Endeavor to Washington State.

As per agreement I will give you a brief account of my trip from Endeavor, Pa., to Seattle, Washington. I left Endeavor on the morning of April 29th, and arrived in Chicago next morning in time for breakfast, and as our train for the west did not leave until %45 1 had time to look around and see Chicago somewhat. Chicago is 956 miles from Buffalo, altitude 593 feet. Chicago is the largest lake port in the world, and many fine buildings are to be seen here, such as the magnificent new library building, the Montgomery Ward tower rising 300 feet and topped by the guilded statue of "Progress", the massive Fine Arts building erected by the Studebakers, the new auditoriam annex, the brown stone palace of the Chicago Club, and other equally ornate structures. Stretching away to the north from the groupe of massive buildings, as far as the eye can reach, is the shore line of Lincoln Park, one of the most beautiful sylvan retreats in America. Nature and the art of man have combined to make this an idler's Paradise. At the entrance stands the noble bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln. Towering above the beautiful driveway which skirts the shore line of the park is the colossal equestrain statue of General Grant, mounted upon a massive C. SCHIMMELFENG, pile of granite reached by two long flights of stone steps. In the lake front park, south of the auditorium, may be seen the magnificent.

Here we took the great Northern.

Before commencing the attractive journey across the great states of the Northwest, a word about the railroad over whose tracks the trip is to be made, may be of interest. No finer example of the art of transportation can be found than the transcontinental train of the Great Northern Railway as it stands ready in the St. Paul union depot for its part of the trip across America. The engine, like wheeled passenger locomotive. It is a heavy and fast passenger trains, a superb pleces requiring no less than 8000 manu-
