THE FIRST REGULAR BATTLE.

It Was a Desperate Fight Between the U. S. Troops and the Spaniards, in Which Our Boys Won a Signal Victory Over Fearful Odds Both in Numbers and Position.

The battle which occurred on Friday last near Santiago was the initial fight of Col. Wood's Rough Riders and the troopers of the First and Tenth Regular Cavalry and will be known in history as the battle of La Quasina.

That it did not end in the complete slaughter of the Americans was not due to any miscalculation in the plans of the Spaniards, for as perfect an ambush as was ever formed in the brain of an Apache Indian was prepared and Lieutenant-Colonel Roosevelt and his men walked squarely into it.

For an hour and a half they held their ground under a perfect storm of bullets from the front and sides, and then Colonel Wood at the right and Colonel Roosevelt at the left led a charge which turned the tide of battle and sent the enemy flying over the hills toward Santiago.

It is now definitely known that sixteen men on the American side were killed, while sixty were wounded or are reported missing. It is impossible to calculate the Spanish losses, but it is known that they were far heavier than those of Americans, at least as regards actual loss of life.

Already thirty-seven dead Spanish soldiers have been found and buried, while many others are undoubtedly lying in the thick underbrush on the side of the gully, and on the slope of the hill, where the main body of the enemy was located. The wounded were all removed.

That the Spaniards were thoroughly posted as to the route to be taken by the Americans in their movement towards Sevilla was evident, as shown by the careful preparations they had made. The main body of the Spaniards was posted on a hill, on the heavily wooded slopes of which had been erected two block houses, flanked by irregular trenchments of stone and fallen trees. At the bottom of these hills run two roads along which Lieutenant-Colonel Roosevelt's men and eight troops of the First and Tenth Cavalry, with a battery of four howitzers, advanced.

These roads are but little more than mazes, rough and narrow, and at places almost impassable. In these trails the fight occurred. Nearly half a mile separated Roosevelt's men from the regulars, and between them and on both sides of the road in the thick underbrush was concealed a force of Spaniards that must have been large, judging from the terrific and constant fire they poured in on the Americans.

At 7:30 a. m. General Young gave the command to the men at the Hotchkiss guns to open fire. That command was the signal for a fight that for stubbornness has seldom been equaled. The instant the Hotchkiss guns were fired, from the hillsides commanding the road came volley after volley from the Mausers of the Spaniards.

"Don't shoot until you see something to shoot at," yelled General Young, and the men, with set jaws and gleaming eyes, obeyed the order. Crawling along the edge of the road and protecting themselves as much as possible from the fearful fire of the Spaniards, the troopers, some of them stripped to the waist, watched the base of the hill and when any part of a Spaniard became visible, they fired. Never for an instant did they falter.

One husky warrior of the Tenth Cavalry, with a ragged wound in his thigh, coolly knelt behind a rock loading and firing, and when told by one of his comrades that he was wounded laughed and said, "Oh, that's all right. That's been there for some time."

In the meantime, away off to the left could be heard the crack of the rifles of Colonel Wood's men, and the regular, deeper toned volley firing of the Spaniards.

Over there the American losses were the greatest. Colonel Wood's men, with an advance guard well out in the front, and two Cuban guides before them, but apparently with no flankers, went squarely into the trap set for them by the Spaniard, and only the unflinching courage of the men in the face of a fire that would even make a veteran quail prevented what might easily have been a disaster. As it was, Troop L, the advance guard, under the unfortunate Captain Capron, was almost surrounded, and but for the re-enforcement hurriedly sent forward every man would probably have been killed or wounded.

BATTLE EXPECTED YESTERDAY.

OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, June 28.—The United States navy and army are expected to strike a Santiago De Cuba to-morrow.

Lieutenant Blue, of the Suwanee, has had another trip ashore, almost up to the enemy's batteries, and has obtained valuable information for the use of the fleet.

A bulletin issued by Admiral Sampson to the fleet says it appears a considerable part of the damage done to our troops on Friday was from machine guns manned by seamen.

Major General Shafter has gone to the front for consultation with General Wheeler and the division commanders.

The fight of the Rough Riders on Friday will go down into history as the battle of La Quasina. It is a pretty sounding name to remember, and it is where the brave boys who went down that day are to sleep the long sleep.

It is expected that before the end of the week the 16th Regiment, now camping at Chickamauga, will be on the way to Cuba. The 16th is the regiment whose movements will be most closely watched when at the front, owing to its being composed principally of "home boys." They will show up with the best of them, and let us hope that all may return in safety.

GEN. BLANCO'S air of pretended confidence will quickly end as soon as Santiago falls and the march on Havana begins. His forts at Havana occasionally fire on the blockading vessels now, because the blockaders refuse to waste their powder on the forts. When the army gets in the rear of Havana and Sampson's squadron gets in front of it, the day of doom for Blanco and his men will come. It will undoubtedly be found then that the forts at Havana are as easy a mark for the American ships as those of San Juan and Santiago have been. The firing of the Havana forts these days, therefore, will not anger the Yankees. They shoot best who shoot last.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's New Double-Track Line to Atlantic City. With the schedule of early summer trains in effect May 28th, the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad practically opens to travel its new double-track line from Camden and Broad Street station to Atlantic City.

During the winter and spring the line from Camden to Atlantic City has been actually rebuilt. The old light rails have been replaced by new steel rails weighing one hundred pounds to the yard, and an entirely new road has been constructed by the grading necessary for the double tracks.

The grade crossing over the tracks of the Jersey Southern Railway at Winslow has been eliminated by the building of an elevated roadway high above the intersecting tracks, and thus enabling the fastest trains to pass this point without slackening speed. An absolutely new roadbed has been constructed across the meadows. Upon the magnificent foundation of the Old Camden & Atlantic roadbed, which has been building for the accumulated work of forty years, thousands of carloads of gravel and sand have been placed to the depth of six feet from the surface up, so that the tracks are elevated above the height of the storm tides. In order that the elevated tracks may be better withstand the action of storm tides canals have been opened at intervals to carry the accumulated water beneath the roadway and the exposed sides of the embankment have been thickly coated with the heavy and adhesive soil dug from the meadows. The new track is as firm as the old ever was, and with these protections and reinforcements it will stand firmly the brunt of any ordinary storm. The new roadway has been coated with an application of oil so as to free it from the dust naturally incident to the new grading.

Under these improved conditions the West Jersey and Seashore's double-tracked lines to Atlantic City form the finest and best line of railroad to any Summer resort in America. The speed of trains both from Broad Street Station and Camden will be materially accelerated and the time of transit proportionately reduced. The rolling stock and equipment will be fully up to the high standard maintained by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Summer traveler to Atlantic City by this popular route will enjoy the finest facilities offered by any railroad in the world.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Madrid Diaro, declares: "The average height among the Americans is five feet two, and that they have never produced an athlete. This is due to their living almost entirely on vegetables, as they ship all their beef out of the country, so eager are they to make money. There is no doubt that one full-grown Spaniard can defeat any three men in America."

"If a newspaper man knew how many 'knocks' he received behind his back, he would adopt another calling," remarked a citizen yesterday. The citizen was mistaken. The newspaper man who succeeds expects to be maligned by every low braker, swindler and hypocrite; every lover of notoriety who is ignored and, in fact, by all who do not agree with him on public or private questions. The newspaper man who expects to go through life without being misrepresented should make arrangements to die young.—Ex.

The New York Herald and Sun are acknowledged to be furnishing the most accurate and latest war news of any of the big papers. And it is expensive, too. According to newspaperdom, it costs the Herald $1,200 for every 24 hours' use of the wire it has leased between New York and Key West. The Herald has just set up in the latter place and in Tampa newly invented long distance photograph instruments, by means of which its artists in the field can transmit a finished picture to the home office every 20 minutes, while at the same time the text to accompany the picture is going forward on the other side of the duplex wire.

—Best line Men's heavy shoes at Miles & Armstrongs, Congos or bats. It. Since the recent exploit of the Merriam the expression, "Hobson's choice," has been so much used that an explanation of its origination will be of interest. The original "Hobson's choice" occurred when one Tobias Hobson kept a stable at Cambridge, England. On days or nights when there was a great demand for horses Tobias, to avoid favoritism among his patrons, established the rule that a customer should take the horse next to the stable door instead of running down the stalls to make his own choice, not the man's who wanted a horse. So that it comes to mean that you have no choice at all when it is Hobson's choice.

Harry Smith, son of the late Wilson Smith, and Frank Randall leave on Wednesday for Palambang, Sumatra, in the East Indies, where they will be employed in a refinery. These men have been employed for years at the Eclipse refinery, the former as a stillman and the latter as a treasurer. The refinery where they will be employed is owned by Hollanders and is operated directly by the Holland government. Mr. Randall will receive $175 per month and Mr. Smith $150 per month, in gold. The expense of their trip to Sumatra will be paid by the company, and they will receive medical attention, if such is required, free of charge, while there. Franklin is already represented in Sumatra, H. H. Beers and Wm. Barrett having left but a few months ago to work in the same refinery. The oil to be found there is about the same quality as the Pennsylvania oil.

In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured.
