A three-year-old daughter of J. S. Young of Nebraska broke her forearm last Friday. While playing with some other children she accidentally fell from a small express wagon. Dr. Dunn reduced the fracture.

—There were more persons killed and wounded by our uproarious method of celebrating the Fourth of July last Thursday than there were in the Spanish-American war, says the Punxy Spirit, and we believe the estimate is none too large.

—Roy, son of Hon. N. P. Wheeler, of Endeavor, while celebrating the 4th, had one side of his face blistered by the premature explosion of powder. He came to Tidionte with his father and Dr. Shugert dressed the hurts and he is all right with no scars.—News.

—Health & Felt have added something snipions in the oil tank line. —The conclusion of the first term of Miss Tallman's class in music was celebrated by a very enjoyable musicale at the home of William Lawrence last Thursday evening. Selections were played by all members of the class and a number of others. A dainty luncheon was served which proved that the treat was not wholly musical. Miss Tallman is receiving much praise for her success as an instructor.

—The death of John Wesley Strout at Sistersville, W. Va., on the 1st inst., mentioned in these columns two weeks ago, was evidently caused by heart trouble, his room-mate having found him dead in bed when he went to retire some time before midnight. The deceased had complained of not feeling very well the day before. His remains were taken in charge by his son William, and were buried at Sistersville.

—We hope by next year to hear of many of our farmers and citizens engaging more extensively in the cultivation of strawberries, which always find a ready sale at a fair figure. This section seems specially adapted to the cultivation of this most luscious of all berries, and they far exceed the stock usually shipped in from a distance. Just before the season expired Mr. Squires, whose farm is located about three miles above Tionesta, near the county home, surprised and tickled the editor's family by leaving a quantity of his raising of strawberries that were much superior to any we have yet seen shipped in from outside growers. Let us have more home-grown strawberries hereafter.

—Dorothy Dix is a philosophical woman who dispenses wisdom by the column, and her advice to girls is full of practical wisdom. She says: "Be amiable. People may laugh at your sharp speeches before your face, but they will call you a cat behind your back. The world's bete noir is a sharp-tongued woman. It dreads her. It fears her and it shoves her. It is the amiable, good-natured, generous girl, who has a good word for other girls, and who is willing to share her beaux and her chocolate creams, whose engagement we read in the society columns of the paper. She's the kind of girl a fellow's mother and sisters like, and that he hunts up for himself when he really means business."
