

After Wild Man of Borneo.
The wild man of Borneo is about to make the acquaintance of a big Irish scientific expedition. Dr. Haddon, of the Royal College of Science, will lead a large party of explorers into the wild man's lair, and he is to be studied as exclusively as his retiring nature will permit.
The expedition is said to be the most thoroughly equipped one that ever has gone anywhere for anthropological investigation.

Women Students in Switzerland.
According to a recent report made by H. Blerler, the Commissioner of Education in Switzerland, there are now 614 young women taking courses in Swiss universities. Geneva has 331 female students, Zurich 166, Lausanne and Berne each sixty, Bale two, while the Universities of Neuchâtel and Freiburg have none.

Old Black Gloves.
Nothing is better to renovate black silk or ribbon than the water in which a pair of old black gloves has been boiled. Use a quart of water for each pair and boil till the color is extracted. In cleaning with it do not iron the ribbon, but pin it smoothly on a board or table, or roll it round on a new rolling pin devoted to this purpose.

Packing Without Creases.
Packing to avoid creases is an art, but one that can be acquired. Folding garments to fit the trunk in which they are to be stored and laying a sheet of thin paper between the folds will do much. Packing so tightly that the clothes cannot shift about, even under the baggage man's handling, will do more. The indiscriminate folding that comes of a vigorous shaking will do more harm than any amount of pressure put upon those laid with care.

A TEMPERANCE COLUMN.
THE DRINK EVIL MADE MANIFEST IN MANY WAYS.

A Barrel of Whisky—Alcohol a Potent Poison—When the People Understand Its True Nature a Tremendous Crusade Will Be Waged Against the Rum Power
A drayman rolled forth from his cart in the street.
A red-headed barrel, well bound and complete.
And on it red letters, like forked tongues of flame,
Emblazoned the grade, number, quality, name.
Of this world renowned whisky from somebody's still,
Who arrested the grain on the way to the mill.
So understood the barrel, delivered, but I could see that a shadow was hovering high.
A sinister shadow that grew as I gazed,
To the form of Mephisto. Though sorely amazed,
I ventured to question this imp of the realm
Where Vice is the pilot, with Crime at the helm.
And asked him politely his mission to name,
And if he was licensed to retail the same
Identical barrel of whisky which he was so earnestly selling with demagogic glee.
"O, I never handle the stuff," he replied;
"My partners mortal are trusty and tried;
Mayhap, peradventure, you might wish to look at the invoice complete; I will read from this book.
You will find that this barrel contains something more
Than forty-two gallons of whisky galore."
And ere I could slip but another word in, he checked it off gayly—his cargo of sin:
"A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of a barrel of tears from a world-wearied wife;
A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;
A barrel of sorrow, a barrel of strife;
A barrel of unavailing regret;
A barrel of cares and a barrel of debt;
A barrel of crime and a barrel of pain;
A barrel of hopes ever blasted and vain;
A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of lies;
That fall from the man's lips as he dies;
A barrel of poison (of this nearly full),
A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight;
A barrel of horrors that grow with the night;
A barrel of anger, a barrel of groans;
A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans;
A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of lies;
That fall from the man's lips as he dies;
My barrel, my treasure, I bid thee farewell.
Sow ye the foul seed; I will reap it in hell."

Real Nature of Alcohol.
Alcoholic poison first affects the lobes of the brain, and the other nerve centres of the cerebro-spinal system are successively brought into the operation of the poison, until, in the state commonly known as "dead drunk," the only ones that are not paralyzed are those known as the automatic centres, which regulate any leap up breathing and the circulation. Enough alcohol can be taken, however, to paralyze these, in which case the deep sleep of drunkenness becomes stupor which is fatal unless relieved. There is a period between apoplexy and intoxication. To be drunk is simply apoplexy. Such is the action of alcohol upon the nervous system, and its action upon the other parts of the body is less injurious.

When an alcoholic drink is taken into the stomach, the alcohol is rapidly absorbed through the coats of the organ, passes directly into the circulation, and is carried with the blood to every part of the system. That which goes to the brain produces successively the symptoms enumerated above. In that order the danger begins to be expelled with the expired breath of these organs. Experiments have been tried in which wine was administered in capsules, so that one particle touched the interior of the mouth or throat; yet in two or three minutes the odor of alcohol was noted on the breath, showing that in that short time it had been absorbed, passed into the blood, and was being expelled by the lungs.

Blouses, with very handsome jeweled belts and dog-collars to match, are still in great favor for theatre and demi-dress opera wear. Most of the latest models are finished with some sort of a pretty yoke or guimpe of fabric differing from the blouse itself.

American manufacturers have produced a very attractive line of satin-striped moires this season which are far more soft and pliable than the moires of other days, for they are much lighter in texture, and the usual stiff underweb or filling is now omitted in the weaving.

French mohair retains all its acquired popularity for certain uses in the world of fashion, and among other spring materials are found some novel and pretty varieties in serge, armure, basket, trolis and whipcord weaves in many stylish patterns, and also in very handsome colorings.

Odd arrangements of plaited fringing, braid, velvet and lace are very much used by fashionable dress-makers on bodices, redingotes and princess gowns fastened at the left side, and a very dressy appearance is imparted to otherwise simple gowns by the addition of these trimmings.

For middle-aged women stylish gowns are made of black silk wrap. Woolen goods are made with a skirt having two bias milliner's falls, headed with a fancy silk plump. The front has an Eton effect, with square revers and belt, pointed in front, of satin. Vests and collars of white silk are covered with cream lace.

High satin collars finished with standing lace fraises, elaborate Queen Anne ruffles, detachable blouses, or flat vest fronts, long Directoire scarfs with fringed ribbon-bordered ends, and exceedingly dainty French-looking berthes and Marie Antoinette fichus are all reproduced among the charming et ceteras in dress for next season.

A device suggested by a French dressmaker to one of her customers is to wear, where one's arms are not as plump as desired, a dress sleeve inside of the glove. This is for the demitoyette for a reception and similar uses. It is a fashion that is particularly easy to copy at the moment for the little poufs at the top of most sleeves form the surrounding of the glove almost as if the arms were bare. Wearing the sleeves in this way contributes to the dressy finish of a simple toilet.

The most popular colors for the coming season are the porcelain, hyacinth, turquoise, cadet and sapphire blues, all the pretty shades of gray and beige, Russian and emerald greens and violet to be used chiefly for a contrast in trimming. Yellow in all the tints be worn, and also the pretty deep rose pink. Light fawns, grays, browns and beiges are especially in favor just now for the new cloth gowns made for early morning wear. And so is a blue and gray mixture which is useful in all kinds of weather.

Stone Boot Soles.
An inventor has hit upon a method of putting stone soles on boots and shoes. He mixes a water-proof glue with a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand and spreads it over the leather sole used as a foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and practically indestructible.

Better Than Cats.
A savant has discovered how to slay mice and rats by means of a bacillus, which he has named after himself, and which is supposed to be far more fatal than the cat.

A Bright Advertisement.
A German newspaper has invented something new in the personal column line. It publishes a romantic story, with the usual immaculate hero and heroine, while in its own columns and those of other dailies it inserts the following advertisement: "Gentleman, rich, with an agreeable person and irreproachable character, seeks a woman as virtuous and beautiful as Mina Deutchthal, the admirable heroine of the romance of X—, which we publish on the third page."

History of a Picture Tree.
An eminent American artist, who is now an old man, has never forgotten the lesson he learned from Sir Frederick Leighton in his youth. Leighton was then a brilliant and fascinating young painter, whose future was still before him. He was at work upon an Italian landscape, or upon a picture with an Italian background. In that background he was anxious to introduce an olive tree. He remembered a tree which he had seen in the south of Italy, and remembered it quite distinctly enough to reproduce it, but he was not content to trust his memory.

The American artist remembers how Leighton came into a cafe in Rome on his way to Southern Italy, making the long journey from England for the express purpose of studying that olive tree and of taking home an exact sketch of it, and he remembers also how, four or five weeks later, the ardent young Englishman, brilliant, enthusiastic, versatile, but with a capacity for taking pains, reappeared with a wonderful sketch of the olive tree, upon which he had spent days of unbroken observation and work. From this little incident the American student learned a lesson which he never forgot, and which went far to secure the success which was to him later in life. The story illustrates the great quality which lies behind all real success; alike for the man of genius and the man of talent.— Outlook.

TO MRS. PINKHAM
From Mrs. Walter E. Budd, of Pat- chogue, New York.

Mrs. BUDD, in the following letter, tells a familiar story of weakness and suffering, and thanks Mrs. Pinkham for complete relief:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I think it is my duty to write to you and tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I feel like another woman. I had such dreadful headaches through my temples and on top of my head, that I nearly went crazy; was also troubled with chills, was very weak; my left side from my shoulders to my waist pained me terribly. I could not sleep for the pain. Plasters would help for a while, but as soon as taken off, the pain would be just as bad as ever. Doctors prescribed medicine, but it gave me no relief.

"Now I feel so well and strong, have no more headaches, and no pain in side, and it is all owing to your Compound. I cannot praise it enough. It is a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to every woman I know."

THE CAUSE OF DYSPEPSIA.
From the Republics, Scranton, Penna.
The primary cause of dyspepsia is lack of vitality; the absence of nerve force; the loss of the life-sustaining elements of the blood. No organ can properly perform its function when the source of nutrient fails. When the stomach is robbed of the nourishment demanded by nature, assimilation ceases, unusual gases are generated; the entire system responds to the disorder.
A practical illustration of the symptoms and torture of dyspepsia is furnished by the case of Joseph T. Vanduyke, 446 Hickory St., Scranton, Pa.
In telling his story, Mr. Vanduyke says: "Five years ago I was afflicted with a trouble of the stomach, which was very aggravating. I had no appetite, could not enjoy myself at any time, and especially was the trouble severe when I awoke in the morning. I did not know what the ailment was, but it became steadily worse and I was in constant misery."
"I called in my family physician, and he diagnosed the case as catarrh of the stomach. He prescribed for me and I had his prescription filled. In My Misery, took nearly all of the medicine, but still the trouble became worse, and I felt that my condition was hopeless. I tried several remedies recommended by my friends but without benefit. After I had been suffering several months, Thomas Campbell, also a resident of this city, urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."
"He finally persuaded me to buy a box and I began to use the pills according to directions. Before I had taken the second box I began to feel relieved, and after taking a few more boxes, I considered myself restored to health. The pills gave me new life, strength, ambition and happiness."
"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure dyspepsia by restoring to the blood the requisite constituents of life, by renewing the nerve force and enabling the stomach to promptly and properly assimilate the food. These pills are a specific for all diseases having their origin in impoverished blood or disordered nerves. They contain every element requisite to general nutrition, to restore strength to the weak, good health to the ailing."
