Deming, a former captain of United States volunteers, against Robert W. McClaughry, warden of the federal penitentlary at Fort Leavenworth. Deming was imprisoned on the sentence of a court martial composed of nine regular army officers, convened by General W. R. Shafter on March 29, 1960. The opinion of the circuit court, written by Judge Walter S. Sanborn, is that the court martial which sentenced Deming acted in vio-Mr. Cortelyou, "and his respiration is lation of article 77 of the articles of war which provides that officers of the regular army shall not be competent to sit on court martials for the trial of officers and soldiers of other forces. The essential question as stated in Judge Sanborn's opinion is whether the volunteer army is the same as the regular army, or whether it is one of the "other forces" mentioned in article 77.

The opinion establishes the fact that the volunteer army is at all times distinct from the regular army.

Deming will be released from the Fort Leavenworth penitentiary within 60 days and all other former members of the volunteer army who are confined in federal prisons on sentences indicted by courts martial of regular officers will also be liberated as the result of the decision, it is stated.

Deming was a captain in the subsistence department of the volunteer army. He was commissioned under the act of 1899, providing for the enlistment of soldiers for the Philippine war. The charge against him related to his accounts.

This sentence was affirmed devoted to commercial, civic, educa- by the secretary of war and approved by the president.

In June, 1898, Judge Advocate General Lieber decided that regular army officers might try volunteers under the act of 1898, providing for the enlistment of soldiers for the Spanish war. Under this ruling many cases were tried and sentences imposed. The Deming case was the first in which an appeal has been taken.

Judge Sanborn says in his opinion that General Shafter was prohibited library, old city hall, police station, tial of regular army officers and that tering and acquitted of a charge of the action of such a tribunal is vold.

Chicago, Feb. 5.-By an explosion of gas in the basement or a twostory frame building at 376 Twenty-Second street a number of people the total said to be eleven, lost their lives and the building was blown into kladling wood. Two explosions of gas followed so quickly that it was hard to distinguish them. The fire spread below the street and smaller manholes were blown into the

The flames from the first gas main reached the Trostle butcher shop. The building was a 3-story frome structure and it had been weakened and nearly wrecked by the shock. It is supposed that the occupants of the build ing were knocked unconscious or were too panic stricken to rush from the place. The dry and rotten wood was food for the fire and in an instant the flames had enveloped the structure. With a roar the building collapsed and the occupants with one exception were carried with it to the basement.

The direct cause of the explosion is not known, but all indications show that it was due to escaping gas in the basement of the Trostle house.
