J. C. WENK, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1901.

Calendar for April 1901 showing days of the week and dates.

ANNOUNCEMENTS. Rates—County Treasurer, $10. State Delegate, $5. County Surveyor, $5. Cash must accompany the order for announcement.

Primary—Saturday, May 4, 1901. COUNTY TREASURER. We are authorized to announce CALVIN M. ARNER, of Tionesta, as a candidate for County Treasurer, subject to Republican usages.

STATE DELEGATE. We are authorized to announce ELMER L. SUTTON, of Jenks township, as a candidate for Delegate to the Republican State Convention.

MICHIGAN'S Republican majority last month was 75,000. While not as large as on the full presidential vote, it will serve.

GEN. CANNISTON M. CLAY is more than 90 years old, but he commands quite as much respect for his fighting qualities as for his age.

The advent of favorable weather for duck-hunting caused an abrupt postponement of ex-President Cleveland's brace of lectures on Venezuela.

THE man has been found who gave Andrew Carnegie his first start in business, and who was likewise unable to keep up with him ever afterward.

THE fact that a Chicago syndicate has cornered all the peanuts in March shows that the speculators are not satisfied to own the pit, but propose to invade the gallery.

WORK on the gold mines in South Africa is opening up, but it will be some time before the British will fill the existing void of $500,000,000 spent for war expenses.

RUSSELL SAGE says it is too late in life for him to attempt to keep up with such young bucks as Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, and besides, he needs the money.

GLASGOW is building a municipal street railway and will buy the rails in the United States. If the Scotch city wants the best equipment that also must be obtained in this country.

WHAT chemistry can do for mankind is illustrated by the fact that more than two thirds of the sugar used by the world is derived from beets. In 1840 the proportion of beet sugar consumed was less than one-twentieth.

ACCORDING to his physician's statement, the czar's health is shaky, his hands tremble and his general condition is unsteady, but the editor of a Russian newspaper has been arrested for intimating that he is wobbling.

AUSTRALIA'S yield of gold has gone up nearly threefold since 1890, and its value last year was over $76,000,000. An increasing quantity of this treasure is finding its way to the United States as a result of our expanding commerce on the Pacific.

THE giant among ships, the Celtic, just launched at Belfast, is an eighth of a mile long, with a beam of 75 feet and 33,000 tons displacement. She has room for 2800 passengers. Marine craft keep growing fast and it is useless to attempt to fix their limits.

WHEN a member of Congress, Tom Johnson managed to get a book by Henry George printed in the Congressional Record and then franked a million copies through the mails. Tom was an expensive luxury to taxpayers in that little con game.

MAYOR TOM JOHNSON, of Cleveland, is surrounded by a full set of Republican city officers, who received over 3000 majority. As Mr. Johnson promised several things he knows he cannot perform, his Republican colleagues will come in handy when he finds it necessary to explain his failure.

THE Brooklyn Eagle says of Boss Tweed and his minions that "felons or fugitives they are remembered more as monsters than men," yet they seemed at one time to have entrenched themselves beyond the power of an honest ballot. The political chest is not as safe as he imagines.

It is noticeable that the apportionment bills are lagging somewhat in the legislature of this state. One bill, the Congressional, has passed the Senate, and gone to the House, but that body has thus far made little or no progress with this important measure. This is the year, and this the opportune time for making a general re-apportionment of the State into Legislative, Senatorial, Congressional, and Judicial districts, and if the legislature fails to accomplish at least a portion of this business it will have fallen far short of its duty, and cannot hope to escape censure from the people. We recognize the difficulty of satisfactorily arranging the Senatorial and Legislative districts, for in either case the big cities gain at the expense of the country, and the cities are already too heavy for the country in point of representation, but with the Congressional bill this is not the case so much, and the people are growing tired of the large, snaky, cross string districts arranged fourteen years ago. There's no reason why Pennsylvania should not be re-apportioned before the adjournment of the present legislature.

On the Way to Palestine.

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 28, 1901. Dear Editor—

Our stay in Italy was a little like the section boss' report of a detailed train to the superintendent—"Off again, on again, gone again, Flanigan." We got into Naples Friday morning and after a hasty breakfast on board were met by the Gaze conductor and guide, who took us off on a tender to the custom house. Before this, however, our ship was surrounded by a large number of row boats of all sorts, some imploring pennies, some selling flowers, and they were beautiful, some selling oranges and other kinds of fruit and still others who wanted to take us ashore. Our position was such that we could look on unmoved and unconcerned. All we had to do was wait till the conductor got things ready and said "come."

When we got into the custom house bedlam seemed to have broken loose. Of all the jabbering, pushing, pulling, gesticulating! It was a revelation. After about three hours waiting for our baggage to come ashore and be examined we got out and were driven to the Hotel Grande Bretagne. We had lunch and at once started for Pompeii. In the morning a heavy mist hung over the bay and surrounding hills and I looked in vain for the one thing I had longed for all my life—Mt. Vesuvius. The first novel I ever read was Bulwer Lytton's "Last Days of Pompeii." This had awakened my imagination and surrounded this mountain with a halo of wonderful sublimity. Many a time on the ocean trip I had wondered whether I should be disappointed and was almost sorry that I was so soon to look upon it lest my idol should be shattered.

We had scarcely drawn out of the depot when I yelled, "There it is!" Some of the people said what, what, craning their necks to see, "Why, Vesuvius, of course, what else is there here that it would apply to?" Vesuvius was my id. I suppose everyone else had their id also.

It took us about 40 minutes to run down to Pompeii, second class, in a little dinky car with doors opening at the sides into compartments holding eight persons. Railroad here would be a joke in America. The conductor blows his horn, this, however, is sometimes done in America somebody gives a yell in an unknown tongue which means something, I suppose, to somebody somewhere, the engine gives a moansy screech and away we go. "Pompeii," the guard sings out, the door swings open, and we, 27 in all, climb out and stand at the very foot of the historic volcano and at the entrance of that exhumed city that has given to the world a more perfect knowledge of ancient social life and customs, manners and architecture than all the histories ever written. I was wholly unprepared for the scene before me and wanted to sit down and think and get myself pulled together. But we were at once hustled off into the ruins where a special guide explained in a mighty broken way the points of interest. The ashes had broken in the roofs but does not seem to have been deeper than would cover a good sized one story house. Of course it was deeper at the time of the destruction, but through these succeeding eighteen centuries has settled down and become very hard. A very large part of the city is now exposed and the work is still going on.

At 5:30 p. m. we took carriages for Sorrento on the bay opposite Naples. The clouds had all drifted away and old Vesuvius, with the smoke belching out in dense, white clouds, from her top, stood out in all his grandeur. I sat in the carriage with my eye fixed upon it till the gathering gloom hid it from sight. Once a light breeze drifted by about half way up its side, above which the top appeared. The rays of the setting sun just touched the white cloud of smoke making it appear a crown of glory on his hoary head, a scene unsurpassed in sublimity and splendor.

The ride to Sorrento was 3 1/2 hours at a continuous trot. The drivers are regular Jehus. The road lay along the water's side and was lined with villages all the way. It was macadamized and made excellent wheeling. Sometimes the mountains towered thousands of feet above us and were held by massive retaining walls of ancient masonry. On the side toward the sea ran a continuous stone wall about four feet high with a flat top stone. In many places the road seemed to be built upon masonry. The mountain sides were terraced by stone walls and on the flats grew all kinds of tropical fruits as the olive, orange, lemon, pomegranate and fig, so carefully cultivated that it all appears a large garden. This garden, or series of gardens would reach to the very top of the mountain. How they got the fruit off I don't know unless it was by the way I saw them take the wood off. It was when we were driving back over this road the next day to Castellamare. We saw some ropes reaching away up the hillside several hundred feet long. We were wondering what these were for when all at once there came whizzing down a bundle of sticks or brush, about an armful, which some one away up above had fastened to the rope. The sag in the rope checked the speed at the bottom which was hitched well up on a tree below.

The beauty of the Bay of Naples, with its deep blue waters, clear air, and beautiful surrounding landscape has not been exaggerated by writers. It would be a strong imagination that could exaggerate it. But the people, well they seem to be out of harmony with the spirit of beauty and peace nature has placed there. I think I shall reserve further comment until I have passed through on my return from the East. I may see differently then. There may be other reasons also.

We drove around through Naples and saw hurriedly the main points of interest. Among these were the prison for political offenders, (think of that built in the bay; the royal palaces, two of them, one near the water and the other, which was Queen Marguerite's favored place and where the young king was born, on a hill some distance out; the ruins of an old palace of Queen Anna I think, destroyed in 1842; the grave of Virgil at the end of one of the tunnels leading out into the country. Then we were driven thro' one tunnel, back thro' another and to a hill top around which a parapet was built and where we had a birds eye view of the bay and city. Vesuvius was but a step distant and the island of Capri, 1790 feet high and 40 miles away, was in plain view.

At 2:30 Monday morning we sailed out of the bay on H. R. S. Orizaba of the Orient Line. About 10 a. m. we passed Stromboli island, a volcano, famous in history. Here it is said in mythology that Aecelus held the winds imprisoned in caverns and Vulcan forged bolts for Jove. The Crusaders affirmed they heard the souls of those in purgatory, to which this was the entrance, imploring the intercession of the monks of Cluny for their release. This volcano is in almost constant eruption and a continuous cloud of smoke pours forth from its crater. We passed very close to it.

Later on in the day we passed between the famed Scylla and Charybdis. Here the Strait of Messina, which separates Italy from Sicily, is only 2 1/2 miles wide and is dangerous to navigation. The currents are variable and their meeting produces whirls and rippings locally known as "Garofalo." These are dangerous to small boats, and it is little wonder the ancients had such legends about the rock and whirlpool. Along this strait also is the city of Reggio, or Rhegium, where Paul stopped on his way to Rome. Further south on the shore of Sicily is Syracuse, where Paul also stopped and which has also a prominent place in Ancient History. Mt. Etna, 10,880 ft. high, and 40 or 50 miles away, catches the eye and holds it till the rapidly moving slip bears away and the mountain falls away in the haze of the atmosphere. Clouds were continually whirling around it and only occasionally could the glitter of its snowy sides be seen or the smoke ascending from its top.

Yours, J. V. McANINCH.

BAROSMA. THE GREAT KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE

Is perfectly harmless in its effects and pleasant to take. Thompson's Barosma cures by gently stimulating the liver and kidneys to excrete from the system all particles of matter that are poisoning not only to them, but also to the stomach, heart, blood and other organs of the body. Barosma cures are permanent. When the liver is torpid or inactive the whole system must suffer, undergoing a process of slow poisoning; the stomach is filled with carbonic acid gas, inflaming the mucous membrane or coating of the stomach, causing heartburn, palpitation, indigestion, bitter taste on rising, a dull heavy sluggish feeling, a desire to sleep, fullness and dizzy-headedness. Thompson's Barosma is an excellent stomach cure in Barosma. Having used a large quantity of Barosma, I have been perfectly cured of my stomach, causing heartburn, palpitation, indigestion, bitter taste on rising, a dull heavy sluggish feeling, a desire to sleep, fullness and dizzy-headedness.
