DREYFUS CONVICTED.

Sentenced to Ten Years Imprisonment For Treason

The Fire Years Already Served May Be Counted as Double Time and His Early Release Is Probable-The Verdict Condemued By All the Civilized Governments of the Entire Country.

RENNES, Sept. 11,-Dreyfus has borne the terrible snock with marvelous fortitude, one might almost say with unnatural calm. He seemed stupefled when M. Labori communicated to him the verdict, but he has since rallied. He passed a quiet night and he rose when his orderly brought him water at 5 o'clock in the morning, just as he did during the trial when it was

Madame Dreyfus and Matthieu Dreyfus, his brother, visited him during the course of the afternoon, his brother subsequently leaving for Paris. The application to the court of revision was taken to him at noon by M. Laborl's assistant and he signed it. He has spoken little, though he has seemed in better spirits than might have been anticipated. The meeting with his wife was naturally very affecting, but both held up as well as possible. He said to her: "I am not uneasy regarding myself, as I shall soon be free, but I think of you and my poor children. They will be branded as the children of

He is convinced that the 10 years' imprisonment to which he is sentenced will be wiped out by the five years of solitary seclusion he has undergone on Devil's island, and he expects to be released by Oct. 15, which will be five years from the date of his former confemnation. He is so sanguine that he has made an extraordinary request of his wife for a novel to read in the meantime, explaining that his mind is so shaken and weighed down by recent | the Macadam boulevard. events that he needs to divert his thoughts and try to get all the recollections of the last three months out of his mind. He thinks that reading a novel will afford the desired mental mony. repose and keep him from broading. Madame Dreyfus' father said his daughter was bearing up well, considering the circumstances, but desired to remain undisturbed in view of the emotional strain of the interview with her husband, M. Hadamand said that Mme. Dreyfus and the family were hopeful and looked forward to some favorable development. "The verdict," he added, "is an in famy Captain Dreyfus is in poor health as everyone knows. He has been extremely ill from the moment of his arrival in France and has been put on a special regime. His health has not improved and the nervous effect of this terrible blow is bound to react on his general condition. His suppression of all outward emotion is due to his almost incredible force of will, but it does not imply that he is insensible to the mental and physical orture he has undergone. On the contrary, the family just now see in his weak state of health an abnormal impassivity, an ugly sign and fear for him more than they care to express." One strange fact is the extraordinary difference of opinion respecting the exact effect of the judgment-whether he can be degraded again, and whether the five years' solitary confinement he has undergone will be regarded as equivalent to the 10 years' detention to which he is now sentenced and he be released next month. This matter is quite aside from the general impression that he will be pardoned in a few days by President Loubet who will find some ground to exercise elemency. M. Demange thinks the five years will count for nothing and that Dreyfus according to law, will have to suffer 10 years detention. Many others, however, including several lawyers hold a contrary opinion and declare that he will be released in October. This, as already cabled, is the belief of Dreyfus himself.

Colonel Jouaust also declared that Dreyfus must serve 10 years, but speaking with friends, he expressed a conviction that there would not be a fresh degradation. This ceremony requires breaking the prisoner's sword nd tearing off his epauletes. But Drevfus never had his sword restored to him and he only wore undress uniform without epauletes, so that it would be impossible to carry out the regulations for degradation. This is

Colonel Jonaust's view. Those who think Dreyfus will be released in October because the five years on Devil's island will wipe out the present sentence, saw in the fact that he was sentenced for exactly 10 years, confirmation of their view, but they were mistaken. He was sentenced to 10 years not because that give perfect satisfaction. Prompt attention given to mending, and prices reasonable.

happens to be double his term on Devill's Island, but because, according to the military code, the recording of two votes in his favor fixes the term of detention at 10 years. Had the verdict been unanimous, he might have probably an attempt upon his life. The police had arranged to conduct him back to the military prison after the verdict with the same precautions as during the trial. He was to have been given civinan attire and a false beard and then to have left the prison by the small door of the recruiting office, leading to the Avenue de la Gare. No one would have expected him to leave through that bunning, which is attached to the military prison and, thanks to the disguise, the police hoped he would reach the station safely where a special train was waiting to rush him off before the crowd could have learned of his leaving the prison.

INDIGNATION IN ENGLAND. Everybody Condemns the Verdict, Ever

From the Pulpits. LONDON, Sept. 11. - It would be difficult to describe adequately the indignation the verdict of the Dreyfus court martial has evoked everywhere in England. The excitement in the Jewish quarters of London is only natural. Special prayers were offered throughout Saturday in all the synagogues on behalf of Dreyfus, and as soon as the verdict was known. Jews and Jewesses were seen at every street corner expressing execration and many sobbing bitterly.

At the Music halls, especially the Palace theater where cinematograph pictures of the incidents and leading actors of the Dreyfus affair were exhibited, the news was greeted with groans and hisses. In the French quarter of London there was much exitement, accompanied by some street fighting.

CONDEMNED IN GERMANY. How Germans Fell About the Conviction of Captain Dreyfus. BERLIN, Sept. 11.-The Dreyfus verdict causes a feeling almost of stupefaction in Berlin. It has been hoped that the statement of the reichstag, as emanating directly from Emperor William, would have rendered impossible the repetition of what is described as "one of the greatest judicial and political crimes of any age."

It is universally agreed that the secand verdict is a grave political blunder, a violation of the laws of civilization and an act of moral cowardice, which the world will find it difficult to pardon.

The German press unanimously describes the verdict as cowardly and impolitic, not to say criminal.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 11.-When the news of Dreyfus' fate reached Indianapolls, Captain Wallace Foster, who originated the plan of floating the American flag over Indiana school houses, announced that he would have the flag of France burned in the public streets.

That evening a large crowed was drawn to his home in North Capitol avenue, and encircled by women, children, blcycles and buggles, the tricolors were brought out and burned on

Former United Stated Senator and An bassador to France Dies In Newport. NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 11.-Hon

James B. Eustis, former United States senator from Louisiana and Ambassa dor to France from the United States during the second administration of ex-Fresident Grover Cleveland, died at Newport villa. Mr. Eutis had been fairly well until about 10 days ago when he caught cold, and on Tuesday last pneumonia set in. His attending physician, Dr. Harry J. Knapp, saw there was little hope for his patient. His children were at his death bed. They are James B. Eustis, Jr., the well known polo player: Nelson Eustis and Miss Lydia Eustis. James B. Eustis was born in New Orleans on Aug. 27, 1834. He graduated from the Harvard law school in 1854 and practiced law in New Orleans after 1856. He served as judge advocate on the staffs of Generals Magruder and Joe Johnson during the war o the rebellion. He was subsequently elected to the Louisiana state legislature, serving in both houses, and was chosen United States senator in 1877 for two years. He was re-elected in 1885, and served till 1891. In 1893 he was named Minister to France. Since 1895 he had been practising law in this city, and had affiliated with Tammany

PREPARATION FOR WAR.

England Is Rushing Troops to South Africa.

All the Transports Available Have Reen Secured-At the Same Time the Boers Are Massing On the Frontier and There Is No Abatement of War Preparations

LONDON, Sept. 12.-The activity in the war and admiralty offices continues, though there is nothing new regarding the Transvaal situation. Th. government will follow to the end itproject of sending force sufficient to protect the enormous British interestin South Africa. Officers of the admiralty office have started for variou towns on the coast to investigate transport facilities and perfect arrangements for shipping the troops which will probably sail this week. It is understood that General Sir Red vers-Buller, who will command the British forces in South Africa in the field will start for Cape Town on Sat urday. The Indian authorities are chartering steamers to transport troops to South Africa as rapidly as possible

It is said that orders have been sent to America for light, iron girders and bridging sections for probable use in South Africa. Transports are moving to the docks preparatory to embarking troops. Special dispatches from Johannes burg report the greatest anxiety there. Before the affair of April 12 the rec ords of the state department show that Consul McCook sued The Nugget for $20,000 for libel, the action being based on a cartoon showing the consul perspiring very profusely in an effort to write a dispatch in grammatical English. The record shows that he lost his suit. The department knew nothing about the scrape in which the consul was involved until in his dispatches he began defending himself. Then he was investigated and the facts were brought out.

The department has just closed the newspaper incident by admonishing Mr. McCook that a consul should avoid controversies with newspapers.

tends to Courch Property. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. - Acting Commissioner Williams of the internal revenue bureau has rendered an important decision on the question of the taxation under the war revenue action of a deed of conveyance of church property, executed by the executors of a Roman Catholic bishop to his suctessor. The acting commissioner held that such deed was taxable.

The question arose in the case of the Right Rev. Bishop McGovern of Harrisburg, Pa., who willed the property to his executors, and they in turn conveyed it to his successor, Right Rev. J. F. Shanahan, the present bishop of the diocese of Harrisburg.

It was contended in opposition to the tax that the bishop holds the title to the property in trust, and that he has no personal interest or estate therein. It is held, however, that the deed fully vests the title, and under the law the succeeding bishop is a purchaser, although he does not pay any consideration for the conveyance. A stamp tax of $1 per $1,000 of value will be required.
