Numerous rumors were current about the hall regarding the future policy of the organization. The most persistent one and one that was endorsed by several leaders was that there would be no actual leader of Tammany Hall for some time to come. This was coupled with a rumor that the finance committee would be abolished as well as the chairman of this committee. The chairman, who is ow Lewis Nixon, and was Richard Croker, has always been the leader of Tammany Hall, and had the handling when it fell on the men on board of the funds of the organization.

WARNED OF THEIR FATE

Letters Mailed by Victims Jus Before the Eruption.

Letters Told of Country People Flocking to the City-Enclosed Samples of the Ashes Which Were Filling the Streets and Houses a Week Before the Final Horror.

Paris, May 20.-Martinique mails forwarded just prior to the disaster arrived here Monday. The newspapers print a number of private letters from St. Plerre giving many details of events immediately preceding the catastrophe. The most interesting of these is a letter from a young lady, who was among the victims, dated May 3. After describing the aspect of St. Pierre before dawn, the town being lit up with fiames from the volcaro, everything covered with ashes and the people greatly excited yet not panic-stricken, she said:

"My calmness astonished me. I an awaiting the event tranquilly. My only suffering is from the dust which penetrates everywhere, even through closed windows and doors. We are all calm. Mamma is not a bit anxlaws. If I do so may god reward lous, Edith alone is frightened. If ceath awaits us there will be a numerous company to leave the world Will it be by fire or asphyxia? It will be what God wills. You will have our iast thoughts. Tell brother Robert that we are still alive. This will, perhaps, be no longer true when this letter reaches you."

The Edith mentioned was a lady visitor who was among the rescued. This and other letters enclosed samdoomed town. The ashes are a bluish a journey of length. grey, impalpable powder, resembling newly ground flour and slightly smelling of sulphur.

Another letter, written during the afternoon of May 3, says:

"The population of the neighbor hood of the mountain is flocking to the city. Business is suspended, the inhabitants are panic-stricken and the firemen are sprinkling the streets and roofs, to settle the ashes, which are filling the air."

These and other letters seem to indicate that evidences of the impending disaster were aumerous five days before it occurred.

li is difficult to understand how it was that a general exodus of the population of St. Plerre did not take place before May 8, Still another letter says:

"St. Pierre presents an aspect un known to the natives. It is a city sprinkled with grey snow, a winter scene without cold. The inhabitants their houses, villas and cottages and are flocking to the city. It is a curious pell-mell of women, children and The air is oppressive; your nose burns.
