

Republican County Committee Meeting.

The members of Republican Co. Committee of Forest County are requested to meet at the Court House in Tionesta, Pa., Tuesday evening, Apr. 13, 1897, at 8:00 p. m., for the purpose of fixing a date for holding the Republican Primary Election in said county and the transaction of such other business as may be necessary.

DEMOCRATIC opposition to the new tariff bill takes the form in the House of trying to obstruct every item. Ten days for this nullishness is a large allowance.

SPAIN now has another plan to end the Cuban war, and they tell us it is better than the old one. It could easily be that and still permit the Cuban war to go on as before.

As the House of Representatives will have nothing to do until the Senate acts on the Dingley bill we recommend that it devote that time to serious thought. The Democrats especially stand in sad need of it.

SOME newspapers of a suspicious nature appear to be very much exercised over a statement from Washington that the President acts as though he were glad to see every person who calls. This is so foreign to their ideas of what constitutes a gentleman that they are certain he must have some deep and dark designs in view.

BUSINESS is represented to be "quiet." This is usually the case when tariff changes are under way. Not till the Dingley bill is in final shape can the great industries adjust themselves to the coming conditions. This is why President McKinley acted wisely in bringing Congress together early, and why the Republicans in the House are sensible in pushing the bill vigorously.

THAT mysterious airship still continues to show itself in the West. It was first seen in California, and it has now reached Kansas. With rare modesty it only makes its appearance at night, and then but little is visible except the lights that are on board of it. The fact that the scores of people who have seen it at different times all agree in the descriptions which they furnish is certainly something in favor of the truth of the story.

It is the purpose of the French government to add to its already fine navy 45 warships of the most improved design and 175 torpedo boats. The aggregate cost of these vessels will be between $150,000,000 and $160,000,000, and their construction is to be accomplished within eight years.

It is impossible for an idle man to keep together a stock of knowledge which he may have attained at college. In order to keep even, to say nothing of improvement, we must digest and assimilate a sufficient amount of new facts each day, and form a sufficient number of new ideas to make up for those that are constantly fading from our memories.

The Tariff.

The following speech made by congressman W. C. Arnold we take from the Congressional Record of April 1st. Mr. ARNOLD said:

Mr. Chairman: I had not intended at the beginning of the discussion of this bill to take any part in it, but when the great interests of my district are attacked by the other side I can not keep silent. I have the great honor to represent in this House a district which I believe has been mining more coal and manufacturing more hemlock lumber than any Congressional district in the United States.

I believe this bill will accomplish our design. In my district we have vast forests of hemlock timber, and we want to cut it. And we want again to employ our idle men at good wages, and desire to receive fair prices for our lumber.

In 1882 an honest but misguided people elected a President and Congress which gave us the Wilson bill of 1894. From that hour down to the present time there has been a blight on our industries, and no district has felt it more than mine.

than that which ever penetrated the minds of the advocates of free trade and free silver, and you on the other side of this Chamber must learn that the gleam of the woodman's axe and the greatheartedness of his manhood are brighter and truer than your 50-cent dollars. And you must further learn that the drops of sweat on the honest brow of toil are more noble and honest than free trade theories, which always lead to penury and want. [Great applause.]
