TOMB GUARD SET UPON

Sentry Over McKinley's Body Attacked by Unknowns.

One of the Pair Was Masked—Soldier Fired at One But the Other Knocked Up His Gun, Stabbing Him as He Did So. Mission May Have Been to Blow Up the Vault—Marauders Escaped.

CANTON, O., Sept. 30.—The guard at the McKinley tomb claims to have been attacked last night. He fired a shot, but he was diverted by a second man with a knife thrust. It penetrated the guard's overcoat and blouse.

Military regulations prevent either the officers or the men of the post from being quoted on any matter connected with their service and for this reason Captain Biddle, who is in command, was obliged to decline to be quoted.

Private Deppend was on guard duty on top of the vault. The man approached from the rear. Shortly before 7:30 he saw what he took to be the face of a man peering from behind a tree about 40 feet from his post. He watched it for 20 minutes, he says, and saw the man hurry to a tree 10 feet nearer. He challenged the man to halt, but this was not heeded. Deppend leveled his gun and aimed to shoot for effect, but just at that instant another man, who came toward him from the opposite side, caught the gun. He threw it up and the bullet was spent in the air. This same man struck Deppend on the right side of the abdomen with a knife or other sharp weapon, cutting an "L" gash in his overcoat and a hole and a half long each way and a smaller one in his blouse. The flesh was not broken, but was bruised under the cuts in the cloth.

Deppend in the struggle fell and rolled down the side of the vault. Lieutenant Ashbridge, officer of the day, was in front of the vault and rushed to the top on hearing the shot, but the men made good their escape. All members from the company heard the shot and hurried to the vault and besides searching the cemetery the guard was increased.

Deppend says the man who attacked him was masked, but the first one he saw was not masked. He says the latter carried a white package in his right hand and something that glittered in his left. There are 10 soldiers at the cemetery, 20 of whom are constantly on guard duty about the vault and camp.

CZOLGOSZ COLLAPSED.

Large Crowd Surrounded the Assassin at Auburn Prison and Gave Him a Bad Fright—Went Into Convulsions.

RUFFALO, Sept. 28.—Sheriff Caldwell returned yesterday afternoon from Auburn, whither he took Leon F. Czolgosz Thursday night. He left Auburn at 6:58 o'clock in the morning, and arrived in Buffalo a few minutes after one o'clock in the afternoon, appearing in his office at the city hall about 1:35. His account of the excitement outside the prison when the assassin of President McKinley arrived there was as follows: "We arrived in Auburn at 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning, and there was a crowd of about 200 people outside the prison when we reached there. Deputy E. M. Bates went on ahead of us in the afternoon, to keep me informed of the situation. I received telegrams from him at two or three places along the route. He says that 1,500 people were gathered around the prison at 9 o'clock in the evening, and the warden placed the number at 2,000.

"As soon as we reached Auburn, we hurried Czolgosz over towards the prison. The crowd quickly surrounded us, and there were cries of 'Kill him! Kill the assassin!' 'Throw bricks at him!' No bricks were thrown, however, and he hurried him into the prison without anyone being much hurt. Some of us were raised a little in the crushing against the gates.

"We closed the gates the minute the members of our party were all inside. Czolgosz collapsed completely as soon as he entered the prison—to say that he went all to pieces is the best way I can describe it. He fell to the floor and yelled and shouted, and his arms and legs jerked around as if he couldn't control them at all. We took off his clothes, and I stooped down beside him and said: "'Czolgosz, don't you know me?'" "He didn't seem to recognize me at all, but just rubbed his eyes and shouted incoherently. He didn't say anything we could understand—I guess he was too frightened to try to talk. He just yelled and yelled like a crazy man. After the doctor came and gave him something he quieted down, and then I left."

Had Auburn been reached an hour or two earlier in the morning it is doubtful whether Czolgosz could have been escorted into the prison without the loss of some lives. Sheriff Caldwell and Jailer Mitchell would have taken him there even at the risk of their own lives, and they deserve great credit for the promptness with which they met the emergency which arose.

Murderer Closely Guarded.

AUBURN, Sept. 28.—Czolgosz has regained his normal condition and seems to have fully recovered from his collapse. There are five cells for condemned men in the prison, and Czolgosz was placed in the only vacant cell, so all are now occupied.

Two lockers are constantly on guard in the room in which he is kept. In the main prison, but to guard against an attempt on Czolgosz' part to commit suicide, two more guards have been added, and one will constantly sit in front of Czolgosz' cell and will have a key, so that any attempt at self-destruction can be easily frustrated.

KILLED BY INSURGENTS

Company of United States Infantry Almost Wiped Out.

Were Attacked While at Breakfast, and Though They Made a Valiant Resistance Were Overwhelmed by Force of Numbers—Only 24 Escaped Out of Total of 74.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—News of the disastrous fight between troops of the Ninth infantry and the insurgents in the island of Samar Saturday was sent promptly by General Hughes, commanding in that island, to General Chaffee and his headquarters at Manila. It reached the department during the early hours yesterday and its importance, at once made it public, after sending a copy to the White House. General Chaffee's dispatch is as follows: "Manila, Sept. 29.

"Adjutant General, Washington, D. C.—Hughes reports following from Basey, Southern Samar: Twenty-four Ninth infantry, United States, 11 wounded—have just arrived from Balangiga. Remainder company killed. Insurgents secured all company supplies and all rifles except 12. Company was attacked during breakfast morning Sept. 28; company 72 strong; officers, Thomas W. Conell, captain; Edward A. Bumpus, first lieutenant; Dr. E. S. Griswold, major, surgeon, escaped.

The news created a sensation in official circles. It is the first reverse since that has occurred for a long time. Still, the officials were not surprised for news of just this character from Samar, in which the revolution started by Aguinaldo still continues, Samar is a country about as large as the state of Ohio and the American forces of occupation numbered in all between 2,000 and 2,500 men. These are distributed among various posts in the island, large numbers being located at more important centers.

Spain never made any effort to occupy Samar, and it has been for probably three months past the United States has undertaken that work. The latest General Chaffee is sending reports to the war department, but the number of insurgent rifles in the island aggregated about 300. The Filipinos carried on a guerrilla warfare and operations against them were difficult.

The disaster to Company C of the Ninth infantry occurred, it is believed, while it was engaged in an expedition to clear the country of hiding places of these insurgents. The fact that the Americans were attacked while at breakfast indicates the daring and pluck of the insurgents.

Immediately upon receipt of this dispatch Adjutant General Corbin telegraphed to General Chaffee to send a complete report of the fight and a list of the casualties.

The room was filled with clothing hung on a line to dry. In an instant the two rooms were a blazing furnace. Mrs. Sturgeon was burned to death, while her husband and son are probably fatally burned. The other families in the building were rescued by prompt work by the firemen.
