—Remember that the law also stipulates that you can not legally take more than 50 trout in one day. It is well we thought of that, just before a contemplated trip. We might have been caught with 51 in our basket.

—The May term of court in this county has been called off, as has doubtless been observed by our readers, there being no business to require the holding of the same. Getting most awfully good herabouts these times, you will notice.
—Walter L. Main's immense show will exhibit at Warren on Saturday, May 14th. This is easily the biggest aggregation now on the road in this section, and will doubtless draw an immense crowd, being the first of the season to pitch its great tents hereabouts.

—At Clarington a poverty social, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., was held in the town hall on the evening of the 17th ult., and was well patronized. The manner of dress explained the name of social, and seemed to be an amusing feature. Press Supt.
—Crawford county enjoys the distinction of having a woman tax collector, Mrs. Esther Shurtle, having been appointed by the commissioners for the second ward of Meadville. Who shall say that women have no rights in this enlightened country?

—James Haslet, one of our enthusiastic breeders of poultry, and who has heretofore scooped in about everything in the nature of first prizes in the Silver Pencil Wyandotte class at the big exhibitions, sent a trio of his best birds to London, England, last week.
—Bernice, the bright, lovable child of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Barton, of Lynch, Howe town, died on the 20th inst., aged three and a half years. The stricken parents have the sympathy of all their neighbors in this affliction. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Emerson Jones, were held Thursday afternoon.

—The Derrick's report of oil operations for the month of April in the Pennsylvania field shows 743 wells completed, and 1088 rigs up and wells drilling. This indicates an increase of 148 in completed wells, and 972 barrels of new production over the March report. There was decrease of 3 in new work begun.

—The issue of the series of stamps commemorative of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition has begun, and will soon be on sale at all principal post offices. The series is a beautiful one and the principal denominations and illustrations will be: One cent, green, Robert R. Livingston; 2-cent, red, Thomas Jefferson; 3-cent, purple, James Monroe; 5-cent, blue, William McKinley; 10-cent, brown, map of United States, showing territory purchased.

—At the sessions of the Northern conference of the Pittsburgh synod of the Lutheran church, at New Castle, the committee on readjustment of conference bounds established the counties of Erie, Forest, Crawford, Mercer, Venango and Warren as the Erie conference, with 12 parishes and 20 congregations.

—Some one was kind enough to send to this office a bogus half dollar, a very rank specimen at that, which he or she says was picked up near the depot at this place. If the owner wants it, and cares to take the risk of being caught with such a counterfeit, why it's here for him, her or it. Don't all speak at once.

—"Those thinking about raising sweet peas," said a well known lover of flowers, would do well to discard the wire netting used for supporting the plants. It turns the tender branches of the plants and they are not near as thrifty as when the old-fashioned string is used." Here is a little pointer it would be well for the housewives to consider.

—Seven professional nurses who assisted the unfortunate people of Butler during the recent epidemic of typhoid fever, have died from that disease and yielded up their lives for others. There were 190 of these brave and skillful women engaged in the work of caring for the fever patients in Butler, and of this number twenty contracted the malady.

—Mrs. Bates died early Tuesday morning of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. O. Whitton, of East Hickory, from a complication of diseases. Her home was at St. Marys, Ohio, and she came to Hickory some two months ago hoping that a change of climate would prove beneficial, but the result was not as hoped. Her age was about 46 years.

—The parlors of the Mansion House were the scene of a wedding-to-day, April 27, the parties principally concerned being W. H. Stewart and Mrs. Susan E. Ellison, both of Warren. The bride and groom came down from Warren on the 11:30 A. V. & P. train and were met here by J. M. McGee, presiding elder of Oil City district of the Free Methodist church. The bride is the mother of Rev. Emma Ellison, of the Free Methodist church of this city.—Titusville Courier.

—It transpires that the new owner of the Chas. Bonner property, which recently changed hands, is T. D. Collins, of Nebraska, Pa., and that it was purchased by that philanthropic gentleman as a site for a new Methodist church edifice. It is said Mr. Collins intends to erect a fine stone building thereon, which will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000. This is welcome news, not alone to the M. E. congregation, but to the people of our town as well. Whether or not the building will be started this season is not definitely known.

—With last week's issue of the Venango Spectator H. M. Irwin's connection with the paper ceases, he having disposed of his interest in the plant to his partner, Arthur S. Martin. In common with all the other members of the craft we regret exceedingly to note this shift, for we fear it may take Mr. Irwin, even for a short time, out of the editorial push, which would be a regrettable contemplation among his long list of admirers, and we hope, after a rest and recuperation, to fear of his return to his first love. A. J. Palm, a well known writer, will be the new editor of the Spectator.

—According to a West Monterey correspondent of the Clarion Democrat, Geo. Carson, son of J. T. Carson of this place, and Wylie Collins had a very narrow escape from drowning in the Allegheny river at that place on Saturday of last week while out duck hunting. Mr. Carson while attempting to shoot at a large drove of ducks lost his balance and upset the boat, throwing Mr. Collins and himself into the swift current. They both succeeded in reaching shore, Collins losing his gun and one boot, and George losing his hat, but saved his fowling piece, which was a borrowed one.

—The Tidoute News of last Friday reports that Frank, son of C. T. Lay, while coming up from fishing Thursday noon on the railroad track, stepped from the main track right in front of the hub factory, on to the switch, not noticing a local freight which was backing toward him. He was knocked down and the wheels of a car ran over his left leg just below the knee, horribly crushing bones and flesh. He was taken to Dr. C. C. Kemble's office, where he with Dr. Shugart amputated the stump above the knee. It is reported that within the past few days blood poison has set in and the physicians fear fatal results.

—The St. Marys Gazette sums an important matter up in the following pointed paragraph: "Some people do not seem to know that an editor does not know the age, birth, nativity and history of every man or woman who happens to die in the neighborhood, and they expect an editor to give at least a column obituary notice of the departed, while they themselves make no effort to furnish him with the facts and data of the person's life. Such people should know that when an editor has announced the fact of a person's death and when, where and how it occurred, his duty as a news gatherer is ended. If relatives want an obituary notice it is their business to write it, or at least show the editor the courtesy to furnish him the facts to write about," and that promptly, not waiting a week or two after the death has occurred.

—Speaking of the growing craze for the propagation of the ginseng plant, an exchange says: About once a year the mind of the man who does not want to work for a living is seized with a desire to get rich quickly by ginseng. Visions of immense wealth lure many victims to spend their last dollar in procuring seeds and preparing a lot for their planting. Seed houses encourage the ginseng craze by issuing alluring circulars depicting the great possibilities of the industry but the growers have not as yet succeeded in raising enough ginseng to overstock the market, as would be the case were one in a thousand who are seized with the craze to succeed in raising the plant. A little calculation ought to convince the would-be ginseng raisers that the business will not pay fabulous profits. Ginseng is used only in China. It grows wild in the United States and Canada, but the best roots are to be found in Korea. The latter country supplies the greater amount of the ginseng used in China. China imports from the United States about 30,000 pounds of ginseng annually.

—Why shouldn't church-going ladies who wear these large, flaring, worldly hats remove them while in the sanctuary, as well as in the theatre? That question has been sensibly settled by the ladies of the First Methodist congregation of Bradford, who, according to the Record, remove their head-gear during the services. Let us hope this reform may extend over the land. The man at the theatre has a full view of all that's going on. The good man at church has an equal right to see the choir and the preacher perform.—Franklin Spectator.

—John J. Hosack, one of the best known farmers of Mercer county, father of Mrs. T. E. Armstrong formerly of Tionesta, was held up and robbed one evening recently by two foreigners at his home near Paradise. He was relieved of $18 in cash, all the money he happened to have about him. The thieves met Mr. Hosack as he entered the barn door, and after binding him, tied him to a manger. They then gagged him and one of the men choked him until he was almost blind and also struck him several times in the face. They used his cane to push the gag down his throat. Mr. Hosack was convinced that the men were desperate and made no resistance. Shortly after the men left he got the gag out of his mouth, but could not untie the ropes, so was compelled to remain a captive until 11 o'clock when his daughters, Mrs. Sue McClary, who lives with her father, and Mrs. T. E. Armstrong, of Avalon, who had been attending singing school at the Grail school house, returned home. They heard his calls for help and released him. He was in a bad condition when found, but will recover. As a sequel to this robbery Detective Marshall of Sharon, who attempted to arrest two Italian suspects, was shot and probably fatally wounded last Saturday. The suspects are still at large.

The Alumni Banquet.

The banquet of the Alumni Association of the Tionesta High School, last Wednesday evening, was a fitting climax to the exercises of commencement week. The affair was held in Bovard's Hall, and the menu, as usual, was served by the Woman's Relief Corps, two features which contributed largely to the success of the occasion.

The gathering was called to order by the president of the Alumni Association, Miss Marie Smearbaugh, and everybody was delighted with the menu. It was unusual, varied enough, and to these features was added the beautifully furnished tables filled with a hundred good people of Tionesta, including its handsome girls and stately dames, with their escorts, all anticipating a jolly time at the Alumni's second annual banquet, and none were disappointed, for after devoting an hour to the appeals of the menu, the "feast of reason and flow of soul" began, and for over another hour pleasures and quips and jests were the order of the hour with the post-prandial speakers.

Of course, the first toast was "The High School," and in response Prof. Morrison read an original poem brimming full of witticisms and localisms especially pleasing to the younger element.

Dr. Dunn responded to the toast of "Esculapian," in his usual happy way, his knees being supported by a confidential friend; while the toast to the "Directors" was well disposed of by Mr. E. W. Bowman, a member of the board.

Mr. A. B. Kelly's response to "The Old Time Banquet," was a felicitous effort, and his well timed remarks to the class of 1904 were heartily received.

The "Press" was responded to by the two editors present, but they had tarried too long at the feast and seemed altogether too full for utterance.

"The Legal Profession," brought remarks from both Mr. Ritchey and Mr. Brown, our local attorneys.

Mr. C. A. Randall gave the attentive company a very entertaining five-minute speech which was replete with good sense and excellent advice to those who have passed out the school, as well as those who are coming up to the graduating point.

Then came the toasts to the various classes who have been graduated since 1887, of which class James Morrow was the representative, and he put before the banqueters very forcibly the splendid achievements of that pioneer body of young men and women, "the first class" of the Tionesta High School. He was followed by Lester Holeman of '99, Miss Graham of 1900, Miss Hagerty of 1901, Miss Alice Arner of 1902, Miss Alice Agnew of 1903 and Miss Nellie Carson of 1904, all of whom, by the excellent character of their remarks, acquitted themselves well of their responsibility.

Rev. R. W. Illingworth filled the arduous position of toastmaster on this memorable occasion, and this report would scarcely be half complete did we not mention in highest terms the excellent manner in which this prince of ready speakers conducted the pretty affair. The silver-tongued dominie is thoroughly at home in such a position, and keeps the toasts warm, likewise the toasters.

Promiscuous speeches followed and when the general excitement had subsided, it was found that it was almost midnight, and with hearty thanks to the Alumni Association and the Woman's Relief Corps, the banqueters bade each other good night, and hoped to see each other there next year.

Carl Ulrich Killed by Cars.

Carl B. Ulrich, aged 22 years, died on the 17th of April, 1904, at the Davis Memorial hospital, Elkins, West Virginia, of injuries received the day before by being run over by a railroad train. The young man was formerly a resident of Forest county, Pa., having lived with his parents at Clough's mills, the family recently removing to West Virginia, where he and his father were employed by the Pocahontas Lumber Co. He was an industrious and intelligent young man, and his tragic death comes as a great shock to his parents as well as to his large circle of friends in the community in which he was so well and favorably known. He was a son of Fritz and Frances Ulrich, and a nephew of Edward Blabatz, of Byrntown, this county. He was a member of Big Level Tent, K. O. T. M., Pigeon, Pa. His burial took place at Elkins, W. Va.

—Death of Mrs. Jennie Rafferty.

Mrs. Jennie Rafferty, widow of the late James Rafferty, of Green township, died at her home in Tionesta, May 3d, 1904, after an illness of nearly a month. The immediate cause of her death was paralysis from which she suffered a stroke on Monday. The deceased was aged about 48 years, and was a daughter of the late Samuel Bush, for almost his entire lifetime a resident of this vicinity. She was married when about 20 years of age to Henry Norris, and to them two daughters were born. Her second marriage was with James Rafferty, who preceded her to the grave a little more than four years ago.

Shortly after her husband's death she moved with her children to Tionesta, where she worked to sustain her family of small children, in which she succeeded well until overtaken by sickness.

Six daughters and one son are made orphans by this pathetic death, and are left to weep and mourn for a fond mother and upon them the loss falls heavily and appeals to the sympathy of our community.

The burial will take place to-morrow at 2 o'clock at Newmansville.

MANGLED BY THE CARS.

Oscar Hoch of West Hickory Meets Death in a Shocking Manner.

Oscar Hoch, a young man living at West Hickory, Pa., met a tragic death last Saturday night at the station at Tidoute. He had been at Tidoute in the afternoon and had returned to Hickory on the evening train. Shortly afterward meeting two other young men, Charles Burdick and Warren Howell, the three jumped a freight that was going north, intending to get off at Tidoute. When the train reached there it was going at the usual rate of speed, not intending to stop. Hoch's two companions jumped off without difficulty, and they saw him, or supposed they did, jumping off, he being on a car ahead of them. They thought they saw him stumble. At any rate, when they came to look for him they found his mangled remains several rods further on, having been dragged a distance of nearly a hundred feet from where the car caught him. One of the young man's legs was found almost half a mile further up the track. It is supposed he struck some object when he leaped from the moving train and was thrown back under the wheels. The remains were picked up and prepared for burial, and were brought back to his home Sunday.

The unfortunate young man leaves a mother and three brothers. He had for some time been employed on the barge yard opposite West Hickory, and was an industrious young fellow. His age was about 23 years. The funeral was held Monday, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Potter.

Another sad lesson of the folly of jumping on and off moving trains.

Letter to H. W. Ledebur.

Starr, Pa.

Dear Sir: Three gallons saved is $12 to $15 earned.

Mr. Hanford Platt, of Bridgeport, Conn., ordered 15 gallons Devco to paint his house, and returned 3 gallons. His painter said it would take 15; a lead-and-oil painter.

Hubbell & Wade Co. sold it. They say everybody has the same experience there.

The reason is, of course: they are used to poor paint.

What is poor paint? Anything not Devco: some worse than others.

Besides, paints wear about as they cover. Double the $12 to $15.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVCO & Co.,

New York.

JAMES D. DAVIS SUCCESSFUL.

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence, James D. Davis the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles, that Dr. Davis is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old-fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.
