ous treatment of the Porto Ricans accords with the most liberal thought of our own country and encourages the best aspirations of the people of the island. While they do not have instant free commercial intercourse with the United States, congress complied with my recommendation by removing, on the first day of May last, 85 per cent. of the duties and providing for the removal of the remaining 15 per cent. on the 1st of March, 1902, or earlier if the legislature of Porto Rico shall provide local revenues for the expenses of conducting the government. During this intermediate period Porto Rican products coming into the United States pay a tariff of 15 per cent, of the rates under the Dingley act, and our goods to Porto Rico may pay a like rate. The duties thus paid and collected both in Porto Rico and the United States are paid to the government of Porto Rico and no part thereof is taken by the national government. There has been no time since the destruction of the enemy's fleet when we could or should have left the Philippine archipelago. After the treaty of peace was ratified no power but congress could surrender our sovereignty or alienate a foot of the territory thus acquired. The congress has not seen fit to do the one or the other, and the president had no authority to do either, if he had been so inclined, which he was not. So long as the sovereignty remains in us it is the duty of the executive, whoever he may be, to uphold that sovereignty and if it be attacked to suppress its assailants. Would our political adversaries do less? The American people are asked by our opponents to yield the sovereignty of the United States in the Philippines to a small fraction of the population, a single tribe out of 80 or more inhabiting the archipelago, a faction which wantonly attacked the American troops in Manila while in rightful possession under the protocol with Spain, awaiting the ratification of the treaty of peace by the senate, and which has since been in active, open rebellion against the United States.

This would require an army and navy far larger than is now maintained in the Phillipines and still more in excess of what will be necessary with the full recognition of our sovereignty. A miltary support of authority not our own as thus proposed is the every essence of militarism, which our opponents in their platform oppose, but which by policy would of necessity be established in its most offensive form.

Those who profess to distrust the liberal and honorable purposes of the administration in its treatment of the Philippines are not justified. Imperialism has no place in its creed or conduct. Freedom is a rock upon which the Republican party was builded and now rests. Liberty is the great Republican doctrine for which the people went to war and for which a million lives were offered and billions of dollars were expanded to make it a lawful legacy of all without the consent of master or slave. There is a strain of ill-concealed hypocrisy in the anxiety to extend the constitutional guarantees to the people of the Philippines, while their nullification is openly advocated at home. Our opponents may listrust themselves but they have n right to discredit the good faith and patriotism of the majority of the people, who are opposed to them; they may fear the worst form of imperialism with the helpless Filipinos in their hands; but if they do, it is because they have parted with the spirit and faith of the fathers and have lost the virility of the founders of the party which they profess to represent. Empire has been expelled from Porto Rico and the Philippines by American freemen. The flag of the Republic now floats over these islands as an emblem of rightful sovereignty. Will the Republic stay and dispense to their inhabitants the blessings of liberty, education and free institutions, or steal away, leaving them to anarchy or imperialism? The American question is between duty and desertion-the American verdict will be for duty and against desertion, for the republic against both anarchy and imperialism. The country has been fully advised of the purposes of the United States in China, and they will be faithfully adhered to as already defined. The nation is filled with gratitude that the little band, among them many of our own blood, who for two months have been subject to privations and peril by the attacks of pitiless hordes at the Chinese capital, exhibiting supreme courage in the face of despair. have been enabled by God's favor to greet their rescuers and find shelter under their own flag. The people not alone of this land but of all lands have watched and prayed through the terrible stress and protracted agony of the helpless sufferers in Pekin, and while at times the dark tidings seemed to make all hope vain, the rescuers never faltered in the heroic fulfillment of their noble task. We are grateful to our own soldiers and sallors and marines, and to all the brave men who though assembled ander many standards representing peoples and races strangers in country and speech were yet united in the sacred mission of carrying succor to the besteged, with a success that is now the cause of a world's rejoicing. Not only have we reason for thanksgiving for our material blessings, but we should rejoice in the complete unifleation of the people of all sections of our country, that has so happily developed in the last few years and made for us a more perfect union. The obligation of old differences, the common devotion to the flag and the common sacrifices for its honor so conspicuously shown by the men of the North and South in the Spanish war have so strengthened the ties of friendship and mutual respect that nothing can ever again divide us. The nation faces the new century gratefully and hopefully, with increasing love of country, with firm faith in its free institutions and with high resolve that they "shall not perish from the earth." Very respectfully yours,

account of the disaster at Galveston: One of the most awful tragedies of modern times has visited Galveston. The city is in ruins and the dead will number probably 1,000. I am just from the city, having been commissioned by the mayor and citizens' committee to get in touch with the outside world and appeal for help. Houston was the nearest point at which working telegraph instruments could be found, the wires as well as nearly all the buildings between here and the Gulf of Mexico being wrecked. When I left Galveston shortly before noon Sunday the people were organizing for the prompt burial of the dead,

The wreck of Galveston was brought about by a tempest so terrible that no words can adequately describe its intensity and by a flood which turned the city into a raging sea. The weather bureau records show that the wind attained a velocity of 84 miles an hour when the measuring instrument blew away, so it is impossible to tell what was the maximum.

storm had been raging in the gulf and the tide was very high. The wind at first came from the north and was in in direct opposition to the force from the gulf. While the storm in the gulf piled the water up on the beach of the city, the north wind piled the water from the bay on the bay part of the city. About noon it became evident that the city was going to be visited with

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS Broadford Posse Unnerved by Their Intended Victim's Ferocious Appearance.

CONNELLSVILLE, Sept. 7 .- The citizens of Broadford, a coke village of this vicinity, indulged in an exciting man hunt Tuesday night, and would have emulated their Southern cousins methods of inspiring awe into the lawless with the aid of a rope and convenient tree limb, but they had not counted upon the ferocious appearance of the desperado with whom they had attempted to deal, and it required two peaceful bluecoats to induce him to go to Jall. The cause of the man hunt was a big Mexican with the euphonious name of Don Tro. While Mrs. John Schaffer was alone in her home at night Don Tro, armed with two formidable revolvers. forced an entrance, and, compelling the woman on the pain of a death befitting the ingenuity of the grandest Mexican banderillo if she refused to act as his guide, Don Tro made a search of the house. His efforts were rewarded only by the acquisition of another revolver. then the Don, lisping a deprecating "Adios, senora," to the half-hysterical woman, disappeared into the dar-ness. The alarm was hastily given and in few moments the whole town, armed to the teeth, was in pursuit of the fleeing Don Tro. When the pursuers, crying vengeance, came upon the Mexican they were brought, with a shocking suddenness, to the realization that they were up against the real thing in a cowboy bandit. Don Tro, wearing a typical sombrero, in which might easily be oncealed an arsenal, a vest that would have done any redskin proud, and the frayed buckskin trousers of the plains, stood with a revolver in each hand, and both were pointed at the crowd. He hurled defiance and oaths at his pursuers, and, awed by the terrible costume of their prey and fearing the accurate target practice of the vaquero, they decided upon giving the better part of valor the benefit of the doubt. So Don Tro disappeared into the woods, whereupon the man hunt was called off on account of darkness. Filled with remorse and good intentions Don Tro decided to reform while among citizens so peaceable, and accordingly surrendered to Policemen Charles Bishop and Frank McCormick. He was held for court by Justice Crawford Stillwagon on charges of carrying concealed weapons and larceny.

A subject of immediate importance to our country is the completion of a great waterway of commerce between the Atlantic and Pacific. The construction of a maritime canal is now more than ever indispensable to that intimate and ready communication between our Eastern and Western seaports demanded by the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands and the expansion of our influence and trade in the Pactfic. Our national policy more imperatively than ever calls for its completion and control by this government; and it is believed that the next session

They are dangerous conspiracies against the public good and should be nade the subject of prohibitory or penal legislation. Publicity will be a helpful influence to check the evil. Uniformity of legislation in the several states should be secured. Discrimination between what is injurious and what is useful and necessary in business operations is essential to the wise and effective treatment of this subject. We have been in possession of Cuba since the first of January, 1899. We have restored order and established domestic tranquility. We have fed the starving, clothed the naked and ministered to the sick. We have improved chosen for all the municipalities of Cuba. These local governments are now in operation, administered by the people. Our military establishment has cen reduced from $43,000 to less than be held on the 15th of September under a fair election law already tried in the municipal elections, to choose members of a constitutional convention, and the convention by the same order is to assemble on the first Monday of November to frame a constitution upon which

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 11.-Richard Spillane, a wellknown Galveston newspaper man and correspondent in that city, who reached Houston after a terrible experience, gives the following distribution of food and all necessary work after a period of disaster.

The storm began at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. Previous to that a great disaster. Hundreds of residences along doned, the families fleeling to dwellings in higher portions of the city. Every home was opened to the refugees, black or white. The winds were rising con-

Very few, if any, buildings escaped injury. There is hardly a habitable dry house in the city. When the people who had escaped death went out at daylight to view the work of the tempest and the floods they saw the most horrible sights imaginable. In three blocks from Avenue N to Avenue P, in Tremont street, I saw eight bodies.
