A Warning From Webster.

"He who tampers with the currency robs labor of its bread. He pauders, indeed, to greedy capital, which is keen sighted and may shift for itself, but he beggars labor, which is honest, unsuspecting and too busy with the present to calculate for the fuclasses lives, moves and has its being in established credit and a steady medium of payment. All sudden changes destroy it. Honest industry never comes in for any part of the spoils in that scramble which takes place when the currency of a country is disordered. Did wild schemes and projects ever benefit the industrious? Did violent flunctuations ever do good to him who depends on his daily labor for his daily bread? Certainly never. All these things may gratify greediness for sudden gain, or the rashness of dasing speculation, but they can bring nothing but injury and distress to the homes of patient industry and honest labor."—Daniel Webster, New York, March ture.
