DEATHS IN THE TUNNEL.

Terrible Fall of Rock in the New York Subway.

Dowie in New York—Aluminum Patents—Chautauqua Assembly Officers—Increased Immigration—New Trotting and Pacing Records—Death of Professor Thurston.

Ten men were killed by a cave-in of the roof and walls of the New York city subway tunnel at 195th street Saturday night and four were badly injured. All of the dead and injured were workmen, and most of them Italians.

The accident was the most disastrous that has occurred in the construction of the subway. At the point where the cave-in occurred a gang of 20 men were at work in the tunnel which is about 110 feet below the surface.

The tunnel was being bored by opening a perpendicular embrasure and blasting the sides to the right and left of this embrasure. Three blasts were arranged for by the drillers, the holes being charged well toward the roof. The drillers then withdrew and the three blasts were set off in rapid succession by electricity, loosening large quantities of rock.

The drillers say that about 10 minutes elapsed to allow the smoke to clear away before Timothy Sullivan, the foreman, and Electrician Schuetts advanced, the latter intending to string wires and hang electric lamps to light the way.

They were followed by 16 workmen. The gang had reached the broken stone when a rumbling sound was heard. It grew in volume with lightning-like rapidity. Those in the rear had just time to turn about and run, when with a deafening crash hundreds of tons of rock fell on the men at the face of the boring.

The drillers and two or three Italians who were out of reach of the deluge of rocks were knocked flat on their faces by the rush of wind driven through the tunnel.

The cave-in released a natural spring in the earth above the tunnel and in a few minutes a stream of water was gushing in and trickling about the feet of the workmen and to some extent interfering with the work of rescue.

Dowie Had a Quiet Sunday.

Sunday was the quietest one that Dowie and his host have passed since their invasion of New York two weeks ago. Three services were held in the early morning, afternoon and evening, at the two latter of which the audience being of a better class than those who have hitherto been attracted, and the proceedings being marked by the absence of any attempt at disturbance. The afternoon sermon presented no novel features, being devoted to Dowie's customary denunciations of Masonry and Roman Catholicism.

When he opens his week night meetings he faces an immense throng; when he closes his audience has dwindled to only a few hundred people besides the "host" he brought with him from the West. He fumes, fumes, threatens and cajoles and finally resorts to the use of epithets, his hearers meanwhile leaving the meetings several hundred together, drowning the sound of his voice.

As a matter of fact, New Yorkers do not take him seriously and it is evident that his "restoration" movement will fall both spiritually and financially.

Weekly Trade Review.

Bradstreet's review of trade says: The week's developments have favored an increase in the conservatism which has ruled in many lines for some time past. Good and poor reports combine to give an appearance of irregularity to general trade as a whole.

Fluctuations in grain prices have been numerous but complications have caused some covering in wheat, but the general drift was lower because of expected freer movement from the Northwest, favored by good weather. Cotton prices reflect short covering due to a paring down of estimates of yield, based upon frost damage, stories of lighter than expected receipts, and rather better spinning demand here and abroad.

The iron and steel trades do not show much, if any, change. Prices are weak.

Stock prices at New York are irregular and somewhat heavy, following the shutting down of the Montana plants of the Amalgamated Copper company.

Business failures for the week ending with Oct. 22 number 216 against 194 in the like week of 1902.

Decision on Aluminum Patents.

A case involving the entire aluminum industry of the country was decided in New York last week when the United States court of appeals handed down a decision upholding the validity of the so-called Bradley patent for smelting by the use of electricity. The suit was one brought by the Electric Smelting and Aluminum company of Cleveland against the Pittsburgh Reduction company, the only concern manufacturing aluminum in this country with plants at Niagara Falls and Massena, N. Y., and the court reversed the decision of the lower court, granting the Cleveland company an injunction restraining the Pittsburgh Reduction company from the use of the processes at present employed and ordered an accounting of profits for the time that it has been manufacturing aluminum in infringement of the Bradley patent, some 12 years.

Beiger of South Bend Ind., who died recently, had left a bequest of $50,000 to the assembly.

Says Panama Route is Dead.

Nearly a Million Immigrants.

The annual report of Immigration Commissioner General F. P. Sargent shows a large increase of steamer immigration over that of the preceding year, the aggregate for the fiscal year of 1903 being 857,046, an excess over that of last year of 208,303, or 32 per cent.

The statistics show an increase in immigration from all foreign sources. Of the total steamer immigration there came from Europe $14,507, from Asia 29,996 and from all other sources 12,573.

The total amount of money brought by them into the United States was $16,117,513.

Sudden Death of Professor Thurston.

Professor Robert H. Thurston, director of the Sibley college of engineering, Cornell university, died suddenly at Ithaca Sunday night. He was sitting in his library shortly before 10 o'clock awaiting the arrival of former President Andrew D. White, Dean Huffcutt of the college of law, Professor Hewett and others who were to be his guests at dinner, this being his 64th birthday. He seemed to fall asleep but when his wife made efforts to rouse him she found him unconscious and he died before a physician could be summoned. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Lou Dillon Trotted a Mile in 1:58 1/2.

Lou Dillon, queen of trotters, safeguarded her supremacy by a wonderful performance at the Memphis Driving park Saturday afternoon. Paced by two runners, the celebrated little mare stepped a mile without a break in 1:58 1/2, establishing a new world's record for trotting horses.

UNDER ADMIRALTY LAW

Opinion of Supreme Court as to Canals and Canal Boats.

Held That Canal Boats Are Ships Within Meaning of Admiralty Law. Not Subject to State Contract Lien Law—Four Judges Join in a Dissenting Opinion.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Justice Brown of the United States supreme court delivered the opinion of the court in the case of Clara Perry vs. Cornelius L. Haines, involving the question as to whether the admiralty jurisdiction of the federal courts extends to canals and canal boats.

The court held that it did. Justice Brewer delivered a dissenting opinion. The chief justice and Justices Harlan and Peckham joined in the dissenting opinion.

The case arose over repairs to a canal boat plying on the Erie canal and grew out of an effort to enforce the state contract lien law. The enforcement was resisted on the ground that the contract was a maritime one and therefore exempt, it being claimed that only the federal courts have jurisdiction in all admiralty cases.

Justice Brown in delivering the opinion held that canal boats are ships within the meaning of the admiralty law and that therefore the case is one in which only the national courts have jurisdiction. He held that admiralty jurisdiction extends to canals.

He declared that the line could be drawn only at rowboats.

He also held that the fact that a contract was made on land and the repairs were made in drydock does not affect the validity of federal jurisdiction. The present employment of horses, he continued, is merely an accident and the motive power was likely to be changed with the contemplated enlargement of the canal.

"The only distinction between canals and other navigable waters," he added, "is that they are rendered navigable by artificial means and sometimes, though by no means always, are wholly within the limits of a particular state."

"We fail to see, however, that this creates any distinction in principle. Canals though frequently within the limits of a single state generally connect waters lying outside the state. In this case, the Erie canal, though wholly within the state of New York, is a great highway of commerce and connects two different states and foreign countries and it is navigable by vessels which also traverse the waters of the Hudson river."

Justice Brewer in his dissenting opinion took the position that the maritime law was originally meant to cover the sea only and that its extension to navigable streams which are navigated by ocean going vessels, "I do not," he said, "believe that under the true interpretation of the constitution the admiralty jurisdiction of the federal courts extends to contracts for the repair of vessels engaged wholly in commerce within a state."

"The Erie canal was built by the state, is owned by the state, and it cannot for one moment be assumed that the national government can interfere to restrict the state as to the size of the canal, the depth of the water, the construction of bridges or other things in respect to which it has full control over the natural navigable waters. It seems an anomaly that when the state builds a waterway and owns a waterway and has general control over that waterway, it cannot provide as it sees fit for enforcing claims for work on vessels navigating such highways when the vessels are of a character which prevents their being used for any foreign commerce."

He referred to the possible determination on the part of the people of the state of New York at next week's election to enlarge the canal and said that if such control was given the state it ought also to be given jurisdiction of it.

Justice Brewer further emphasized his views in the case by referring to the insignificant character of the boat on which the repairs were made, saying that while repairs cost $154, the vessel was sold for $155. This fact also was used to show that the vessel was practically rebuilt and the conclusion drawn that on that account the state courts should have jurisdiction.

FOOTBALL FATALITY.

Former Westminster College Athlete Dies as Result of Gridiron Accident.

New Castle, Pa., Oct. 26.—The first football fatality of the season here occurred Friday, when Walter E. Edmunds, a well-known young athlete, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Edmunds of Wallace avenue. He was injured a week ago while playing with the New Castle Indians against the Salem, O., team at that place. During the second half of the game he was accidentally kicked in the groin, but continued in the game.

The injury was not apparently serious and at first gave him little pain. He worked Monday and Tuesday in the Greer tin mill, where he was employed. He was taken very ill that afternoon and was forced to go to bed, although his condition did not become serious until early Friday morning, when he sank suddenly and died.

He was 23 years old, and during the past five years had a good record on the football field. He weighed 185 pounds and was of powerful physique. He first played football on the New Castle High school team, and was since connected with every team of importance here. He also received flattering offers to play with nearby college teams, but never accepted any, although he did occasionally play with Westminster college. He is survived by his parents and two brothers, William of this city and Chester Edmunds, who is connected with the Edmunds Brick company of Pittsburgh.

TRIED TO BURN HOME.

Incendiaries Thought to Secure Money While House Was on Fire.

Scottsdale, Pa., Oct. 26.—A desperate attempt was made early Friday morning to burn the residence of Tax Collector Frank R. Bell, about one mile east of this place.

The party or parties who made the attempt gained entrance through a cellar window, and placing a large quantity of paper on the landing of the cellar stairs set fire to it. The fumes from the smoke of the burning paper aroused Mr. Bell, and he succeeded in extinguishing the flames before much damage was done.

Mr. Bell is tax collector for Bullskin township, and the parties evidently thought he had money in the house, and that it could be easily secured during the excitement attending the discovery of the fire.

In the cellar was a large amount of canned fruit and smoked meats, but none of these were touched, except one smoked ham, which was taken out to the garden, where it was found in the morning. There is no clew to the incendiaries.

Two Men Killed by an Old Can.
