WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1895,

THERE are 13,230,168 men in this our borders.

THE debt statement shows a net increase in the public debt, less each in the treasury during January of $13,452,575. Total cash in the treasury, $761,470,332.

SECRETARY CARLISLE'S discovery of a surplus is being heraled far and wide by the Democratic press. Go slow, friends! Secretary Carlisle has discovered so many surprising Treasury bonanzas that failed to eventuate that it is not well to cackle too soon.

OUR CREDIT AS IT SHOULD BE.

There has been some figuring as to the damage done the credit of the country by the authorities in Washpressed in the rate at which a Government loan could be placed. The New York Tribune thinks it is about equal to 1 percent., but this is too low This calculation is based on the fact that the Government could have bor rowed money a few years ago at 21 percent. As a matter of fact $25,-000,000 at the 4 1-2s which came due in 1891, and which were not paid, were renewed at 2 percent, and they paralleled blizzard, beginning on Thursday night and extending into a greater part of Saturday, blockading all railroad traffic, and hindering the members from getting home; hence a larger percentage of solons is noticeable on "the Hill" than is usual during the Friday-Monday recess.

Speaking of the blizzard, the like of it was probably never before known to this section, and such a complete stagnation of all kinds of travel it would seem could hardly be brought about in a single night. The thermometer ranged from zero to several degrees below with the wind blowing a terrific gale for 24 hours, piling un mountains of snow in all

Among the important bills which will come up this week on final paseage is the Marshall pipe line repeal bill. This bill is designed to repeal the law of 1883 prohibiting the consolidation of competing pipe lines. The independent producers and refiners are fighting the bill, and committies representing both sides have been heard before the corporations committee of the House during the past week. A vote on the final passage, of the measure will likely be

day. It will pass without question, and there the farmers will have a cabinet position in the State adminis tration and the great farming interests of the Commonwealth will have

This bill was reported from the agricultural committee, and has some champions among the members of that cummittee, but it seems to have ust as strong opponents among the grangers; in fact its bitterest oppocountry of military age, and every one ready to take up arms against culated to hamper their industry than culated to hamper their industry than feb. Term, 1895 - S. D. Irwin, Attorsition comes from some of the farway of forest preservation. The bill provides for the appointment of district fire wardens whose business it is to issue permits to those wanting to burn brosh, clearings, and the like. So that before a person can legally set fire to his brush-heap, he must first go to the fire warden and get his permission, or be subject to arrest and fine of $50. These and other severo restrictions have arrayed a great many farmers and others against the bill who would otherwise gladly support a measure involving the principles sought to be carried out in this.

There are fish and game bills galore already on the calendar, but any man who wears bair could not tell what they all mean. You could pick out about anything and everything wanted in the shape of protection or the sound to the sound to the shape of protection or the sound to the sound to the shape of protection or the sound to the shape of the material change in the laws as they now exist, crude and inconsistent as they are. Dear Sirs—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty eigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give u, the use of tobacco for the time be ug, at least. I tried the so-called "Keely C rc," "No-To-lac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible claving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.

Yours very truly, C. W. Honnick.
