LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

—Joe Joyce has the foundation of Jas. J. Landers' new domicile, at the lower end of town, about completed and carpenters will be at work on the superstructure in a few days. When our bachelor friend Joyce gets his cage ready who'll be the bird to occupy it? A year's subscription to the REPUBLICAN to the one making the right guess.

—On account of the meeting of the International Mining Congress, at Butler Mont., September 1 to 5, the Pennsylvania Railroad company will sell excursion tickets to Butte and return, on August 16, 20, 21, 22 and 27, good to return to original starting point not later than September 20, at reduced rates. For specific rates, stop-over privileges, etc., consult nearest ticket agent.

—Hon. J. Sterling Morton, late Secretary of Agriculture, says: "The Business College is far the best school to bring out the faculties required to do the work in this business age. I have four sons in business and each was given a course in a business college." Warren Business University, Warren, Penna., stands in the front rank as a business training school. Write to-day for particulars in regard to its course of study.

—Sharon, Pa., is in the throes of a smallpox epidemic. Dr. Berryhill, a prominent physician with a large practice which necessitates him to visit scores of people daily, was taken with the dreaded disease Saturday and removed to the pest house. The city council has expressed a willingness to appropriate $15,000 to be used in the suppression of the outbreak. Vaccination is being done on the wholesale scale there at present.

—A donkey stepped into a store and the owner approached the beast and asked: "What are you doing here? You know this is not the place for a donkey." "I am here," said the donkey "because I saw your advertisement on the fence that surrounds my pasture. I know you, too, must be a donkey, or you would place your advertisement in a newspaper where it would be read by people, not donkeys. Being lonesome to day, I thought I would be neighborly and make a fraternal call."

—The REPUBLICAN is prepared to furnish note books and envelopes in small lots neatly printed and put up in a nice cabinet, just suited to the wants of the people who have a limited correspondence. With the name and address on your paper and envelopes many mistakes are avoided, and the expense is scarcely any greater than you pay for the blank paper and envelopes. Farmers and others living in the country are invited to try this method. We know it will please them.

—An exchange tells of a lady who decided to scare her husband, who was quite a hard drinker, so he would reform. To do this she procured the costume of a devil which she saw at a masquerade. The next time the erring spouse came home feeling happy, she quickly donned the costume, and as he opened the door she stepped forward and said in a sepulchral tone: "Come with me, I am the devil!" The result rather startled her, as the answer to her greeting was: "Zats? Shakes, old boy, I'm your brother-in-law; I married your sister."

—The Sivelys' ball players—Tucks' hitters—came up last Friday and administered a drubbing to our home team in a very poorly played game on both sides, the score standing 18 to 15 in favor of the visitors at the end of the ninth inning. Monday Tionesta went to Titusville and played the return game with the club at that city. Those who witnessed it say that the game was a very pretty one, and that two bad errors in the eighth inning by one of Tionesta's players gave Titusville the game by one score the result being 7 to 6 in favor of the home team. Up to that inning the game stood three to five in favor of Tionesta.

—There are 10 cases of smallpox reported at Mayville, Chautauque county, N. Y. A short time ago a barber who had traveled with the Triple Plate shows, which started from Titusville early in the season and broke up at that place, opened a barber shop in the town and in one day shaved 20 men. His hands at that time were all broken out with sores. A day or two afterwards he was taken down with the terrible disease and it is thought that he is the cause of the epidemic. The show appeared in small towns in the vicinity of Gettysburg and it is thought that the disease was originally contracted from some of the residents of that town, where there have been nearly a dozen cases.

—The water Company has been having trouble keeping up the supply of water during the past two weeks. The reservoir had sprung a leak and needed repairing, in consequence of which there has been no water in it for ten days or more. That has been fixed but there still seems to be a seepage and it is evident there is a large leak in the main line somewhere, but just where, that's the rub, nobody being able to locate it to a certainty. P. S.—Since this item was put in type the leak has been found. The main had broken squarely in two where it passes over a culvert near the school building. It has been repaired and in a day or two the reservoir will have its usual amount of water.

—Relatives here have been apprised of the death of Dr. John Dale Hays, eldest son of the late David Hays a former well-known resident of Tionesta, which occurred on the 1st inst. and his remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Atkinson, Arkansas, his late home. The deceased had not enjoyed robust health for some time, his trouble being consumption. Many of our citizens will remember Johnny Hays as a boy when the family left the country for the southwest, where they have since resided, his father having died there several years ago. Dr. Hays had become a physician of considerable note, enjoying a large practice when overtaken by disease and cut down in the vigor of life. He left a wife, a little girl nine years old, and a boy of seven. His mother and several brothers survive him also. Deceased was a cousin of our townsman James D. Davis.

—Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond. The cauliflower is only cabbage with an education. Train for business. Get a thorough knowledge of bookkeeping and typewriting. Warren Business University, Warren, Penna., is a celebrated business training school. Send to-day for catalogue.

—When graduates of a business training school are in demand by business men it means that it gives the kind of training that fits for the active duties of life. Such a school is the Warren Business University, Warren, Penna. If you contemplate a course of training in a business school, write for catalogue.

CRUISE OF THE "ROYAL SAVAGE."

The large flat-boat, 25x170 feet conveying the Pittsburg party of pleasure-seekers mentioned in the REPUBLICAN of last week, drifted into this port last Friday evening, having made the run from Grunderville without special incident or the loss of a man. The craft lay at anchor here during the night, and was visited by many of our citizens, to whom some of the party are known. Three large tents besides a commodious kitchen and dining room are erected on the spacious boat, and if the "pirates," as they have been called, are not having a right jolly time aboard "The Royal Savage," which is the name they have christened their boat—then there are no snakes left in these parts. A fine piano, and other musical instruments are a part of the outfit, and several good singers are among the members, and there is inspiration to burn, but we didn't notice that they were burning any. A first-class chef accompanies the boat who manages to forage enough to keep the larder stocked, while the whole Allegiance is at their service should any of the party get thirsty. Each member bears the initials "R. S." on his manly bosom, which we suppose meant that they were the "Real Stuff," although none of them said so. Four doctors are in the party, but they had not had occasion to prescribe anything stronger than the "real stuff" since they set sail, notwithstanding several medicine chests packed in ice are kept constantly on hand ready for instant use. The boat left here Saturday morning, with the following good fellows aboard, all in fine condition, and if any get into jail below here we'll not be responsible, having steered them clear of the constables while in this port: Dr. C. J. Reynolds, Dr. E. R. Walters, Richard Owen, R. O. Sutor, A. E. Seidlin, Dr. J. L. McCane, C. H. Robinson, Leo, Kaufman, Dr. Roger Williams, J. D. Miles, Chas. A. Schaeferbrand, T. D. Harlan, and chef and helper.

BOAT SUNK, NOBODY DROWNED.

Zach Shriver, who lives in the upper end of town, and who has had charge of a "Johnboat," belonging to a couple of our well-known sportsmen, during the past summer, had a surprise worked on him one morning last week. When he went to take a casual look at the boat to see if it was still safe and sound, high and dry where he had been keeping it, he found, instead of a boat, the following note pinned to a tree to which the craft had been securely lashed.

What are you looking for? A boat it is in the bottom of the River the intention was to burn it but we decided to put it to the bottom. YOUR ISMERY.

Zach hasn't dragged the river yet to ascertain if the boat is really at the bottom or not, but may take a look when the water clears up a little. However, it is possible his "Inimiy" meant that he would find it at the bottom of the river counting from the source to the mouth—the lower end, as it were.

—L. Agnew was in Pittsburg on business this week. On the way down and when leaving the car at Oil City Sunday evening, the step broke square off letting Mr. Agnew, who is a heavy man, down pretty solid onto the track, but fortunately causing no injury further than a severe shaking up.

—John Freeman and Will Greaves came down from Warren in a row boat Monday arriving here about four o'clock in the afternoon. Besides having a most delightful outing they picked up a string of light very nice black bass, and didn't pay much attention to fishing either. They were guests of J. D. Davis and Dr. Greaves while here.

—Reference to our wedding announcements to-day will disclose the happy intelligence of the marriage of a very popular young Tionesta couple—Mr. Robert Fulton and Miss Mildred Horner.
