window in the rear of the big factory was shattered, as were the windows in the front and rear of the five story build-ing Nos. 404, 406, and 408 East Thirty-

The employes in the two factories rushed to the fire escapes which were soon filled with excited men and women, many of them bleeding from their wounds. Some of them thinking that the building was about to collapse, jump-ed to the sidewalk from the fire escape balconies on the second floor. None of them was seriously hurt.

How the fire started is not known further than that it was the result of an explosion in the boiler room which had been wrecked by the explosion and con-

Contractor Cody were at work with thirty men attempting to pull down the shaving tower adjacent to the boiler room, in which the explosion in the afternoon took place. The tearing down of this tower is thought to have been responsible for the start of the second fire. The ruins of the tower fell into the ruins of the boller room and on top of ad-jacent rooms in which were stored chemicals for the purpose of seasoning words, thus causing a second explosion. Smoldering embers from the late fire added to this and in a moment there was a huge blaze, Engine Company 21 which had at-tached lines of hose to the hydrant at the corner and almost underneath the walls of the burning factory, was seen to be in a dangerous position. The firemen were forced back by the heat and were compelled to abandon the three big white horses that stood there. The wall had broken out just beside the engine and the heat was unbearable. The horses struggled to escape, but seemed paralyzed with

Victoria's Remains Placed In

Mausoleum at Frogmore.

Thousands of People Availed Themselve of the King's Command That the Ceremony Be Fublic-Royal Family Walked Behind the Casket to the Tomb-Placed

Beside Husband's Remains, WINDSOR, Feb. 5 .- The last honors have been paid to Queen Victoria. Her body now rests peacefully near that of her husband in the mausoleum at Frogmore. The final ceremonies were more of a funereal and pathetic character than any of the obsequies which preceded them. Shortly before 3 o'clock, in the presence of the royal mourners, the Grenadler Guards of honor lifted the coffin from its temporary resting place in the Albert memorial chapel and placed it on a gun carriage. In the meanwhile it on a gun carriage. In the meanwhile the Queen's company of Grenadiers, drawn up in the quadrangle, presented arms and wheeled into line, their rifle mumales pointing to the rear, at the re-verse, and with slow, measured steps marched towards the castle gate.

At the head of the procession was band playing Chopin's funeral march. Slowly the cortege passed under the messive archway onto the Long Walk, which was a mass of black, brilliantly edged with scarlet. Life Guardsmen kept the crowd back.

In place on the gun carriage was the same regalia which had attracted the

TOT SAVES FAMILY.

Six-Year-Old Girl at Philadelphia Show

Rare Presence of Mind. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.-Guided by inspiration or intuition, Maggie Brad-ley, a tot not yet 6 years old, saved five adults from death early Sunday morning. A gas main broke directly in front of the Bradley home, 2702 Sears street, soon after 3 o'clock, and a great volume of illuminating gas poured into the celiar. Mag-ie's father, mother, sister and two trothers were overcome by the gas, and she, waking, tried to arouse her grand-mother, but without success. She slipped her shoes on over her nightgown slipped her shoes on over her nightgown and started for a place a block away, where she had often seen a policeman. She left the street door open, "because ir smelled bad in the house," and that circumstance figured in the life-saving. Falling to find a policeman at the cor-ner, she walked two blocks farther and found Officer Moore. "Theat moonle at our house," she said

"Dead people at our house," she said. "Take me to them," said the big patrolman, as he wrapped his arms around the chattering child and started on a run down the street.

The physeilans say he arrived just in time, but all were saved.

BRILLIANT NAVAL PARADE. Awe-Inspiring Scene During Transit of Queen's Body From Cowes to Portsmooth.

LONDON, Feb. 2.-Half a million of he late Queen Victoria's devoted sub ects, lining the shores of the Solent yesterday, witnessed a majestic and awe spiring pageant and bade a last farewell to their beloved ruler, happy in the circumstances of her death, sovereign of the greatest naval power in the world and fortunate in the manner of her obsequies. The dominant note in the whole scene was its grand simplicity and, so far as human utterance was concerned, its si-lence. The sad procession glided along in beautiful order and precision, as though moved by some hidden power. No incident of any kind occurred to mar its stately beauty. There was no accifent of any sort ashore or afloat. The weather was the traditional "Queen's weather." The "Queen of the Seas" was carried across the waters to misters. the accompaniment of minute guns and military music-a picture which will live
