Rockwell Again Found Guilty.

The second trial of Fred Rockwell for the murder of Lewis Haines was held in Ridgway, Elk county, last week, and resulted in the jury bringing in a verdict of murder in the first degree after being out two and a half hours. This is the second time within less than eight months that he has been convicted. The evidence of the prosecution did not differ materially from that produced at the former trial, and the witnesses told practically the same story as before, The main witness was Mrs. Annie Haines, widow of the murdered Haines, and who is confined in the jail at this place, under sent mitted by the gang of which Rockwell, Newell and Haines were members.

The Ridgway Advocate says of the star witnesses; "Mrs. Lewis Haines, who had been brought from the Forest county jail, and John J. Newell, who had been prought from the Huntingdon reformatory to testify in this case, were present in the court room and attracted more than ordinary attention. Mrs. Haines was much heavier than when she appeared here before and was a good ree ommendation for the good fare furnished Forest county jall-birds. When John J. Newell, brother of Mrs. Haines was put on the stand he testified among other things that Haines and Rockwell left home on the Monday morning before Christmas. Haines said he was going to get a job in the log woods. Rockwell said he was going to make Haines believe be was leading him to the log job by a short route, was going to kill him and get his wife. Witness never saw Haines after that. Rockwell came home the next morning. Newell found a pocket knife in a cigar box on a shell that he had caned to Haines and that Haines had taken with him that fital Monday morn ing. At the breakfast table that morning, Rockwell said he had killed Haines and left his body in the burning building. got Haines to help build a fire in the old backsmith shop to get warm by, that while Haines was on his knees making shavings with which to build a fire, Rackwell was engaged in knocking some loose boards off with a heavy iron bar. That he got behind Haines, struck him on th back of the head with the bar and killed him. He then piled boards upon him and set them afire, having first taken the rubber boots off the feet of the dead Haines, taking his cap also and the pocket knife which Haines had been using, Rockwell further stated that he remained near the burning shop unt I the roof fell fine time, and the meeting of a number up Holland house, entered it, lighted the of his old comrades of that famous battle. gas, helped himself to some preserve -Mrs. George Klinestiver of Nebraska and crackers, lay down before the fire t sustained a fracture of a bone of the right | get warm, fell asleep, was awakened by with the above result. Mrs. Haines was then put on the stand and her testimony agreed with that given Rockwell's illicit love, the breakfast table ment and the disappearance of Haines She said that Rockwell had asked her to marry him and sho told him; "If I were single and was going to marry, I would just as soon marry you as anyone else." She had objected to the elopement for the reason that Haines would follow them, and Rockwell had replied that if Haines followed them he would fix him so he would give them no further trouble. Rockwell said that he would have m if he had to kill my husband to get me. Mrs. Haines said that Rockwell did not wear an overcoat when he left home with Haines, but did wear one when he returned next morning. When Mrs. Haine's attention was called to a slight disagreement with her evidence in the first trial she said that she had made a mistake and she "had felt afterward that she never could enter the Kingdom of Heaven until she corrected her mistake,' She denied having said that she say Haines since that fatal December morning looking at her through the window at the Forest county jail, and said that whe 'had dreamed of his having looked through the jail window at her." STILL ANOTHER. The jury in the case of the Italian by the name of Barya, who shot a man by the name of Augusta at Dagus Mines in July last, brought in a verdiet of murder in the first degree at the trial just ended in Ridgway.

The trial of John Sobol, a Hungarian, charged with the killing of a fellow countryman by the name of Krutsic, ended in a verdiet of second degree murder a Ridgway the latter part of last week. Judge Mayer sentenced the prisoner to a term of twelve years and six months in the penitentiary.

This makes three murder trials disposed of in one week in Elk county, two of which resulted in first degree verdicts, A record almost unpreceded in the annals of legal jurisprudence.

Sentences Passed.

Court adjourned on Wednesday last, having finished the business before it. Judge Noyes passed sentence on the prisoners convicted as follows;

Theodore Koenig, who plead guilty is the theft of James Gaul's horse near Marienville in September last, was set tenced to the Huntingdon Industrial Reformatory for an indefinite period. Also to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of five deltars.

Jackson Stroup plead guilty to the charge of passing a fraudulent check on Jack's first appearance before a court of justice, and the court was lenient in his case. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, costs of prosecution, and undergo an imprisonment in the penitentiary for one that

The "Lowest Price for Like Quality."

That is what we guarantee.

Men who still think that they can wear only custom-made clothing, are invited to call and undeceive themselves. We do better than make to order---we make to fit. The old superstitions about custom-made clothing are going the way of the unlucky-Friday and thirteen-at-the-table delusions Mrs. M. Levy of Marionville. It was since we idtroduced the ready-made-to-fit

This is one of the few stores where people are never urged to buy, but are always welcome to look. And if you buy and for any reason are dissatisfied, return the goods and get "your money back."
