

THE FOREST REPUBLICAN.

J. E. WENK, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1896.

"MACRO" is pronounced Mah-say-oh with the accent on the second syllable.

The latest and most pertinent interpretation of Weyler's words "I simply pushed the button, the assassins did the rest."

When Sherman says "it will not do to issue any more bonds in time of peace," he simply reiterates what the people said at the recent election.

If the United States has a right to interfere for the prevention of a war in Venezuela, it surely has a right to interfere for the stopping of one in Cuba.

Doctors are trying to prove that there is no such disease as hydrophobia. What a lot of people have died through a misapprehension of the situation?

The sheep raisers have about concluded that the so-called tariff reformers of the Cleveland type have pulled the wool over their eyes long enough.

A TARIFF for revenue is all right for Uncle Sam, but a tariff for protection is what Uncle Sam's seventy million nephews and nieces need.—Providence, R. I., News.

That there may be no mistake in the present crisis about his sympathy for the farming element in Kansas, Senator Peffer now manures his whiskers with a curry-comb.

A SILVERITE, Mr. Goodnight, is a candidate for Judge in Kentucky. If the people down there vote next time as they did last time it will be good day to his chances of election.

In the only battle Weyler has won he seems to have killed a general and all his staff under a flag of truce, the insurgent army being absent. Perhaps it will be considered a famous victory—in Spain.

The commercial world never gets frightened at a proposed advance in tariff duties. It is the proposition to reduce duties that creates alarm, frightens capital and stagnates business.—Madison, Wis., State Journal

CUBA and the Philippines are many thousand miles apart, but the result of Spanish despotism in both is the same. If Yankee filibusters are to blame for the war in Cuba, who is at the bottom of the similar revolution on the other side of the earth?

ACCORDING to the report of the Secretary of the Navy, the cruiser Dolphin steamed 10,201 miles last year without once springing a leak; and yet this is the vessel that Secretary Whitney declared to be practically useless on account "structural weaknesses."

It is reported that Gov.-elect Tanner, of Illinois, has decided to recognize only gold Democrats in making appointments that go by law to the Democratic party. He insists that the silver men are not Democrats, and the fact can be proved by quoting the Chicago platform against them.

SEPARATE electoral tickets for Bryan and Watson received about 110,400 votes in the different states, and if these are added to the Bryan and Sewall vote McKinley's plurality will be about 700,000, to which Palmer and Buckner's 132,000 might be annexed as a measure of the sound money plurality.

A BOSTON paper hopes to see the day when cities will be chimneyless, and supplied with light heat and power generated miles away. But in case the current is interrupted a chimney would be a nice thing to have. It is also good for ventilation, and the option of a cheerful open fire is not to be despised.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS says that the anti-trust law was formulated by Mr. Edmunds, "the most practical legislator of the age," and the man who framed a similar law that "strangled polygamy to death." Therefore, he thinks, and the idea seems reasonable, that the trusts can be smashed by simply carrying out this measure in an honest and resolute way.

WHILE Minister de Lome is apologizing for the Maceo stories from Cuba, which he says misrepresents Spain, he might explain why truthful American newspaper correspondents are not permitted to remain in Cuba and learn the facts. Senor de Lome has a hard time apologizing for some things in connection with Spain's conduct of affairs in Cuba.

THE statistics show that since last July the shipment of apples to Europe have been from 150,000 to 175,000 barrels a week, the total up to December 1 exceeding 1,750,000 barrels, which surpasses all previous records. This is one of the American products for which the foreign demand is constantly increasing, with but little competition from other countries.

HON. ROWELL G. HORN, ex-Congressman from Michigan, and whose lectures before the Forest County teachers' institute two years ago delighted the large audiences which heard him, died at Plainfield, N. J., on Friday night last. He was remarkably effective in debate, and his successive terms in Congress showed how well his abilities were appreciated by his constituents. A sturdy partisan, Mr. Horn was nevertheless unselfish and self-sacrificing, and by his labors on the stump in the recent campaign—labors which undoubtedly shortened his life—he rendered a national service to the sound money principle which will cause his name to be gratefully remembered far beyond the confines of his own state. The Republican party has lost a great advocate in his death.

THE announcement that Senator-elect McEnery of Louisiana will aid in the passage of a protective tariff bill through the next Congress should create no surprise. He has long been known as favoring protection for sugar, rice and lumber, and naturally if he favors looking after the interests of his own state he will not be averse to protecting the interests of other states. The Democratic New Orleans Picayune says that Mr. McEnery "will not quibble about party lines and affiliations. He says he will not, and that he will favor every measure that will benefit Louisiana, and that he is in favor of giving to other states what he asks in legislative matters for his own." The experience of the people of Louisiana with the present Administration and the treachery it showed towards the sugar planters has doubtless convinced them that they must look to the Republican party for any adequate and permanent protection of their interests.

THERE was nothing inherently improbable in the report of the murder of Maceo by the Spaniards, even before the intelligence came which seems to confirm the story. This barbarity is in line with other Spanish crimes in the present and preceding uprisings in Cuba. Twenty-three years ago the world was horrified at the news of the slaying of Gen. Canby and one or two companions by the Modocs while on a peace commission to these savages, but the latest reports show that Maceo's assassination was attended with features of infamy which were absent in the case of the American General's murder. The entire war in Cuba has been characterized on the part of the Spanish by crimes which recall the acts of Ghenghis Khan.

This latest outrage shocks civilization, will take away from Spain the small amount of sympathy which Europe had for her in her struggle, and will hasten Cuban recognition by the United States. The Modoc murderers were hanged, and it is a pity that justice cannot be wreaked on Weyler and his companion barbarians who concocted or executed this crime.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A Constitutional Circle. The Government circles at Washington seem to be all torn up over the constitutional question whether a resolution by Congress can constitute the act of recognition, or whether the President has that authority so exclusively that he could ignore such a resolution as has been approved by the Senate Committee. There are the most widely conflicting opinions on the point, and the state of belligerence in Washington over it is hardly less indispensible than the mosted state of belligerence in Cuba.

So much can be said on both sides of the constitutional issue that we hesitate to go into the discussion of the conflicting theories. It is, perhaps, unnecessary, in view of the fact the President and Congress will have to settle it between themselves, anyhow, probably with the assistance of the Supreme Court, and the suggestion that Secretary Olney has proposed his theory only for the allayment of the Spanish exasperation which has reached a stage closely approximating insanity. But one practical point is worth noting. While the exact constitutional division of power between the Executive and Congress on the declaration of war and diplomatic action, involving possible hostilities, is doubtful and complicated, it is plain that effective and vigorous measures cannot be taken unless Congress and the President are in full agreement and can act harmoniously to effect their common purpose.

This consideration may inject into the constitutional dispute the practical reflection that, while Congress may have the theoretical power to lead the horse to water, it cannot make him drink.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A State Full of Candidates.

Somebody who was interested in making a collection of the names of candidates for United States Senator in the several commonwealths of this great republic, has addressed circulars to the secretaries of state asking for information. The reply from Idaho's secretary of state is worth quoting in part. He says:

"In answer to your inquiry of the 1st inst. I have to state that it will be utterly impossible to give you a list of the names of the probable candidates for the United States Senate. So far as I am able to find out, there is only one Populist in the State of Idaho who is not a candidate for the United States Senate, and he is dead."

The men of Idaho are patriotic, and not one of them shrinks when called upon to be measured for a toga. Since the secretary of state wrote this letter, the Supreme Court of Idaho has decided that women are entitled to vote, as the amendment to the Constitution extending the suffrage was carried by a plurality of votes, though not by a majority. This decision adds the women to the men as candidates for the United States Senate, for if they are entitled to vote they are also eligible to hold office. In this particular, Idaho excels West Virginia in the anxiety of its citizens for official place, for in our neighbor State the women have no chance.

TESTIMONIALS.

From Citizens of Pennsylvania who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. W. W. Spiller, drug clerk, with J. W. McConnell, Parnassus, Pa., says: "I was out all one night last winter and contracted a severe cold. I was so hoarse for a week I could hardly speak. Knowing how well customers of our store spoke of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I concluded to try it. One-half of a bottle cured me entirely."

J. A. Van Valzel, Hughesville, Pa., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven so valuable that I do not hesitate to recommend it to any one."

Dr. F. Winger, Ephrata, Pa., says: "Mr. J. D. Kluge, a cigar maker of this place, reports a complete cure of his cough with a 30-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy after he had tried others which had failed." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by G. W. Bovard.

Mr. T. F. O'Donnell, a well known druggist of Parsons, Pa., in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy says: "Several times in the last few years when suffering with cramp or diarrhoea I have made a personal test of the value of this remedy. The effect is instantaneous, and it always cures them." For sale by G. W. Bovard.

"Excuse me," observed the man in spectacles, "but I am a surgeon, and that is not where the liver is." "Never your mind where the liver is," retorted the other, "if it was in his big toe or his left ear DeWitt's Little Early Bitters would reach it and make it for him. On that you can bet your zig-lamps." Heath & Killmer.

Scaly eruptions on the head, chapped hands and lips, cuts, bruises, scalds, burns are quickly cured by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is at present the article most used for piles, and it always cures them. Heath & Killmer.

Absolutely pure, perfectly harmless, and invariably reliable are the qualities of One Minute Cough Cure. It never fails in colds, croup and lung troubles. Children like it because it is pleasant to take and it helps them. Heath & Killmer.

To cure cold sores, to heal an indolent ulcer, or to speedily cure any sore, you need simply apply DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve according to directions. Its magic-like action will surprise you. Heath & Killmer.

The old lady was right when she said, the child might die if they waited for the doctor. She saved the little ones life with a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. She had used it for croup before. Heath & Killmer.

Soothing, and not irritating, strengthening, and not weakening, small but effective—such are the qualities of DeWitt's Little Early Bitters, the famous little pills. Heath & Killmer.

The length of life may be increased by lessening its dangers. The majority of people die of lung troubles. These may be averted by promptly using One Minute Cough Cure. Heath & Killmer.

The old way of delivering messages by post-boys compared with the modern telephone, illustrates the old tedious methods of "breveting" colds compared with the almost instantaneous cure with One Minute Cough Cure. Heath & Killmer.
