

Inventory Sale!

Now for Stock Taking.

You know what that means. The pre-inventory tide is sweeping through the store, and the power of its sweep is enough to drive prices. Many things will sell this week for less than value, and everything that we can let go without more harm than loss of money will go. You will reap a rich harvest during this great sale.

Republican County Committee Meeting.

The members of the Republican County Committee of Forest county are requested to meet at the Sheriff's Office, Tionesta, Pa., Monday evening, Feb. 27, 1899, at 7:30. At this meeting the time and place of holding the Republican primaries will be fixed, and other business of importance will be transacted. A full attendance is therefore desired. W. M. COON, Chairman.

FROM THE STATE CAPITOL.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 10, 1899. The Senatorial situation varies not. It is still, on full votes, 112 for Quay, 86 for Jenks and 52 votes scattered amongst 13 candidates. I have no guesses to offer, or claims to make. The fact is, just now all hands are like Wilkie Macawber, "waiting for something to turn up." If the insurgents had united on one man, it is possible that there would have been more changes and more music in the air. The Quay people have been looking for three of their supporters to break away, but so far the line keeps closed. The reason given for this supposition is that these persons can be made off of the Quay perch whenever reformer David Martin pulls the string. The whole Senatorial fight so far as the Republicans are concerned is a faction fight for power. Bro. John Wannamaker stirred up the fight for his own benefit, and never dreamed that 13 others would want to share it with him.

The event of the week has been the coming on deck of the McCarrill bill on second reading Thursday. Messrs. McElheny, Bliss and Dixon, made speeches opposing the bill, Dixon closing his remarks with a motion to postpone further consideration of the bill until the 21st day of March next. It was the best piece of parliamentary tactics put in use this session. The motion gave an opportunity for every member who did not want to go on record, to straddle. That is, he could vote for postponement, and yet say he had not gone back on his promise to vote for the bill. It also scooped in the member who was in doubt; this motion let him down easy. It was a very clever move, and it won by a vote of 93 to 12. Two friends of the bill were absent without pairs, while all its opponents were present. Had all the friends of the bill been present, the bill would have gone over second reading, but as to final passage that's another story. The chances, however, are with the bill, as all the labor organizations are in favor of it. The bill was not postponed on party lines, both sides of the House voting for and against. This a. m. both supporters and opponents seemed afraid to move for reconsideration, and the question will likely go over until Tuesday.
