QUAY WINS WITHOUT A DOUBT. Has 130 Votes on First Ballot, a Clear Majority in Both Houses. Insurgent Conspiracy Goes to Pieces, and Traitors go Down in Despair.

After the greatest political battle ever known to this country, extending over a period of nearly six years, against the most overwhelming odds in the form of a combination representing millions of dollars, Matthew Stanley Quay has won his re-election to the United States Senate. It was a contest in which every form of bribery known to political tricksters was employed to encompass his defeat. And against it all Senator Quay submitted his candidacy fairly to the people and won.

Yesterday at 3 o'clock p. m. the Legislature convened and immediately proceeded to ballot for U. S. Senator. In the Senate Quay had 126 votes, Guffey 12, Dalzell 10, Smith and Huff 11 each. In the House, Quay had 104, Guffey 44, Dalzell 24, Huff 6, Stewart 3, Smith 11, and 4 scattering. Gaylin of Schuylkill was the only Democrat to cast his vote for Quay. Three members who had hitherto acted with the insurgents, voted for Quay. These were Reynolds of Lackawanna, Kendall of Somerset, and Welty of Franklin.

Mr. Dunt of Forest stood out against the caucus nominee, voting for Dalzell. Emory of Venango also went down in insurgent week. Senator Quay will be sworn in at Washington to-morrow, and immediately leave for Florida for a few days' rest.

Gold Democrats appear to be taking the lead in Illinois. Their policy will be to allow erring brethren to return.

SEVERAL Austrian papers advise an industrial combination against the United States. A commission to study American enterprise and ingenuity would be made to the purpose.

MASSACHUSETTS excludes illiterates from the ballot box, but not along the color line. In the latest registration in Boston not more than one man in a thousand was kept off the lists for illiteracy, and night schools are always open for the benefit of such cases.

It is said Miss Ruth Bryan is something of a joker. Starting to school the other day she made a desperate run for a street car and finally succeeded in catching it. As she took her seat she asked, "Well, I am glad one of the family can run for something and get it."

ADMIRAL CERVERA, whose gallant defeat at Santiago is still fresh in the memory of all, is lying critically ill in Spain. In this country, which he visited at the close of the war and where he made many friends, the news of his death would be read with sincere regret.

THE oldest postmaster in the United States, Roswell Barsley, who is 91 years old, and has handled the mail at North Lansing, Thompkins county, N. Y., for 72 consecutive years, has been invited to attend the inauguration as a guest of the Postoffice department. Mr. Barsley was appointed by John Quincy Adams, and has served under 19 Presidents and 33 Postmaster Generals.

THE Democrats of the Bryan order who are uneasy lest Cleveland shall get another nomination should banish their fears. There is not the faintest chance that any Democratic convention which assembles during his life will give him another candidacy. Nor is there any reason to believe that he is seeking another nomination, or wants one. Nevertheless the Bryan end of the Democracy will keep on assailing Cleveland just as if he was a political possibility. This is an odd situation.

The present indications are that Clark, of Montana, will not only get to the Senate, but that he will be able to hold his seat this time. The death of Marcus Daly puts an end to the way, and ends a vendetta of many years' standing. Some of Daly's friends are as bitter against Clark as Daly ever was, but they lack the energy, the resourcefulness and the persistence of the deal-catcher. The record of the feud between Daly and Clark was the history of the politics of Montana for the past dozen years, and the death of the former stands a chance to leave a mark in the annals of that state's public affairs.

STATE Superintendent Schaefer, in a paragraph of his annual report, says: In the country one seldom hears of complaints that the pupils have too much to study and that they grow nervous from too many branches in the curriculum. Evening study is not displaced by fashionable parties for children, by junior societies organized in the name of the church, and by other well intended schemes of enjoyment, which keep the children late at night and send them to school fatigued, nervous and unable to think and study. Sound sleep, healthful diet, fresh air, and an abundance of exercise prepare the brain for study, and the school is not blamed for injury done to the children by the social life of the home. Comparison of the pupils in rural schools with those attending schools in the cities is sufficient to convince the careful observer that although worry and undue memory work have disastrous consequences, children suffer more from the late hours and over pressure of fashionable society than from the tasks prescribed by the school.

The Bribe Legislator.

A number of years ago, when bribery and corruption in the legislature was rampant, and the people in consequence demanded a new Constitution increasing the number of representatives, William B. Conway, editor of the American Manufacturer, wrote a poem entitled "The Bribe Legislator." It was lurid and obscene, but not too much so to cover the case. While we do not believe that bribery is nearly so common in our legislative halls as it is popularly supposed to be, says the Pinksutawney Spirit, we have often thought that every man who aspires to a place of public trust ought to be required to commit this poem to memory. When exposed to temptation he could run over it in his mind, and thus see himself in the light that all honest men ought to regard him, should he be weak enough to yield.

The man who takes a bribe would strip the dead, Or rob the orphan of his trust of bread. So lost to justice, equity and right, That man would steal the aged widow's mite; Is well prepared for any kind of fraud: Would sell his country or betray his God, Pillage the palace of the King of Kings or strip the gliding from an angel's wings. The man who is unfaithful to a trust, However small is vitally unjust; And he who is unjust in little things, Would be a villain in the courts of kings. Present a bribe and down his virtue falls In courts or camps or legislative halls. The bribed apostate blot his hateful name From each and every roll of honest fame. Let scorn still point her finger and her gibes, And say: "Behold the consequence of lies!" Let guileless children as he passes by, Shrink from his touch and shudder at his eye. Let lovely women loath him with disgust, And shun him like the reptile in the dust. And while he lives let infamy alone Claim this bribed legislator as her own Until he dies and sinks into his grave To poison worms who feed upon the knave. There, amidst the storms, let heinous furies foul Hold nightly revels and in concert howl; Let hissing serpents make that spot their home. And let the guardians of his tomb, And when he goes to hell, let devils stare And ask him who the devil sent him there; And feel the insult, deep, severe and keen.

To see a friend, pre-eminently mean, 'Midst other devils rudely ushered in— A foul, appalling prodigy of sin! And in his' hercest, hottest furnace trampled, Let him be damned—superlatively damned! And why not damned for such transcendent crimes? Yes, damned eternally, ten thousand times!

CASHIER DISCHARGED.

HAD failed to Collect Interest on Notes Held by Bank Agent as His Father. HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 14.—C. H. Lindenmann, for the last six years cashier of the Hazleton National Bank, one of the foremost financial institutions in Northeastern Pennsylvania, was discharged Saturday by the directors for a peculiar offense. An examination of the books made a few days ago disclosed that no interest had been received for three years past on three demand notes held by the bank against Mr. Lindenmann's father, although interest was due on them every six months. When Cashier Lindenmann was called upon to explain he said that because of financial difficulties his father had been unable to pay the interest. He admitted that he made no endeavor to press him for payment, nor had he made good to the bank the accumulating interest, amounting to $1,802.85, out of his own pocket. He had been unable to do this, he said, because he had otherwise financially assisted his father. This explanation was not satisfactory to the directors and I. P. Pardee, president of the bank, demanded Mr. Lindenmann's immediate resignation, which was given. Mr. Lindenmann's other accounts are all straight.

HIS COFFIN KILLED HIM.

ROTHMEYER kept it in His Room and It Fell on Him While He Was Moving. SHARON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Abram Rothmeyer, an eccentric German, aged about 75 years, some time ago became imbued with the notion that after his death grave robbers would steal his body and sell it to some medical college. He didn't believe in cremation, so he had a heavy metal casket with a strong lock on it made in Cleveland. The casket was delivered to his home a short time ago, and he had it set on end in a room. Rothmeyer seemed to take special delight in daily inspecting the receptacle. A few nights ago he was trying to move the heavy casket, when it fell on him. He died Wednesday. Physicians say a blood vessel in his head had been ruptured. Rothmeyer was buried in the coffin that had caused his death.

Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by P. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 15 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and cures all diseases of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Cream of the News.

Nothing on the table tastes as good if there is a great quantity of it. Heavy pants, coats and shirts at T. C. S. Some men would have hardly any head at all if they shaved off their beard. This is the month we clean up the odds and ends. The price makes the remnants go at Hopkins' store. A poor excuse is better than none, but some are so poor that they are good. All new goods, and sold cheapest at T. C. S. As many or more nice girls are made ridiculous by foolish fathers than by foolish mothers. Don't buy a cape or jacket until you see the bargains at Hopkins' store. Every married woman wants to think that she had plenty of beaux before she was married. See those overcoats and ulsters at T. C. S. To forget your rain coat is as bad as forgetting your umbrella. If you want shoes from the bargain counter see what Hopkins has. They are odd pairs but last season's shoes. Underwear for all sold cheap at T. C. S. It may be a mistake, but one generally gets the idea that a man is dirty if he bespatters his shirt front with tobacco. Hopkins still has a few jackets and capes that go at your own price. Best rubbers and felts sold only at T. C. S. If a man never swore before, he is apt to begin when some one brings in a whole column of statistics to read. Don't miss the sale of ladies wraps at T. C. S. Trifling people try to put off doing everything till afternoon.

Letter to W. F. Blum.

Tionesta, Pa. Dear Sir: You buy your horse shoes and nails; your grand-father, if he was a blacksmith, made 'em. You can't afford to hammer them out by hand, when you can buy as good, or better perhaps, ready-made to your hand, for a little more than the cost of the iron. What do you think of a painter who goes on buying his linseed oil and white-lead, and mixing, and tinting by hand, and charging his time for work that is done far better-done than he can do it, done by machinery, done as your horse shoes and nails are made. Mistake isn't it? He is wasting his chance in the world. There is no better stuff to do business with than good horse shoes and paint; and no better work than putting them on. Good horse shoes well put on: it's the putting 'em on that makes you a blacksmith: no matter who makes 'em. Who wants to go back to the old times, and make his own horse shoes? Between us two that painter don't know how to make good paint—he don't; but paint has run away from him. Yours truly, F. W. DEVORE & Co.
