Death of A. W. Hill.

Arnold Wilson Hill, son of Hon. Chas. Arnold and Mary Wolcott Hill was born Oct. 22, 1861, and died May 29, 1901.

Another deep gloom has been cast over ar entire community in the death of Mr. Hill. Snatched away in the vigor of manhood, not having attained two score years, his going from us is but another reminder of how uncertain life is, even to the most robust and healthy Scarce two weeks had passed before he left, when he was on our streets mingling with his friends and neighbors, apparently as healthy as any. But the brittle thread of life suddenly snapped and the light of life left the ear hly house of clay amidst a large number of sorrow ing friends and relatives. Which is true; and a better that lasts six years. Lea 1 and oil lasts three; Devoe lead and zine lasts six. When a paint begins to let in water,

Resolutions. STOW POST.

Resolved, I. That the Memorial serms of Rev. Albert S. Stewart was good and practical and although a wet, disagree able day he was greeted by a large, ap-preciative audience.

2. The Tionesta cornet band has our thanks for their assistance and are worthy of oraise for the manner in which they performed their work.

3. That the choir did its work well and it was fully appreciated, 4. That the ladies of W. R. C. No. 137, as usual, come in for a large share of thanks. They furnished the old soldiers and their triends with a palatable dinner, gave their organ to the choir and did many other things that assisted in the decoration services.

5. That the children of the Sabbath schools have our thanks for the manner in which they performed their duties.

6. That we extend our heartfelt kindness to Rev. W. P. Murray for his able and eloquent address on this occasion.

JOHN THOMSON.

We, the Comitteee appointed by Tionesta Lodge I. O. O. F., to draft a memorial of our late friend and brother John Thomson, who since the year 1872 has been not only a good and consistant member of our beloved order but an ornament to the same, being one who was devoted to its principles, and a follower in his life of its doctrines. We bear testimony that he was an honest man bear testimony that he was an honest man -religious without can't or hypocrisy, open and frank in his every day dealings with his fellow man—His manners were friendly and forbearing, and his conversation was enlivened by a temperate love of fun which endeared his society to all—He had a style of conversation peculiarily his own. While he reverenced the good, he condemned the wrong—as a man of much ability and of great private worth, he will condemned the wrong—as a man of much ability, and of great private worth, he will long be remembered by hosts of friends. His memory will continue green in days to come in the hearts of the brotherhood, of which he was a bright and shining light. Let our charter be draped in mourning.

The luck of the seventh son is generally the old clothes of the other six -"that used to be the caper, but it don't go now." In this day and age of the world boys are too well posted regarding style-you can't put the average boy off with his brother's lathes -then again, boy's clothing is cheaper than it used to be. There was a time when very little attention was paid to the boy's and their clothes, but now, they must have the best in the land-they deserve it. Nothing can take the ambition out of a boy quicker than to see that he is being neglected or that other boys are dressed better t an he is.
