WE should like to be able to give a genuine Southern yell in behalf of a real oldfashioned, hard-spun, double-andtwisted Democratic nominee for President without the taint of iunacy or the suggestion of populistic foolishness in his make-up. But it's no use. We've got So says that staunch Democratic paper, the Nashville American.

THE Boston Journal says; Booker T. census, has gained 8.1 per cent. in literacy, the white voting population has gained 2.1 per cent, and the negro voting population 6 per cent. This explains the the chief Archon, the director of the need of "grand ather clauses" and similar devices to keep illiterate whites on the voting list.

DEMOCRATIC editors are naturally a little shy about writting of more than half a billion dollars of gold which have been accumulated in the U.S. Treasury since the Mckinley regime began, and the few that do are amusing rather than convincing ingtheir efforts to explain why the gold is there. Its presence needs no explanation. It stands for the great prosperity of the country, which is the direct result of Rupublican control.

THERE was no current politiss in Col. Roosevelt's address at the Colorado quarter-cenntenniai, but it was a speech which will take with Westerners as well as Easterners, or Southerners, because it throbed with robust Americanism. The colonel has always been a favorite in the West, One reason for this is found in the stalwart Americanism of which he, in deed and word, is an effective exponent. Another reason is that he understands the West better than does any other public man in the country. He is always sure of a rousing reception wherever he appears in any of the Western states. His campaign last fall between the Alleghenies and the Pacific coast states was a succession of personal triumphs without parallel in the history of stumping tours in the United States. Moreover, the colonel's popularity in this section is growing instead of declining.-Globe-Democrat.

Democratic custom to denounce protection as "robbery" except in its application to the sugar industry. Now there is a change of tone and a muffling of the "robbery" cry. Pleayune says: "The Southern States, still Democratic, but rapidly becoming great manufacturing communities, have some need of tariff protection. Here, then, they find necessary a change of policy, with no change of principle. Samuel J. Randall, of Philadelphia, one of the ablest and soundest of the Democratic leaders of his day, was in favor of a tariff because he represented a great manufacturing State and city. It, therefore, comes about that the Democratic party in the South must revise its policy to suit the change in conditions, while it stands firmly upon its great principles," The holding up of Randall as a guiding light of the Democracy or the tariff question shows that times have Democratic party is, it never knows just changed, and for the better.

Although only a small part of the city of Athens is ancient yet considering the have governed there, and the long years | State: when Greece was almost forgotten by the world one is really surprised at the many marks of former greatness that remain. The wonder is that all these famous temples were not torn down and destroyed and not a vestige left by the enemy who frequently found the Greek entrenched in the Acropolis a difficult army to disledge. May be, like Titus when he came in sight of Jerusalem and saw the misgnificence of the temble and sent an embassay to the Jews asking them to surrender so that he might not be compelled to destroy it, the invaders be compelled to destroy it, the invaders of Greece may have had some appreciation of these ancient landmarks and spared them. While much has been destroyed there is still much to be seen that will recall the classics of Thucydides, Xexophon, Herodotus, Pythagoras, Demosthenes, Socrates, Phociou; Praxiteles and Phidias. A cave in the hillside is pointed out as the place where Socrates was confined as prisoner before he drank the fatal hemicek, A stone platform reached by a flight of three or four stone steps called the Pnyx, where political assemblies were held, and some of the canines and 16 equines on his north pole greatest orations ever listened to were delivered. Tionesta, Pa. Dear Sir: If you want your paint to ast as long as that of other house-owners in your town is going to last, you should use lead and zinc.

You can mix your own, or buy Devoe, as you like. The result will not be the same, however. Devoe lead and zine is ground in oil an thoroughly mixed, Machinery do: s it, Hand-work can't compete with machine-work, e ther in cost or horoughness. Mixing by hand is imperfect mixing; and zine is peculiarly hard to mix; wants grinding. Lead and oil is honest paint; but less durable. Lead Is tender and zine is ough. The proper mixture ground together is better than either alone. French painters use zine alone; but American painters think it too hard, and mix it with lead.
