The annual dues, if not already paid, should be sent to the Treasurer at once; as August 27th is the last day they can be paid to entitle clubs to representation in the Convention. The Republican club of Harrisburg, and the Local Reception Committee, are making extensive and generous preparations for the entertainment of the delegates and friends. Delegates and Alternates must report on arrival at the Headquarters, The Lochiel, Harrisburg, Pa. Low rates for transportation have been applied for, and full and further particulars will be sent when credentials are forwarded. A mass meeting will be held in the Opera house in the evening of September 5th, at which Speakers of National Importance, the National officers of the League, and the State Candidates will be present, and address the delegates and the young Republicans present. This Convention will be the opening gun of the gubernatorial campaign. Let every club be represented, and all young Republicans unite to manifest to the country Pennsylvania's steadfast adherence to Republican principles, and her deep detestation of the Democratic Administration and Congress, which has for many months labored to destroy our most valued industries; depreciate the reward of the wage earner; bring chaos to our financial and commercial institutions, and make that wealth and prosperity, which was the chief glory of the Nation under the Republican rule, a remote and forgotten tradition. Further information will be promptly furnished by addressing these headquarters. Do not forget the election of Delegates and Alternates, and the payment of dues to the Treasurer before the 27th inst. Very respectfully, JOHN B. ROBINSON, President.

The Free Text Books.

The first year of general application of the free text book law to the schools of Pennsylvania has proved its unequalled success, when viewed from the standpoint of either the parent, pupil or teacher. A canvass of the state through communications with the county superintendents, made by "The Post," has established the fact of the successful operation of the law to even a higher degree than its warmest supporters hoped to attain. In soliciting information from superintendents as to the results of their observations of the practical operation of the law in the 67 counties of the state, they were requested to note both its advantages and disadvantages. Without a single exception the replies show that, under the new law, the attendance in all schools has increased; that the teachers are better able to classify their pupils; more pupils study the higher branches, and that money is saved to the taxpayer. The children of the poor are for the first time placed on an equality with those of the rich, many of the former being able to attend school who were heretofore prevented by want of books. The parents are relieved of the anxiety, trouble, annoyance and difficulty of providing books. The teacher has no trouble to have his pupils study all the branches for he is able to provide each the right book at the right time. In the mining and lumbering regions, where the population is constantly changing, the law is a boon to the poorer classes, inasmuch as new books are not needed with every change of residence. One most beneficial result is the increased interest taken in the schools by parents and their greater anxiety to have their children attend more regularly. Under the old system many parents were either indifferent or opposed to having their children pursue the higher branches, and would not provide the necessary books.

"OLD GLORY" shelters and protects them all. The Chinese in Japan and the Japanese in China have placed themselves under the protection of the United States representatives in these countries, and breathe free now that the Stars and Stripes wave over them. This is a great country. It not only takes care of itself, but it shelters in foreign countries the people of other lands.
