

BENJAMIN B. TILLMAN was elected United States Senator from South Carolina on Tuesday of last week, defeating General Butler, the one-legged Confederate soldier, who has been in the Senate since 1877.

The Democrats in Chicago's Council are trying to prevent an investigation of the city departments. This recalls the attitude of Flower and Gilroy on the Lexow matter. Evidently the New York and Chicago Democrats are the same breed of cats.

SENATOR QUAY presented a voluminous petition from the citizens of Pennsylvania, urging the passage of the pending bill restricting immigration by excluding Anarchists and other undesirable applicants for admission, and establishing a consular inspection abroad.

The gold hungry leeches of Europe are again pumping the yellow metal out of the treasury reserve so greedily that Mr. Carlisle may soon have to sell another lot of bonds in order to keep the vaults from being totally emptied. The speculative manipulators of the world's gold supply never fail to have fun with a man like Mr. Carlisle when they find him at the head of a nation's financial affairs.—N. Y. Tribune.

A CORRESPONDENT of a Pittsburg paper says there is no longer any doubt that Representatives Sibley and Kribbs are very much dissatisfied with the treatment they have received from Revenue Collector Kearns, of Pittsburg, and incidentally from Representative Sipe, who is looked upon as Mr. Kearns' sponsor. This dissatisfaction is about to take a tangible form in charges being preferred against Mr. Kearns. In other words, the Collector's official scalp will soon be dangling in the air if the amount of war paint which these chieftains have of late displayed counts for anything.

A PAMPHLET issued by Secretary Harry gives the votes cast for all candidates at the recent election. It is the first time in the history of the Commonwealth that this has been done in so complete a form. A few of the figures are worth remembering, the event being unprecedented, in totals as well as in majorities, with the exception of Presidential years. The vote for Governor Hastings is 574,801. His opponent, Mr. Slingerly, received 333,404 votes. Twenty-six congressmen were elected by Republicans, the aggregate majorities being 261,051, while two Democrats were elected to this office, their combined majority being only 2,145.

It is a significant fact that a change of 1,000 votes in the Berks district would have elected a Republican from that Democratic stronghold, while a change of 100 in the Northampton district would have brought about a similar result there. If this could have been understood before the election both districts would have been won and the Democrats thus left without a single representative in Pennsylvania.

In a very sensible article the Philadelphia Times discusses gift newspapers, and the constantly increasing demand by individuals, debating societies and libraries, more or less important, upon newspapers for free copies. The Times sensibly says that it would be much better if those libraries and countless places that have somewhat of a public character, would pay for newspaper literature. If they did, they would place a value upon a paper, and not toss it about with little thought or care. No newspaper can afford to have a large free list, or in fact any free list at all. The newspaper is a legitimate business enterprise. It can not afford to give away that upon which it depends for its existence. No more can it be constantly draining its resources and bowing to the requests of a hundred quarters, than could a merchant be constantly making gifts of his stock to patrons who apparently had some hold upon his friendship. If a newspaper is not worth paying for it is not worth having. In every city there are a large number of people, who feel, that because they are of some importance in the community, they should have a free copy of the leading newspaper. And it is often the case that this class is the very first to criticize the newspaper itself for being a poor paper, or representative of the town; when if they paid their subscription the paper would give a much better publication.

BOTH House and Senate have dealt so kindly at this session with General Henderson's Shiloh National Park bill as to increase the regret that General Sickles' National Park bill was not advanced sufficiently to profit by this friendly disposition of the national park idea. The Shiloh bill passed the Senate yesterday and now goes to the President. The Gettysburg bill has been reported to the House, and in some lull of more urgent business it is hoped it will be taken up and passed and sent to the Senate in time to become a law at this session. The Shiloh battlefield is a neglected and unsightly piece of ground, and an appropriation of $75,000 is made to enable the Secretary of War to buy the land and begin to get it into shape for the monuments which it is expected that the several commands of both armies will erect there. It is right and fitting that these great battlefields of the war should be set apart and preserved in recognition of the great deeds done there, and to preserve as far as possible the field as it was at the time of the conflict, that the battle may be studied where under the conditions it was fought. The passage of the Shiloh and Gettysburg bills by this Congress will be a very considerable item to its credit.

General Hastings' Inauguration.

Gen. Hastings and family will be the guests of Mrs. Margaret Haldeman, widow of the late Congressman Richard Haldeman and daughter of the late Simon Cameron, and of Gov. Pattison and family at the executive mansion before the inauguration. On the last Saturday before the quadrennial event Gen. Hastings and family will leave Bellefonte for Harrisburg, and on their arrival they will be conveyed to the old Cameron mansion on Front street, where they will be entertained until Monday. On that day they will dine at the executive mansion as the guests of the Pattisons and lay plans for a four years' sojourn in that imposing building.

The inauguration is expected to be one of the most notable in the history of these events, but the military feature of it will not equal some of its predecessors. Only three regiments of the National Guard, one battery of artillery and one troop of cavalry will constitute the military part of the parade. These organizations will be formed into a provisional brigade, the commander of which has not yet been designated. Adj. Gen. Greenland and Col. Thomas J. Stewart have been in consultation relative to the inauguration, but definite action was deferred until the appointment of the inaugural committee, to be named at the beginning of the session of the Legislature. The political club display in the parade is expected to be very large and fine.
