KELLETTVILLE'S AWFUL FIRE.

Three Persons Burned to Death and Several Others Injured. The Brooklyn Hotel and a Dwelling House Consumed.

The most horrifying catastrophe that has ever been known in Forest county occurred on Sunday morning last at Kellettville, on Tionesta creek, fifteen miles east of this place, when the Brooklyn House, a two-and-a-half-story building, burned, and with it three human beings. The dead are-

His cries and pounding on the walls of his room aroused others, who in turn awakened their comrades, so that all except the three doomed victims, there being 19 persons in the house at the time, escaped alive. But for Mr. Bank head's thoughtful, prompt and persistent efforts doubtless al! on the second and

SUPPOSED ORIGIN OF PIRE. Very few theories have been advanced mere conjectures. At first it was thought the flames were started by the explosion of a lamp in the room occupied by the old gontleman, Tucker, who was said pany in social chats and pleasantries, to have been suffering with toothache and was using hot applications, but this abundently for the replenishment of the it seems was a night or two previous, and it is said he went to bed on Saturday night feeling well. His was the only sleeping apartment from which never a sound or demonstration was heard to come. Another conjecture is that a lamp in the hallway exploded, but all who seem to know anything about it unite in carpet may have smouldered for a time and then burst into flames. Still all is conjecture, and the real origin may never be known. It is not known whether Mr. Tucker was awake when the fire enveloped him. His remains, a mere handfull of bones, burned almost to ashes, together with those of Andrew Salsgiver, in the same condition, were found in the small excavation under the building used as a cellar. They were taken out and placed in small paper shoe boxes for the time being, to await proper burial. The body of Miss Kate Miller was found in the ruins when the fire had sufficiently died away to admit of search. It was conveyed to the house of a neighbor and prepared for burial. The lower

It is doubtful whether she awakened, and probably never realized her awful fate.

Andrew Salsgiver was sleeping in the third story in the same room with Mark Wilson, who says they both awakened and got out of their beds about the same on the hunt for ball. The officers searched time. Wilson leaped out of the window his house and found 27 sets of harness and told Andy to follow him. When a concealed in the garret. # YOU CANNOT GET THE BEST

If you judge clothing by the price alone. You must consider quality and workmanship as well. The town is filled with clothing that is gotten up merely to sell at a seemingly cheap price-flimsy stuff that quickly loses every trace of respectability, We don't have that kind. None but the thoroughly well made Clothing finds store room here. And we sell it at LOWER PRICES than any other store in the city. In fact if you buy without seeing our line, you are not getting the best value for your money. See the up-to-date
