SENATE HELD SHORT SESSION.

DUE TO HOB-RT'S DEATH. Protest Made Against the Swearing In of Brigha a II. Roberts, the Mormon Polygamist, In the House, by Taylor and WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 .- Congress convened at noon today.

Lively competition occurred in the house of representatives for the honor of introducing the first measures. By general consent everything gave way to the cancus financial bill, after which the mitial bills were as follows:

By Mr. Tawney (Minn.), to reclassify railway postal clerks and also a bill defining butter and regulating the sale of eleomargarine.

By Mr. Flinn, for free homesteads in Oklahoma The first foint resolution was by Mr. Capron (Conu.), for a constitutional amendment against admitting polygamists to congress.

Among the other measures in the day's deluge of bills are those giving to states the custody of accoutrements of Philippine volunteers; amending the pension laws; providing for the election of senators by the people; for a constitutional amendment allowing the president to negotiate treaties of peace terminating a war; giving to veterans of the Spanish war the same rights under the civil service as are enjoyed by veterans of the Civil war.

The principal interest centered in the case of Mr. Roberts, the Mormon representativo from Utah. Those who anticipated a sensational denouement were disappointed. The program outlined by the Republican leaders at their conference on Friday night was partially carried out. The objection to the administration of the oath to Mr. Roberts was entered by Mr. Taylor, of Ohio, as predicted, and he stepped aside without protest except to ask if by so doing he waived any of his rights. To this the Speaker responded in the nega-

There was not a protest from any quarter against the objection to the administration of the oath to Mr. Roberts. But, on the contrary, the only voice raised except that of Mr. Taylor's, was that of Mr. McRas, a Democrat, of Arkansas, who joined with Mr. Taylor in his protest. Mr. Taylor offered his resolution to refer the case to a special committee, but by mutual arrangement the consideration of the resolution was postponed until to-day. Although Mr. Roberts was not sworn in, he seenred a seat. This, however, was an accident pure and simple. In the seat drawing lottery no provision had been made for Mr. Roberts, but when the drawing was completed, two others as well as himself had not been provided with seats and the speaker asked and secured from the house general permission for those members who had not drawn seats to make such selections as they could. Under this authority, Mr. Roberts got a seat in an obscure portion of the hall. His daughter sat in the gallery and watched the proceedings from beginning to end. The election of Speaker Henderson and his induction into office, the appointment of the usual committees to wait upon the president, the seat drawing contest, with the usual amusing features, went off without a hitch. The only feature out of the ordinary was the adoption of the Reed rules for the present congress. The Democrats knew it was futile to more than protest against the adoption of these rules after the Republicans had decided upon this course in caucus, and the debate upon the resolution to adopt them was very brief. They were adopted by a strict party vote. Appropriate tribute to the memory of the late Vice President Hobart was paid by the senate at its first session of the Fifty-sixth congress. The session lasted only 33 minutes and only the most formal and necessary business was transacted. After the adoption of the usual routine resolutions and the aiministration to the new members of the oath of office, Senator Sewell of New Jersey presented fitting resolutions upon the death of the vice president. The resolutions were ordered to be communicated to the house of representatives, and the session, on motion of Mr. Kean of New Jersey, was suspended.

Had to Face a Torribly Deadly Fire at the Liattle of Modder

LONDON, Doc. 5 .- The Daily Chronicle published a dispatch dated Wednesday, Nov. 29, from a correspondent, describing the battle of the Modder River, which said in part: "The battle was waged fleredy for nearly 14 hours. The enemy occupied a strongly entrenched position, their front extending five miles along the bank of the stream. They were well supplied with artillery and fought desperately.

"The battle started about daybreak, our gons shelling the Boers' left. The enemy replied with artillery, Hotchkiss and Maxims, and the artillery duel lasted some hours. Then there was a brief hall in the enemy's operations, of which the general immediately took advantage. Our infantry advanced across the plain toward the river in two brigades. The guards, on the right, were met by an awful hail of bullets from the enemy's sharpshooters, posted close to the river on the opposite bank. Ours had no cover whatever and were simply mowed down. It seemed impossible to live through the terrible fire, but the brave fellows did not retreat. The Boer fire was horribly accurate, and they must have numbered at least 10,000. "The Scots guards advanced about 600 yards before they were fired on. Then they had to lie down to escape the deadly fusillade, which lasted without intermission throughout the day. The Highlanders made several attempts to force a passage of the river, but they were exposed to such a murderous enhiading fire that they had to retire after they had suffered terribly. Subsequently a party of the guards got over and held their own for hours against a vastly superior force. "Our men fell in dozens while trying rush the Boer position. "Among the heroic deeds one of the most conspicuous was that of Lieutenant Colonel Codrington of the Coldstream Guards, Captain Sellepin of the Queensland contingent, and a dozen members of the Coldstream Guards, who jumped into the river and swam nearly to the other side in the face of a steady fire, but who were forced to retire, and, joining hands, swam back, two of their number being nearly drowned in the retreat. "The British guns kept up a heavy fire all day, and fearful havoc was wrought on the Boer positions, the enemy being forced to fly from their entrenchments. Night put an end to the terrible bloodshed. The infantry brigade was dreadfully cut up. The Boers retreated at night, taking their guns with them, and we are now occupying their positions. The enemy's loss was tremendous."

There has been a preliminary skirmish between General Hildyards troops and the Boers, near Colenso, in Natal Colony, near where the next great bat tle in which some 40,000 men will be engaged, will soon be fought.

The Spanish secretary, Senor Benquente, has arrived here with a note from Lieutenant Gillmore to his sister, Mrs. Major Price. He says he has been ill but is now in fairly good health. The Spaniards befriended him and gave him money and clothes.

An Associated Press disputch from Santa Cruz, province of South Ilocos, forwarded by courier to San Fabian, said that General Young, with three troops of the Third cavalry, and Major Peyton C. Marsh's battalion of the Thirty-third infantry, arrived at Santa Cruz. The Americans left Hamapacan, province of Union, this morning, expecting to have a hard fight at Tagudin, in South Hocos province, but they found on arriving there that 600 rebels, under General Tino, had evacuated 36 hours before, deserting an almost impregnable posi-

The insurgents had been entrenched at Tagudin, on the north side of the river, where 100 well disciplined troops might have slaughtered a whole brigade, crossing the river, with the men up to the armpit in water.

The residents of Tagndin received the Americans outside the town with a brass band. They had been robbed of almost everything by the insurgents and were glad to welcome friendly and protecting A similar reception awaited General

Young at Santa Cruz. Prominent citizens, headed by a band, escorted the American officers to houses, where rest and refreshment were offered. General Young's command was al-living on the country, which afforded but little, and the horses were worn out, most of them without shoes. The inhabitants of Santa Cruz and of other towns through which the Americans passed said that Aguinaldo and his Samar and Callao attacked Vigan and landed a force there. In several towns General Young was shown letters written by Lieutenant Gillmore, showing that he I id been kindly treated by the citizens and had been entertained by them when he passed through last May. Reports indicate that all the American prisoners, some 25 or 30 were in Benguet province, but it was supposed that they had been removed into Lepanto province. General Young's desire is to pursue the rebels into the mountains. There is no communication between his small command and any of the other American columns, except indirectly, perhaps by sighting and signalling United States gunboats bound to or from Manila. Captain Rumbold, with 35 men of Company G, Thirty-second infantry, while escorting the signal corps laying the wire from Porac to Florida Blanca, charged and routed 70 insurgents, killing a captain and several privates. The Americans found on the captain the sword and revolver that were taken from the body of Naval Cadet Welborn C. Wood, who was killed by the insurgents while in command of the gunboat Urdaneta, when that vessel was captured in the Orani river.

The ceremony took place in the chapel of the Academy of the Sacred Heart.

Dr. De Costa, being a married man, is therefore not eligible to the priesthood in the Roman Catholic church. The prospects are that he will return to literature and devote himself to writing and lecturing. Dr. DeCosta took a prominent part in the controversy over the ordination of Mr. Briggs a few months ago. He was a bitter opponent of the latter. Dr. De Costa prepared for publication
