Dates to Remember.

The last day for payment of taxes will be Saturday, Oct. 4th.
Election Day will be Tuesday, Nov. 4th.
Don't forget about your taxes, Saturday is the last for payment of you want to vote this fall.

This is a good time for every Republican in Forest county to settle down to the good notion of supporting the whole Republican ticket at the coming election, and just kindly speaking to his neighbor about doing the same thing. The ticket is a good one and is going to be elected.

SPEAKING OF TRUSTS, ask some Democratic spell-binder to point out one piece of restrictive legislation, placed on our statute books by a Democratic Congress.
If he is an honest man ask him why this is so, and watch him closely while he hunts for an answer.

MR. GUTHERIE, candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket, is on the stump denouncing "Tipper" Legislation. But it was this same Guthrie who haunted the last Legislature, clamoring for such legislation. Consistency is a word evidently not found in that gentleman's vocabulary.

THE Cameron county Republicans have done a sensible thing in nominating Hon. H. H. Mullin as the legislative candidate at their primaries last week by a unanimous vote. The writer served with Harry in the session of '90 and knows whereof he speaks when he says that no county in the State had a more zealous or industrious member in the House when the interests of his people were at stake, or needed attention. Because of his large acquaintance and ability to make and retain friends Mr. Mullin exercised an influence in legislation which few of the smaller counties could boast of. Cameron county is normally Republican by about 200. The majority for Mr. Mullin should not fall a vote below that figure. He should have the heartly support of every Republican who has the good of his party and the welfare of his county at heart, and we believe he will get it in this canvass.

The State Senatorship.

The Ridgway Advocate has the situation well sized up on the Senatorial battle which is now on in this district between Ed. M. Wilson, of Clarion county, the Republican nominee, and J. K. P.
Hall, of Ridgway, who has crowded of everyone else and taken the Democratic nomination. The Advocate says:

A battle royal is now on in the Thirty-eighth Senatorial district of Pennsylvania. Hon. J. K. P. Hall, whose old Twenty-eighth Congressional district was utterly dismembered and scattered to the four winds by the recent re-apportionment, found himself without a political job. He knew he could not be re-elected in the new Twenty-eighth district, and he didn't have the nerve to stand up and fight his party's battle against a man like Hon. J. C. Sibley, especially when the chances were against him. Through the Democratic nomination for State Senator in this district had positively been promised to two other prominent Democrats, Mr. Hall is said to have pushed these men aside utterly regardless of their claims and took the nomination himself, getting the endorsement of Clarion county at the last moment of the campaign in what is thought to have been a very shady manner. Mr.
Hall seemed to know that he was skating on very thin ice, for he put off his nominating convention as long as he could conveniently. It is said he had determined to make the Republicans nominate first, but in that little game he met his match for once at least. The Republicans fooled him by adjourning apparently in a deadlock, and with the announcement that Mr. Wilson, of Clarion, had decided to decline the nomination.
This was all a part of a well laid plan, which was carefully laid for fear Hall would be scared off the track at the last minute. He was the man his enemies wanted nominated; for they wanted a chance to run the knife into him up to the hilt and they only feared that he would wilt at the last minute and not get into the fight. It is firmly believed that he would have thrown the nomination elsewhere and refused to run had he known the Republicans could get such a strong man to go against him as Mr.
Wilson, of Clarion.

Republicans Are Loyal.

Under the above caption the Pennsylvania Spirit has hit off the situation in its session, and the condition of things political being quite similar herabouts we give Bro. Smith's article in full that Republicans may read and profit by the wisdom it contains:
"The Republicans of this section of the State, while disappointed at the failure of their favorite candidate to receive the nomination for Governor, are not dis-grunted. With rare exceptions they will vote for Judge Pennybacker, and these will be for various reasons, will not vote for Mr. Patterson.
A little sober reflection will convince any Republican that it is not only his duty to go to the polls this fall and vote his ticket, but that it is his own interest and to the interest of his neighbor, that he put a little energy and enthusiasm into the matter, and help to get out a rousing vote.
No matter how vociferously our Democratic friends insist that we should continue our campaign this fall to State issues, the fact remains that it has great national significance. A slump in the Republican vote this fall would materially weaken the Republican party all over the Union, for the reason that this State is the very hub of Republicanism in the United States. After the shrewd and eloquent Democratic spellbinders of this State had succeeded in duping the people into voting their way with their siren song of "Reform," the Democratic orators of the entire nation would point to Pennsylvania and say that we had spoken in favor of tariff revision. And no Pennsylvania Democrat would rise up and say anything about its having been a campaign confined to State issues.

The truth is that you can no more confine a gubernatorial and congressional campaign in Pennsylvania to State issues than you could confine the literary influence of Shakespeare to Stratford-on-Avon.
Sound money, protection, commercial supremacy and national prosperity are so completely involved in Republicanism that it is not possible to vote at a State election without being counted as having given expression either to approval or disapproval of these things.
The Democrats, as usual, are assuming airs of superior virtue, telling the people what a bad lot the Republicans are and what a fine set of fellows the Democrats are. But the average man will not be influenced by such pretensions. He knows that the wisdom and moral strength of the people is not so much out of balance that it has all gravitated to the Democratic side. He does not doubt that our standard-bearers have as high a sense of public duty as those of the opposition, and so far as litigation is concerned he knows that the influence of Mr. Guthrie was just as potent in the Democratic, as that of Senator Quay was in the Republican, convention.

Profiting by the lessons of the past and learning wisdom by experience, Republicans will not be inclined to carry resentments and prejudices into the management of our public affairs. They will appreciate the fact that the splendid and unparalleled prosperity which we now enjoy is due to the wise and altruistic policies of the Republican party, and will show their appreciation and gratitude by voting the whole Republican ticket.

WE SHOULD STAND FIRM

Pennsylvania's Duty Today As Outlined
By Hon. Charles Emory Smith.
The following is the speech, in part, of Hon. Charles Emory Smith delivered at Centre Hall, Centre county:
"Looking to the broader field of national affairs at stake are of such tremendous consequence that no Republican and indeed no patriotic citizen of any party ought to feel any doubt about his duty. Shall Pennsylvania uphold the national administration or shall we cripple and paralyze it? Shall we sustain the policies which have given us such national greatness and glory or shall we condemn and undertake to overthrow them? Shall we vote to continue the unparalleled prosperity which fills the country with content and happiness and growth, or shall we vote to overshadow it with doubt and to create distrust which will bring calamity? Who wants to go back to the business conditions which prevailed from 1893 to 1897?

PAINFUL OBJECT LESSONS.

"In deciding what path we ought to follow we don't have to guess. We know. We know in the light of experience which it would be madness to disregard. The object lessons of the past ten years blaze the way for every man who is not blind to the truth. In 1892 we were in the full tide of the greatest prosperity the country had ever enjoyed up to that period. I need not stop to picture the conditions. You all recall them. You all remember the business life and the industrial activity which then prevailed. Yet in a moment of madness and passion without realizing what they were doing, the people elected a Democratic congress and president and instantly the whole business sky was covered with clouds. The mere election of a Democratic congress and president created uncertainty, halted enterprise, impaired credit, checked the wheels of industry and spread distrust everywhere.
If this was the effect simply of the election and the fears it created, the results were aggravated when the fruits were fully realized.

DEMOCRATIC HARD TIMES.
"When the Democratic party came into power it overthrew the Republican policies which had given national security, confidence and progress, and paralyzed business like the blight of an autumn frost. For four years the country suffered a stagnation and depression which caused wide spread distress. Hundreds of mills were stopped or run on half time. Three millions of workmen were out of employment. You could not altogether stop production in this great country but it was so checked as to cause a period of hard times. If you have forgotten these conditions which existed only six years ago you may make the mistake of voting to return to them. But no man who remembers them in contrast with the magnificent prosperity of the last six years can vote to run any risk of changing back to the situation from 1893 to 1897 without displaying a recklessness which is incomprehensible."

PROSPERITY AND REPUBLICANISM.

"In 1896 the people voted to get out of the alough of despondency by electing Wm. McKinley president. As the election of 1892 had been the turning point from prosperity to disaster, so the election of 1896 was the turning point from gloom and depression to a new era of prosperity and advancement beyond anything the world has ever seen."

"Never before has this country stood on such heights of prosperity and greatness and every step in this magnificent progress has been taken with the opposition or the criticism of the Democratic party. In the light of this experience shall Pennsylvania falter in her Republicanism or pronounce a verdict which would weaken the national administration in carrying forward the great work to which it is devoted?"

EXPLOSION AT A FURNACE.

Eight Men Terribly Burned - Two Have Since Died.

McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 29.—Eight men with charred faces and terribly burned bodies were taken to the Mc-Keesport hospital as the result of an explosion at a furnace of the Carnegie blast furnace plant at Duquesne Saturday. Two of the victims have since died and there is little hope that any of the others will recover.

All of those injured were caught in the fierce blast of flames and ashes which followed the blowing out of a bell while the men were at work. They were sent up to the dangerous place about an hour before. Something had gone wrong with the working of the furnace and these eight were ordered to make the necessary repairs.

The men must have received some warning of what was about to take place, and, knowing full well the terrible consequences of an explosion at that time, took refuge on the walk surrounding the bell. What is known among the workmen as the "bell" is, in fact, the blast furnace top, and the workmen are well acquainted with the dire results which followed the uplifting of this portion of the furnace.

Workmen in the yard of the Carnegie works at Duquesne noticed the eight men on the furnace top. They were rushing around the top and would look over the sides excitedly gesticulating to those below. Then gauging the distance from the top to the yard below they seemed to give up all idea of making that desperate leap, as it was certain death. Suddenly the lid of the furnace was rent from its attachments and swung down to the side of the furnace. A deafening explosion followed and the furnace flames shot skyward. Flames roared out of a new made opening as if caused by a giant bellows. Clouds of glistering red embers, jumps of slag, molten metal and dust mounted out of the opening.

The eight workmen made vain ef-orts to conceal their bodies under the furnace walk and shriek after shriek came from the top of the furnace.
Those in the yard were helpless to aid the men placed in such a horrible position before their eyes and they gave up all hope of ever seeing the eight men alive again. When the flames had subsided, rescuers made their way to the top of the furnace, where the eight men were found lying around in all positions and all unconscious.

ATTACKED BY MOBS.

Non-Union Men Intercepted on Way to Work—Calls For Troops.

Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 29.—A mob numbering several hundred men at Centralia Saturday intercepted the men going to work at Mount Carmel by truly. The men all returned home.
Soon after a Lehigh Valley passenger train reached the station and the mob crowded into the cars looking for non-union men. A few men, who were waiting at the station for the train to take them to work at Packer No. 2 colliery were chased home.

Willsboro, Pa., Sept. 29.—When the employees of the Exeter mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal company at Sur-geville started to go home Saturday night they were halted by a crowd of strikers on the outside of the works and a driven back into the barricade with a volley of stones. Two companies from the Ninth regiment, of this city, were dispatched to the scene on a special train. Upon the arrival of the troops the crowd dispersed.

To Start Collieries.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 29.—A conference of coal operators and their lawyers and the civil authorities of this region was held Saturday in the offices of the Lehigh Valley Coal company in this city. After the meeting it was learned that there was under discussion the projected starting of several more collieries and the arrangements which could be made for having the workers and the property protected.
It is said that Sheriff Jacobs assured the operators that the troops would be used to preserve peace and prevent lawlessness. Arrangements were discussed for guarding the Hasleton region, where it is the intention of the Coke company to open the Drifton colliery and the Pittston district, where the Erie is to resume work at some of its collieries.

Three Miners Arrested.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 29.—Sheriff Schadt received a telegram saying that the three men arrested at Hobeken, N. J., on suspicion of being the Hungarians who murdered James Winston at Grassy Island, Wednesday morning, have been identified as the Yight men. The Lackawanna region was free from disturbances. The troops kept up their patrolling and succeeded in preventing the workmen from being molested.

Came Without Requisition.

New Castle, Sept. 29.—Constable John Stitt arrived home from Rochester, N. Y., bringing with him Mrs.
Lizzie Callarin, who left here two weeks ago with Andrew Lander. All parties reside at Hillsville, this county, and Mrs. Callarin's husband entered a charge against her after she eloped. Stitt had no requisition papers and the man refused to come home.

Lebanon Steel Strike Not Settled.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 29.—The strike at the plant of the American Iron and Steel company was not settled as was expected. The men submitted modified terms to the company Friday.
These were considered at a meeting of the officials of the company in Reading late that night. It is likely another meeting will be held.

HEARNED A GREAT TRUTH.

It is said of John Wesley, that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for this
