Q. JAMIESON, Chairman.

Now that Russia has cut out our iron and steel, even the Democrats admit that the foreigner pays the tax.

Mrs. Nation refuses to ride in a car where there is an ax strapped on the wall bearing the placard, "to be used only in case of fire."

It is clear that the war in Africa still continues. Lord Kitchener's latest despatch begins with the significant words: "I regret to report."

For the first time the gold in Uncle Sam's strong box has passed $600,000,000. Another record of the usual kind is due to a Republican administration.

Ohio can furnish the next national Democratic ticket, Johnson and Jones, on a platform embracing the heavenly window and the open street-car.

The true road will be clear to the Cubans as soon as they freely and spontaneously grasp the fact that a chance for annexation to this country is a great privilege.

Turn out to the Republican primaries next Saturday. Every member of the party should be on hand at his proper polling place and cast his ballot for the candidates of his choice.

One of the regiment just returned to this country left 200 of its members in the Philippines to engage in business. The climate seems to be no serious drawback to the average American.

Edward Atkinson is framing a suitable apology to present to the Anti-imperialist League for his intimation that Gen. Aguinaldo possessed staying qualities of the very highest order.

Senator McLaurin advises the South to renounce sectional prejudice and support broad national politics for the expansion of trade and upbuilding of a common country. It is refreshing to hear words like these from South Carolina.

France will build the finest residence in Washington for housing its American legation. When it shall be completed some oil or iron magnate will put up a palace at the capital that will make the French building look like the half-way point to twenty centimes.

Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, declares that Congressmen Babcock's plan of tariff reduction to kill the trusts is his own idea exclusively and that there will be no tariff revision by the new Congress. This will please the business man. No merchant, manufacturer or banker, be he Republican, Democrat or populist, wants to see the tariff controversy reopened.

Judge Dimmock, the Alabama member of the Republican national committee, has this to say of the political outlook: "The Republican nominee for the presidency in 1904 will undoubtedly figure prominently in the congressional campaign of next year. Thus far there have been absolutely no sentiments expressed in the South about candidates so far as I know. I do not believe President McKinley will try in the least to influence the selection of his Republican successor, but inherently, whether he will or not, his administration is certain to have no small power in naming the man, so far as the South is concerned. Mr. McKinley has done marvels for the South since he became president, and Democrats as well as Republicans recognize the fact."

Give the Country Boy and Girl a Chance.

An educational meeting for the purpose of discussing the high school question was held in Normal Hall, Clarion, Pa., April 18th and 19th.

The first session held at two o'clock on Thursday afternoon was called to order by Prof. A. J. Davis, principal of Clarion Normal. W. A. Beer, Supt. of Clarion county, was chosen chairman.

After singing "America" and prayer by Prof. Ballentine of Clarion Normal, the question, "What shall the teacher be?" was taken up. Papers written by R. E. Holet, Prof. Weeb, J. M. Myers, and J. L. Pinks were read, showing that the teacher should be a literator, a scientist, an historian and a geographer.

After the papers were read, they were discussed by members of the institute. State Supt. Jones of Indiana addressed the audience in a few words, after which the institute adjourned until evening.

The evening brought a large and appreciative audience. The program was begun by a cantata, "Our Country," by the children of the Clarion public schools under the direction of Miss Davis, music by the male quartet and by Prof. Boyden and Miss Madat. The audience then sang a song entitled "The High School For All." This song was the key-note of the meeting, and sung to the tune of "Hold the Fort," aroused much enthusiasm.

Supt. Jones then was introduced. He prefaced his address by contrasting the high school system of Pennsylvania with that of Indiana. The latter has over fourteen hundred high schools and provides for the students to go thru the Universities kept up by the State. Every child who does not live near a high school must be sent to a high school of four years above his common school course. Nearly every township has a high school. Indiana is the richest state in the union in the line of high school system. Pennsylvania has only about three hundred high schools and the child's education at the expense of the state ends with the high school. After showing the need for an awakening in Pennsylvania that the country children should be given a chance to go higher than the common country school, Supt. Jones then gave the address of the evening, "The Teacher Must be a Master." In his speech he said that all the people of the world, regardless of their civilization, have had some system of education peculiar to themselves. The rude barbarian was as much interested in his aim as we are.

In China they say to their boys, (they do not educate their girls), "You must reverence your ancestors, and you must become acquainted with the teachings of Confucius, but before all you must reverence your ancestors. The Chinese say duty, the Greeks, beauty, is the aim of education. France says to her boys and girls that the highest thing that a state can do for them is to give them a trade. Every French boy and girl is taught to do one or more things with their hands. "We could go thru the history of the world and find that every race of people has got out its own salvation; how they have gone up and gone down, simply because of their aims of education. Now we, being younger, had the advantage of studying these different views, discarding the bad and taking up for example the good; throwing aside the views by which so many fell. We have said that the teacher is different from any one else, and should be given an education different from those who do not intend to follow the profession. The minister, doctor, lawyer, musician must be educated for his particular line of work, and the same must be true of the teacher. The teacher who only believes in the "three R's" is no longer permitted in the ranks. We must teach science, manual training, music, and everything by which to advance the child and put him in perfect harmony with the whole world. The man who did everything for himself has passed away, and now as the world advances we find that the tendency is for each to make a specialty of one or more things."

THE HIGH SCHOOL QUESTION.

The Friday morning session was devoted to the study of the High School Question. Prof. L. L. Himes, Principal of Clarion High School, opened the discussion, "Uniformity of High Schools." A general discussion followed. The fact that many people do not understand what is meant by a High School was set forth by an illustration by Prof. Carothers of Eminton. He said he had talked to a school director who told that the school building two stories high was a "High School." The difference between the High School and Elementary School is in matter and method. In the latter the subjects must be those upon which the senses can act, while in the former the forces which act in the production of the subject must be unified—the energy which runs thru the subject must be seen—reason must be made prominent.

The so-called High Schools of Pennsylvania have no uniformity in their courses. Many of them have only two or three branches above the common ones. To say, "It is a graduate of a Penn's High School," means nothing. The course should be such that the above statement could be made with pride.

When the subject had been thoroughly discussed, a motion was made that measures be taken to form an association for the promotion of secondary schools. The motion was carried, and steps taken for its organization. The constitution, previously drawn up, was amended and adopted. The name chosen was, "The Western Penn's Association for the promotion of Secondary Schools. A committee on permanent organization was appointed consisting of Pres. W. H. Crawford of Allegheny College, Supt. J. M. Berkey of Johnstown, Prof. E. D. Carothers of Eminton.

All persons actively engaged in educational work may become active members and all interested in the promotion of education may become associate members. More than fifty teachers who were present signified their intentions of becoming charter members. The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the committee on organization.

Much interest and enthusiasm was aroused in the course of the institute, and it is believed that something is about to be done to raise the standard of High School courses in Pennsylvania so that children educated in Pennsylvania will receive an education not inferior to that in other states.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrah. Hall's Catarrah Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrah being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrah Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
