> Strength of Animal Scent. The bird dog man is likely to think his favorite has a better nose than any animal on earth. He can tell you any amount of stories about hirds being scented at very long distances. Now It is a covey of chickens winded at 300 yards, or, again, a bevy of quail drawn straight to at seventy-five. There are other animals, however, which have wonderfully keen noses. For instance, the sea offer hunters do not dare build a fire for days at a time on the little islands of the Pacific ocean frequented by those animals because the otter can smell the fumes from the smallest blaze a distance of five miles out at sea. It is said of this animal that he can trail a fish under the sea. Moose have been known to wind a man at two miles and make up their minds so positively about him as to never quit running under twenty-five A White Ant Diet.

A book on the Kongo Free State gives this plcture of the fondness of the natives for white ants; "In the white ant month the natives have a very busy time. The river is deserted. and men and women, boys and girls, go out to gather the white ant for food. I cannot say I admire their taste, but the white ant is not bad as food, merely very rich. In this month he is about an inch long. The natives gather him in hundreds, pull off the wings and roast him. The native boys have a shorter way with him. Sometimes at mess white ants flopped on to the ta-who were waiting pounced on them and without further ceremony popped them into their mouths."

New Gainen Swamp Dwellers. Recently the British government pab

lished an interesting report on the ape like swamp dwellers of New Guinea This strange race of human beings has dwelt in the swamps from times which antedate the oldest native traditions. and it is evidently on the highroad to becoming a distinct variety of animal. The swamp dwellers have lost three inches in stature and, while retaining muscular arms and a robust trunk have short and slender legs. Walking always in water or on moist ground they have feet with long, fragile looking toes, which they place on the ground "like wooden feet," Walking on hard ground makes their feet bleed, and, unlike the ordinary natives, whose skin is everywhere tight and smooth, the outline of their loins is obecurod by felds of skin. "More apelike than any human being that I have seen," is the concluding criticism of the British administrator. It is probable of course that this effort of nature to create a new species of amphibious human being with flat swimming and wading feet and degenerate physique will be defeated by civilizing agencies. Fifty years hence the last rocognizable specimens of this queer race will perhaps have incased their paddle feet in boots. Perhaps their women will be wearing high heeled shoes. But the record of their existence is interesting.

The Ram Feast.

In Morocco the strange season of the Mohammedan new year, beginning March 9, is generally called "Ait el-Hanwela," the ram feast. The people of Morocco pay more elaborate attention to the item of sacrifice than any other Moslems. In every town a supreme offering of a ram or he goat takes place at the door of the principal mosque. Immediately after it is struck by the official imam in presence of the multitude it is flung on the shoulders of a staiwart Moor, who, exerting his utmost strength, runs like a deer through the narrow streets, pursued by a rabble. The poor animal is pelted with stones by boys and is jeered at with excerations from every house, as It is reputed to be carrying the sins of the people. The man rushes along with the cadi's palace. If the animal is still breathing, the augury is excellent, for good luck is to be expected all throug! the year. But if the ram is dead n. sorts of evil prognostications are mutof St. Paul. tered.

The Charitable Americans.

The Americans are looked upon by the peoples of Europe as the most wasteful persons in the world, and they do spend their money with a free ble, attracted by the light. The boys dom unknown elsewhere because they have the money to spend. But with al their apparent carelessness there is no country in the world nor is there rec erd of any in which the people devote so much to the welfare of the unfortunate and the wretched. The practice has become a habit and is looked upon rightly enough as an obligation. No one can free himself from it. Every dinary hen's eggs that were submitted one has a neighbor somewhere, and he will not fulfill his obligation merely by and 675 pounds per square inch.
