New York, Feb. 4.- The gale which has been sweeping the ceasts of Long island and New Jersey for more than 24 hours and is continuing, though with abated force, has brought death and disaster to sailors and their crait. Several bodies have been washed ashore at the eastern end of Long island.

Wreckage strews the shore in the vicinity of the Bellport, L. I., life saving station, and one body came ashore east of this station. One barge was thrashing about near Forge river station. The finding of two other bodies was reported later from the same point.

The crew of the American merchant man Schepp, which went ashore on Long Beach are still on the vessel and all efforts on the part of the life

Butler, Pa., Feb. 3 .- The terrible of conversation here and a curious storm, hanging about the jail entrance in valu attempt to get in to see the bodies of the dead murderers. great deal of sympathy for the boya is expressed on all sides, and not a few of the female portion of the crowd expressed a desire to see what man-

The verdict of the jury is that Ed Biddle came to his death by a revolver shot from a 32-calibre revolver fired by himself and that Jack Biddle met his death from a gunshot wound infileted by the officers in discharge of their lawful duty. The evidence secured by the autopsy bears out the statements that the Biddles intended to kill themselves rather than be taken alive and that Ed succeeded in his attempt white Jack failed, though his life was for-

Since the officers concerned in the fight and capture of the Biddles have had time to cool off a little there appears to be a disposition to be fair towards each other in the matter of the distribution of the prize money and an agreement to divide the $5,000 squally among the four officers here and the driver, J. A Snyder, and the three Pittsburg detectives, has been practically consented to by all of the men except Detective McGovern who

At 6 o'clock last evening the bodies of the Biddles were removed from the fail to one of the hallways of the sheriff's dwelling and the public was given an opportunity of looking at the two norterious criminals.

Hundreds of people braved the worst blizzard of the year, besteging the jail doors for admitance, which was refused until the evening, when the doors of the dwelling house attached to the jail, wereopened and every one was given an opportunity to gratify his morbid curiosity. At the coroner's inquest Deputy Hoon in describing the fight with the Biddles said: "We put our two teams in charge of J. A. Snyder. We then got in line and they came down the hill and the first thing I saw Ed Biddle pulled a revol-

"McGovern and I walked up to them. They were both lying on their faces. I walked up first and McGovern swore at me for it. I had a revolver in my hand and had it loaded. I walked up to them and he walked up with the butt end of his Winchester when he was on his face. Then I turned Ed over on his back. I was the first to touch either of the men and he was going to shoot them again. He stepped back and shot Jack again after he was on the ground. I turned Ed over, and he said: "For God's sake 2,000 men. don't shoot again-let me die."

Two Men Hurt by Blast.

Biddles called to James McGeary, who had charge of the outside gates, and asked for some cramp medicine in a hurry, saying his brother was dangercusty sick. McGeary hastened to the cell with medicine, when John Biddle sprang through the opening in the cell and, seizing the guard around the waist, hurled him over the railing to the stone floor beneath, a distance of 16 feet. Edward Biddle joined his brother immediately and both, with drawn recivers, hurried to the first floor, where they met Guard Reynolds and shot him. There were but three men on duty, and the third was on one of the upper ranges. He was ordered down at the point of the revolvers and the three guarda were put in the dungeon. The keys were taken from Keeper McGeary and the two desperate pris-oners had a clear field. The only perons who witnessed the escape were prisoners who could not interfere or give an alarm.

The Biddles went to the wardrobe, where the guards keep their clothing, and each put on a new suit. They then unlocked the outside gates and passed cut into the street.

The escape was not discovered until the daylight guards came on duty at o'clock. They were informed by prisoners where the night guards had seen put, and they were soon released from the dungeon and sent to the housital.

The escape of the Biddles was subquently explained by Warden Peter R. Seffel. The warden asserts that his wife is responsible for the furnishing of the revolvers and saws to the Riddles which enabled them to escape.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER. Two Italians, Pursued For Five Days,

Found Half Starved. Brockway rille, Pa., Feb. 3 .- Half naked and nearly starved Thomas Madelena and Bennie Poli. Italians wanted for the murder of James Heckin, at Shawmut, January 28, were captured in a lonely woods near Crenshaw, two miles from this place. The Italians have been pursued and searched for since the night of the crime and commissioner of Elk county and the Shawmut Mining company had offered a reward of $1,000 for their capture. Fellow countrymen, snurred by vengeance and the large reward have been scouring the country for miles in search of the fugitives The pursuing party was composed of four Italians, under the direction of Squire Thomas Keys of this place. The murderers had been hiding in the woods since Heekin was murdered. They tell a pitiable tale of starvation and suffering. The murder with which the Italians are charger was premeditated, and it is supposed they also intended to kill Thomas Burke, a contractor for whom Poli had worked, and as Heekin was with Burke on the night of the murder the Italians selected the wrong man and shot Heekin.

Uniontowa, Pa., Feb. 1.-Fire destroyed D. J. Johnson's distillery here at noon Wednesday. There were 400 barrels of whisky in the building, and a big warehouse full of the same liquor. Two hundred barrels were rolled out and saved, but the danger from the burning and exploding whisky was so great that the firemen could do but little more than save the adjoining buildings. An explosion in the test ing box caused by a gas jet melting the glass and coming in contact with the spirits started the fire. About $8, 660 worth of new machinery had just been installed in the distillery. loss of $75,000 there was only $2,800
