Wisdom From Kalamazoo.

The Hon. Julius Caesar Burrows, of Kalamazoo, Mich., has at last got off his great speech in opposition to Senator Quay, to Governor Stone, to the Constitution of the United States and to those Constitutional lawyers of the Senate who are real Constitutional students.

Just why Mr. Burrows, of Kalamazoo, Mich., could not have spoken his little piece many weeks ago we fail to comprehend, for certainly it is only a rehash of the same old arguments that have been riddled through and through by Senator Hoar and others. His whole argument turns upon technicalities and upon the twisting of words out of their plain meaning. One point that he seems to think of great value is the fact that Quay and Penrose opposed the seating of Corbett, who was appointed by the Governor from Oregon. The Kalamazoo statesman will discover that there are various others who voted against Mr. Corbett, but who will vote for Mr. Quay; nor is it a question, as Mr. Burrows suggests, of the personality of Corbett and Quay. The Corbett case was not like Quay's, for there was a conspiracy in Oregon to name Corbett outside the Legislature, while in Pennsylvania the conspiracy was against Quay.

As a matter of fact, there is no such thing as a precedent in an election case. If Mr. Burrows does not know, then he certainly ought to know that in recent cases partisanship has ruled, and the Constitution, except by individual Senators, has been practically ignored in the voting. The Quay case is being considered, not from partisan standpoints, but from the interpretation of the Constitution. And the meaning of that Constitution is that when there is a recess of the Legislature the Governor may fill vacancies.

It is not necessary to linger longer with Brother Burrows, of Kalamazoo, Mich., but it may be interesting to note one of his great objections to the seating of Quay. He is dreadfully afraid that if the Senate indorses the position of Gov. Stone some Governor in the future will actually "usurp the powers of the Legislature" and appoint to a vacancy when the Legislature actually is in session. There may be something more than ordinarily invigorating to the brain in the celery plants that grow out there in Kalamazoo, for certain it is that no other distinguished statesman has ever proposed such a tremendous proposition. It may be that a Governor from Kalamazoo might undertake to make such appointments, but we do not believe that there could possibly be a Senator of the United States who would uphold him. The trouble is that the Constitution would be opposed to it, while the Constitution, on the other hand, very distinctly gives power to a Governor to appoint during a recess.

One other point and we shall leave Senator Burrows alone to his glory. He thinks that if Quay should be seated now all that he would have to do would be to secure enough members of the next Legislature to prevent an election, and that in such event he could be reappointed. "Is the United States Senate prepared," he asks, "to indorse a construction which would lead to such results?" This is the old argument, or rather the old suggestion that a few members acting with a Governor can control a Senatorial appointment. And this is the proposition that Senator Hoar has already answered. Mr. Hoar finds that there is very much more force in the argument that a faction might prevent an election by the Legislature in the hope that it could control the succeeding Legislature, and Mr. Hoar has stated Senator Quay's position exactly. Quay carried the State of Pennsylvania and elected a Republican Legislature. There was no doubt whatever about his position so far as the people were concerned, but a few personal enemies, including David Martin, broke their personal pledge and formed a combination to deadlock the Legislature. The leaders of this bolting movement hoped—a hope that is now shattered—to be able to appeal to the State at the next election and gain control for themselves. It was a conspiracy of a little minority of Republicans to dominate the whole Republican party. It is this conspiracy that led to a recess without an election, and during that recess Governor Stone appointed the candidate who had already been selected by the voters of the State.

It is hardly worth while bothering, therefore, with Mr. Burrows' suggestion. What has happened is one proposition. What might happen under certain contingencies is quite another, and the Senate is not obliged to cross a bridge of the future until that bridge has been erected. —Phila. Inquirer.

BLACKBURN'S credentials to the Senate are not signed by the Governor of Kentucky. They are only sworn statements from the Legislature and will be pigeon-holed until it can be proved that a Georgia Legislature makes and unmakes Senators as well as Governors. Senator Lindsey's term expires next March.

The Pennsylvania Democrats have declared for Mr. Bryan, but they are silent on the 16 to 1 hobby.

Mr. Mackum, former consul to Pretoria, has been withdrawn from circulation as a Democratic campaign card.

An increase of $50,000,000 in the bank note circulation is already in sight as a result of the enactment of the new currency law.

With McKinley and Bryan as presidential candidates, President McKinley was figured as a five to one chance in New York.

The ratio of money circulation to population is now over $26 for every man, woman and child in the United States, and as good as gold.

The Pennsylvania Democrats will go to Kansas City solid for Bryan. Later on Pennsylvania will go into the electoral college solid for President McKinley.

The foreign shipping interests, which are all opposed to the pending shipping bill, seem to have given up the hope of defeating its passage by the present Congress.

The burning of the magnificent convention hall at Kansas City was a public misfortune. Nobody wished such ill luck to the party that makes a specialty of calamity.

GEN. JOE WHEELER destroys all his chances of getting any sort of nomination at Kansas City when he goes about talking of the wonderful prosperity the country is enjoying.

AMERICAN manufacturers are sweeping everything before them in Siberia. When we have established a great commercial mart at Manilla, our expansion in the Orient will be unparalleled.

The Senate is likely to pass a shipping bill before adjournment. The feeling seems to be general that the rehabilitation of our merchant marine in the foreign trade can not be begun too soon.

The Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn presents a singular position. If the election which gave Governor Taylor a majority of the Kentucky votes was irregular, how can Mr. Blackburn's title to a seat in the United States Senate, which was secured through the same process, be deemed perfect.

The Bradford Star says that it has been informed on what appears to be good authority that T. N. Barnsdall, the millionaire oil producer, will be the Democratic candidate for congress against J. C. Sibley. A contest of this kind would make what the boys would call a "hot number."

In 1892 the people voted for a change. In the four subsequent years they found themselves without a cent of change. This year they are content with the change they have in their pockets and won't throw away the substance for the shadow again, even to please the Democratic party of pessimism.

FINE MACHINE EXHIBIT.

Johnston Harvester Company to Make One at Paris.

Itavia has always been and ever will be justly proud of its many factories and especially of its largest one, the Johnston Harvester company's, the rapid growth of which promises to make it the largest concern of its kind in the world. The work this company is now completing for its exhibit of the Paris Exposition is not alone a credit to itself and the town in which it is located, but to the whole country it represents.

The company's exhibit will be composed of eight machines, as follows: Bonnie binder, with truck and bundle carrier; Continental binder; No. 4 chain-drive mower, with reaper attachment; No. 9 chain-drive mower, with dropper attachment; Mayflower chain-drive mower; No. 1 Continental reaper, a 28-tooth Globe rake, and a hay tedder. The wood used in these machines is all selected stock and includes oak, white ash and maple, some of which even in the rough presents a neat appearance in the regularity and distinctness of the grain.

The platform and tool box on the Bonnie binder is of curly maple, highly polished and trimmed with copper, the top of the box being surmounted by an engraved silver plate, with the company's name and place of manufacture. The beauty of this machine will be further enhanced by a handsome engraved copper hood. The base color of the metal parts of this machine, as well as the others, is called a lake, and greatly resembles a maroon. This work is striped with gold leaf and decorated with transfers in moderate proportion.

The platform of the No. 3 combined reaper and the Continental reaper are of natural oak, with tool boxes to match, polished and trimmed like the Bonnie binder with engraved silver name plates. The high mirror-like polish this wood has received does not surpass the artistic skill displayed in the arrangements of the different boards. These platforms, unless carefully scrutinized, appears to be constructed of a single piece, so neatly and cleverly is the grain in each board lined to that of its neighbors. The woodwork of the Mayflower is of natural ash, polished and finished like its companions. In the coloring of the Globe rake an exception is taken, it being a navy blue, but otherwise finished the same as the others. The only wooden parts of this machine are the thills and whiffletrees.

The nickel parts of the machines have not yet been completed. All the parts will be carefully wrapped in tissue paper and tightly packed in wooden cases to prevent the least injury during their long ocean voyage. They will leave America on or about March 15th and on reaching Paris each machine will be set up and placed upon jacks to facilitate the explanation of its action. The company's exhibit is numbered 31,010 and will be located on the second floor of the United States Annex, Palace of Agriculture. The company has been very fortunate in securing space when compared with many of its competitors. Its location is not as desirable as one unfamiliar with the trouble Americans have in securing space might expect, or as it is entitled to, but with one or two exceptions it is the best the building affords. —Batavia (N. Y.) News.

Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

Kenna, Jackson Co., W. Va. About three years ago my wife had an attack of rheumatism which confined her to her bed for over a month and rendered her unable to walk a step without assistance, her limbs being swollen to double their normal size. Mr. S. Mattox insisted on my using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and used it according to the directions and the next morning she walked to breakfast without assistance in any manner, and she has not had another attack since. —A. B.
