Saturday at noon the great St. Louis exposition was thrown open to the At 9 o'clock in the morning all the high dignitaries of the exposition met at the administration building and, headed by a band, marched to the Plaza of St. Louis in the center of the exposition grounds. Representatives of foreign governments met at the Hall of Congresses at the same hour and timed their parade to the plaza so as to arrive at the same moment the exposition officials marched in from the opposite direction. At the same time representatives of state and territorial governments entered the plaza from a third avenue, having previously formed at the United States building.

After the gathering had been for mally called to order by President Francis, Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago delivered the invocation. At the conclusion of the prayer Director of Works Isaac S. Taylor delivered the keys of the buildings to President Francis, who in turn transferred the buildings to Frederick J. V. Skiff, the director of exhibits.

The chorus "Hymn of the West," the words by Edmund Clarence Stedman and music by John Knowles Paine, was then sung, and addresses were ade by the following gentlemen: Mayor Wells of St. Louis, Hon. Thomas

Ship Was Destroyed by Japanese. The finding of the court of inquiry that the Petropavlovsk was destroyed by Japanese mine has caused little surprise in St. Petersburg. This finding had been expected since Viceroy Alexieff's dispatch of April 21, in which Vice Admiral Togo's claim that he was responsible for the blowing up of the ship was practically admitted. The publication of the findings of the court is pointed to as proof of the purpose of the emperor to get at the truth, no matter whether or not it shows a victory for the enemy, and to inform the people in order that they may know where to place the responsibility.

After the Paper Trust.

Attorney General Knox has decided to start an investigation against the combination of paper manufacturers to determine whether the so-called pa per trust is violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Knox received a delegation of newspaper publishers consisting of Don Seitz of the New York World, John Norris of the New York Times and Conde Hamlin of the St. Paul Ploneer-Press, who gave him an outline of evidence which they claim to possess showing that the paper manufacturers exist as a combination in restraint of trade and that the manufacturers are committing a violation of the Sherman law analogous to that which was found by the United States Supreme Court some years ago in the famous Addyston Pipe case.

The Attorney-General has more than once made the statement that the Department of Justice stands ready to investigate alleged cases of violation of the Trust laws whenever evidence is presented in due form by trustworthy persons. The publishers declared to Mr. Knox that the paper manufacturers have an agreement by which they divide territory among themselves, that they fix prices at an un reasonable and burdensome figure, and that their business is managed in violation of the laws regulating commerce between the states.

FIGHTING ON THE YALU.

Wild Rumors as to Extent of Russian Reverses.

St. Petersburg Censor Will Not Give Out Dispatches Received From the Front - Talk of Removing General Sassulitch For Opposing Crossing Cautious Advance of the Japanese.

St. Petersburg, May 3.-The interest of the public in the news of the fighting on the Yalu is at fever heat. especially since the last official report, which announced the fighting at Chin-Gow, was given out. To the general disappointment, no further telegrams from Gen. Kuropatkin have been pub lished by the war commission, nor will the censor pass press dispatches wired from the front.

The absence of news led to the cir culation of wild rumors. For instance, it was reported that General Sassuiitch would be relieved of his command and court martialed for making a too strenuous stand on the right bank of the Yalu. As a matter of fact, while the war office is surprised at the resistance made by General Sassulitch, a telegram from General Kuropatkin to the emperor on April 26 announced that Sassulitch, in view of the preparations which the Japanese were making to cross the Yalu, had begun to reinforce his troops on the Manchurian

Another report says that the war office has been informed that the Russian casualties numbered 2,000. Should this be true it can be accepted as a certainty that the Russian plan of operations never contemplated such a sacrifice.

In view of the cautious advance of the Japanese it is not expected they will quickly follow up Sassulitch but will take a few days in getting the remainder of their troops and supplies across the river and in clearing the country of Russian detachments in order that their communication may not be exposed to attack.

PROGRESS OF CAMPAIGN. Minister Hayashi Gives His Views of

Immediate Results of General Kuroki's Victory. London, May 3 .- Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister here, gave to the press the following statement:

"The immediate result of General Kuroki's success will probably be a movement on Feng Huan Chang, which the Chinese had fortified with their usual brick structures. Since the commencement of the war the Russians doubtless have added earthworks, but their loss of guns Sunday must seriously diminish their defensive Russians in the open sea." strength.

"I understand that Russia had only 100 guns in Manchuria. If that is the case her artillery strength has been diminished almost one-third, "They fight well, those Russians and Feng Huan Cheng will not be taken without a hard struggle unless Ceneral Kuropatkin again changes his plan of campaign. The announcement that the Russians would not contest the crossing of the Yalu has proved, as we thought, to be misleading. Thirty thousand men is far too large a body for any general to face the enemy with if it were merely intended to hamper his movements. Kuropatkin evidently meant to make a deter mined resistance, but he either underestimated our strength or disposed his forces in the belief that we would not venture a frontal attack. Japanese Base at Antung. "I take it from the dispatches received that we have now practically secured control of both banks of the Yalu. In consequence, our base will probably be moved to Antung. "To be perfectly frank, I must say expected the engagement would be more decisive, especially in view of the large number of Russian troops opposed to us. Its significance must largely depend upon our ability to pursue the enemy."

Reviewing the whole future of the struggle that has just commenced in such deadly earnest on land, Baron Hayashi said:

"The duration of the war must lie rather with Russia than with Japan. For the moment the military advantage is with us, for Kuropatkin has extended his front and we can strike where and when we will. Our aggressive movement may be carried on to Mukden, perhaps to Harbin, or further. but before long there must come a stage of the campaign where Ruscia will assume the role of the invading power and where we must act solely on the defensive. From the beginning and has been but a means toward the eventual repulsion of an invading army. "General Kuroki himself probably cannot say at this moment at exactly what point our aggression will be changed into the defensive. Kuropatkin, so I believe, says he will not un dertake to drive us back until he has 300,000 men ready to take the field. I think that at least 5 per cent of that force will die from sickness, so that to keep his force at the maximum required Kuropatkin will always have to be transporting 15,000 men from St Petersburg-no small task.

"This year's barvest in Manchuria I learn, promises to be bad. A million county, was 104 years old Saturday. Russians there, in addition to the He is the last survivor of the war of army, must be fed. We have or shall 1812. inevitable. Possible Manchu Rising.

almost impossible and famine appears

"With this dreadful accompaniment of war, there is only too likely to be a rising among the Manchurians. They may attack the Russians or they may attack us. Either case is bad enough to contemplate.

"To help us sit down and wait all these contingencies we are working day and night on the Corean railroad and by October the unfinished portions of the road between Fusan and Seoul will be completed and a new line from Seoul to Wiju will also be ready. Locomotives are coming from the United States and as soon as these ar rive we will have a strong and rapid line of communications through all Corea, which will almost touch our own mainland, and we will not be likely to suffer from want of supplies or reinforcements.

"As regards Port Arthur and Vladiferent. I cannot say anything about that have been mobilized, but there is essary. no doubt that the Liao Tung peninsula will, if any success attends our land forces, be cut off from supplies.

"Neither Port Arthur nor Vladivostok can be taken from the sea front, but I think you will find Port Arthur either taken by our land forces or starved out by September. The Chinese are smuggling provisions into Port Arthur now from Chefoo but only to an immaterial extent and that will soon cease.

"Vice Admiral Togo will doubtless remain on watch outside Port Arthur. By September, when the hurricane season comes, he should be able to safely house his fleet in a Japanese port. No fleet, Russian or Japanese, could be particularly effective ther. I scarcely think Russia will send her Baltic fleet to face our autumn hurri-

"The most unfortunate incident the campaign up to date is Vice Admiral Kamimura's misfortunate missing the Vladivostok fleet. It seems from here that it was a pity the vice admiral did not stay outside that port instead of trying to find the
