Charles C. Hottel Frozen to Death.

Last Friday morning about 8 o'clock Chas. B. Buser of Kelletville, discovered the dead body of a well dressed man lying partially covered by snow about eight feet from the railroad track and about one-half mile below Newtown. The body, which was frozen stiff, had lain here found for at least two nights and a day. He was lying on his back, his arms had blown a few feet from the body. There was no evidence of a struggle about the place, the unfortunate man appeared as if sleeping, and there is no doubt he had been drinking some, and feeling tired sat down to rest and falling asleep came to his death from exposure and by freezing.

Coroner Morrow was summoned, a jury empaneled and an inquest held. The body was removed to the carpenter shop at Newtown, where a postmortem examination was made by Dr. C. Y. Deter, of Kelletville. The doctor found all of the internal organs in a normal condition and saw no reason why the man should not have lived to a ripe old age, had he not subjected himself to the exposure which resulted in his sad death. The deceased had been working all winter for Samuel Aul on a logging job near Loleta. He must have left there the first of last week, spending a day or two in Marienville. He left Marienville last Wednesday forenoon, arriving at the top of Bear Creek hill about seven o'clock evening, where he was last seen alive by Herb Dotterer and one or two others. He told them he was going to Newtown, and upon arriving at or laid down for some purpose, fell asleep and froze to death. Owing to the discoloration of the face it is barely possible that his true identity might never have been fully established, but for the fact that he had written a letter at Loleta on January 28th, to Miss Vernie Kiffer, of Whig Hill, and had neglected to mail it. This letter was found on his person, and was the sole clue among his effects which led to his identity. The letter was delivered to the person addressed, and one of her brothers, Elvie Kiffer, who was well acquainted with the deceased, positively identified him as being Charles C. Hottel, of Clarion, Pa. His relatives were notified and his brother, P. T. Hottel, came over to Newtown and took charge of the remains. The deceased who was born and raised near Clarington, was the eldest son of W. C. Hottel, an old resident of Barnett township, whose death occurred about two years ago. He was aged about 45 years and was a widower, his wife having died a few years ago, leaving two small children, who are thus made orphans by his untimely death. He is also survived by an aged mother, two sisters and five brothers. The Coroner took charge of his personal effects, consisting of a watch, $5.70 in silver and some other trinkets, which will be turned over to his relatives. The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the above facts. The burial took place at Clarington on Sunday afternoon. Pity poor Charles! He, like far too many others, was his own worst enemy; always industrious, and kind and generous to a fault.

More Thoughts.

No argument is necessary in this day and age of the world to convince a father or a mother that music is a good thing.

A human being, young or old, large or small, without music in the soul is a freak of nature. It is not necessary for me to tell you the influence music has on society in establishing the morals of a community, in enlivening and encouraging the heart of man.

Go into the cities, passing along the streets you will hear the young reels whirling and the popular songs, workmen whistling the most popular melodies, executing the most difficult airs of the old masters on their pianos. Go to the farm you hear musical voices. The boys humming that beautiful song, "Way Down Yonder in the Cornfield." Go to the woods, you are delighted with the sweet notes of the whistling birds. Go where you will, it's music, music, music. The age we live in is a musical age. Parents when young, did not have the musical advantages young people of to-day have.

The time has come when a young lady cannot sing, play an organ or piano or entertain on some kind of a musical instrument has to "take a back seat."

Then it behoves all parents to give their children all musical advantages possible. Many plead poverty, are too poor to pay even $2 a month on an organ. People who buy musical instruments and have their children learn music to any degree of proficiency must expect to be at some sacrifice. Good things do not come free and unobtainable—we must work for them. But in this day and age of the world very few families need to be without a musical instrument, when you can secure a fine good reliable 6 octave organ of us on easy payments of $5 down and $2 a month until little more each month without too much of a sacrifice, we can furnish you a fine piano on easy payments of $5 per month. This being the case, what good excuse can you give for keeping your children in ignorance of music and its refining influence? One great mistake many people make about this piano business is this: They want to pay $100 or $500 for a piano and put off letting one until you can reach that price. The result is they never get there—their children never have musical advantages. They should buy a good medium priced instrument on easy monthly payments and thereby give their children a chance with their neighbors' children. We have sold many pianos to wealthy families in this vicinity at $200 cash each. Come around and see what we have to offer you on the above mentioned easy payment plan. We can supply you with Violins, Guitars, Mandolins, Banjos, Harps, Autoharps, Phonographs and Jewelharp and everything else in the music line from a hound pup to a frog.

But don't forget it's the man with the cash that buys his goods the cheap.

Strikes Up, Not Down.

The cause of death by lightning is the sudden absorption of the electric current.

When a thundercloud which is highly charged with positive electricity hangs over any certain place, the earth beneath it becomes abnormally charged with the negative electric current, and a man, animal or other object standing or lying directly beneath also partakes of the last mentioned influence. If, while the man, animal, or other object is in this condition, a discharge takes place from the cloud above, the restoration of the equilibrium will be sudden and violent, or, in language that we can all understand, the negative current from the earth will rush up to join the positive cloud current and in passing through the object which separates the two currents, if it be an animate thing, will do so with such force as to almost invariably produce instant death. According to the above, which seems a tenable hypothesis, to say the least, a person is really "struck" by the ground current, and not by the forked fury from above.—Boston Budget.
