The order directs that such reading matter may be sent by a public library or institution to blind readers as a loan and returned through the mails without postage.

At the department encampment of the W. R. C. at Gettysburg last week, Mrs. Jennie E. Agnew, of the Stow Corps, Tionesta, was again elected treasurer for the ensuing year. C. R. Middleton, of Hickory, passed through the city to-day on his way from Kennedell. Saturday morning at 6 o'clock Mr. Middleton left Hickory on a float and arrived at Kennedell at 5:30 p. m. the same day. Traveling on the Allegheny on a float is considered a dangerous undertaking, but Mr. Middleton does not share in that opinion, as he has made the trip from Hickory to Kennedell annually for many years—Oil City Blizzard.

Following their annual custom, the Nettleton cemetery association will shortly hold their reunion, says the Tionesta Courier. Instead, however, of being held on the third Saturday of June as has heretofore been the case it will be held the last Friday of the month, June 21. These reunions are anxiously looked forward to by the members of the organization, many of whom are residents of this city or its vicinity. Others who reside at a distance join the locals each year and business of interest is transacted. This is followed by an old-fashioned picnic and the day is spent most pleasantly.

The recent reduction in the working force of the Pennsy has affected Tionesta, in as much as H. W. Roberts for the past 24 years employed in the carpenter and bridge department of the company and its predecessors, has been superseded. The gentleman has for many years been the master carpenter of the Chautauque division but his term of service expired to-day, he having been succeeded by E. W. Holmes, already in charge of two other divisions in that capacity. Mr. Roberts has been offered another position by the corporation in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, but as he has no desire to give up his residence here he has not as yet decided what he will do.—Tionesta Courier.

Struck by Lightning.

Lightning struck the house of Orrin Henry, living on Whig Hill, last night, and very severely, though it is thought not fatally, injured Mr. and Mrs. Henry, who had retired for the night. A babe in bed with the parents was not injured. Mrs. Henry's face and hair were severely burned, and Mr. Henry was badly burned on one side of his body. Both are doing well and it is thought will recover.

Treasurer Keller disposed of fifty-one tracts at his land sale Monday, and then adjourned the sale until the 28th of this month. The sale was well attended and at times the bidding was quite spirited.

The Democrats of this county held their primaries last Saturday. There was but one contest, the Associate Judgeship, and the vote was very light. The result was as follows: Congress, J. B. Watson, of Marienville; Assembly, M. E. Graybill, Marienville; Associate Judge, J. H. Bowman, Harmony township; Treasurer, A. Showers, Howe Twp.

Judge Harry Wilson, of Clarion, gave one George Irwin, a salty dose when brought before the court recently for furnishing liquor to persons of intemperate habits. Irwin was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the cost of the prosecution and to undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days. Every community where liquor is sold has its quota of persons who are willing to buy whiskey for those who are denied these rights because of intemperate habits, or under the required age, and a few lessons of the above nature would suffice to rid the place of such people and protect the hotel keepers.

Adam Sibble one of German Hill's industrious farmers, is minus upward of forty pretty little chicks, which had been brought out by the incubator process by the watchful care of Mrs. Sibble. One afternoon recently while the family was all absent from the house, 42 of the little peepers turned up missing, and not a feather was left to tell the story, although the time that elapsed was only two and a half hours. Mr. Sibble is charitable enough to believe that some sort of an animal took the chicks, but would have much satisfaction in knowing just what sort it was, and whether a two or four legged animal.

Last week's Clarion Republican says: A big timber deal was consummated about June 1st by H. V. Curll, president of the Curll & Evans Lumber Company, of Pittsburg and E. E. Amsler, of Venango county. The timber purchased by Mr. Amsler is a small part of the holdings of the Curll & Evans Lumber Co. in West Virginia. Mr. Amsler paid about $60,000.00 for the tract, and will put in a modern band saw mill. He is a brother of C. W. Amsler, of the Citizens' Trust Company of this place. The Curll & Evans Co. will manufacture about 20,000,000 feet of oak and poplar this year at their fine plant at Holcomb, W. Va.

The delegates from this place to the convention of the County S. S. Association at Marienville, last week, Misses Kate Arner, Bertha Yought, Sarah Morrow, Pearl Mealy, Bertha McKee, John Clark and Augustus Childs, report a very successful meeting and a royal entertainment by the people of Marienville. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Rev. M. B. Reilly, Marienville; vice president, Mrs. C. C. Yingling, Marienville; recording secretary, Miss Justina Higgins, West Hickory; corresponding secretary, Miss Bertha McKee, Tionesta; treasurer, W. E. Slaghenaupt, Clarington. The next convention will be held at Clarington.

In a recent case before the Franklin county court Judge Stewart made a comprehensive statement as to the duty of township commissioners in the matter of keeping the public roads in order, which applies to portions of Forest county with considerable force. "It is the duty of Commissioners," declared the Judge, "to keep the roads in good condition without fear of consequences, political or otherwise. They are not to be deterred from that duty because the performance of it might necessitate an increase of taxes. The office of road commissioner has sufficient power to put his township under obligations to him for the good service he may perform by building roads that shall be what the law intends them to be."

This is wholesome admonition and conforms entirely to the purpose of the law. The action of Judge C. A. Mayer, presiding over the Elk county courts, in setting free Francisco Topalo, and virtually declaring him innocent of crime, may cause some discussion as to the propriety of declaring the man innocent, but it has saved the county the cost of a murder trial, and probably simply anticipated the verdict of a jury. Topalo is the man who wreaked swift vengeance on Samco Kellegram, at Cardiff recently, by shooting him dead for the deliberate murder of his wife. Court happened to be in session when he was brought to the county jail for trial, and Topalo was brought before Judge Mayer on the 25th on a writ of habeas corpus, and the Judge ordered him discharged. It is said that Judge Mayer declared he would not have a man tried for such an act in his court—virtually declaring that Topalo did just right in slaying the man who had deliberately murdered his wife without a particle of excuse for his awful act.—Ridgeway Advocate.

One of the few landmarks recalling the earlier oil excitement when Petroleum Center was a flourishing city of some 15,000 or 20,000 inhabitants is being removed, the old school house, which was erected when the place was at its best, says the Derrick. The building is of two stories, 60 by 40 feet in diameter, and contained four school rooms, which for a year or two were crowded daily during the school term. Last year one of the rooms was more than enough to accommodate the few children who attended from that vicinity and as a matter of economy in fuel and keeping up the big barracks-like school house, it was determined to tear it down. When the old school house was new the town supported a first class bank, installed in a brick building, numerous saloons and several good hotels. Near by was the famous Columbia oil farm, with its own brass band and various other social and fraternal organizations, and the Oil creek valley from the Center to Tionesta was an almost continuous network of small settlements around the oil development.

STITZINGER NOT SUSTAINED.

Judge Weiss Overrules Exceptions To Decree Taken By His Attorney.

Last week's Vindicator published an article taken from the Harrisburg Patriot the heading of which gave an altogether erroneous impression of the subject matter of the article. The facts in the case, as a reading of the article will disclose to any one with common sense, are just the opposite to what the heading would imply, and clearly show that Mr. Stitzinger was not sustained. While the defendant, Mr. Stitzinger, through his attorney, did file objections to the decree of the Dauphin county court, the objections were overruled and the court's decree stands, and the money which properly belongs to the several school districts of the county will be forth coming sooner or later. Following is the article referred to:

Judge Weiss on Thursday morning overruled the exception to the decree of the court which was filed May 9, 1904, and which directed Elmer E. Stitzinger, Superintendent of Schools of Forest county, to refund to the various school districts of the county $1,000 which had been paid to him in excess of his salary and enjoyed Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, Superintendent of Public Instruction from paying to Superintendent Stitzinger any salary until the money was returned; also that Dr. Schaeffer pay to the school districts of Forest county $500 of their appropriation which he had withheld because of the non-payment of the salary together with the $1,000 paid to Professor Stitzinger. The case was an action brought by Wm. Richards, J. C. Snowdon, Edward Kiser, W. G. Morrow, Isiah Cassatt, J. C. Welsh, G. F. Watson, C. F. Ledebur, school directors of Forest county against Dr. Schaeffer and Professor Stitzinger to restrain the former from paying any salary to Professor Stitzinger until he refunds $1,000 which he received in excess of his salary during his term from 1899 to 1900 and to compel Dr. Schaeffer to pay to them $1,500 which he held from their share of the school fund by reason of the excessive payment. Exceptions to the decree ordering the defendants to pay the money to the directors were filed by Prof. Stitzinger who alleged that the directors in convention on May 2, 1900, had fixed his salary at $1,500 per annum and that the court erred in finding that the defendant must refund the money which he alleges was paid in accordance with the action of the convention.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Sued By His Doctor. "A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Couchella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy he used as a cure for my case. He said it was and he would not sue under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by Dr. J. C. Dunn.

Secor—Klinestiver.

An event which marked an epoch in the social annals of the picturesque little town of Nebraska, this county, was consummated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Klinestiver, Sr., last Thursday, June 9th, 1904, when their daughter, Miss Emma Kristina Amelia, was united in marriage with Sanford H. Secor, of Sheffield, Pa. The hour for the ceremony was set for high noon, and by that time all the guests, numbering upward of a hundred, were comfortably dispersed throughout the spacious parlors of this pleasant home. At 11:55 Prof. Judd, of Sheffield, touched the notes of a soft and pleasing air on the piano, apprising the friends that the moment for the ceremony was approaching, and while the clock was striking the hour of twelve, and the sweet strains of the wedding march softly floated out, the bridal party entered through the arched parlor doors and was met by the officiating clergyman, Rev. H. A. Ellis, of Sheffield. First came the groom, supported by his "best man," Mr. Fred Klinestiver, brother of the bride, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Marie Balentine and Miss Blanche Mae Pease. Next came the bride, carrying a bouquet of bride's roses, and leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Harry Klinestiver, who "gave her away."

The bridal station was under a canopy of smilax centered with pink carnations, the corner being banked by potted ferns and tropical plants. As the couple assumed their places they formed a union, as it were, between two great hearts that were festooned in smilax on the windows on either side, thus forming a picture of loveliness that fascinated and riveted all eyes upon them. The bride wore a gown of white silk chiffon over white silk. The bridesmaids were gowned in white chiffon trimmed with lace. The beautiful ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church was employed in joining the happy hearts in wedlock, and as the minister advanced to speak the words the whirring wheels were hushed, and amid the stillness of the moment the impressive service was beautifully consummated. Pretty compliments and hearty congratulations were showered upon the couple, who now stood in a new and happier relation to one another, and one unregenerate clap sounded the groom by kissing the bride, while, to even up, one of the ladies planted a good big smack upon the lips of the amazed groom.

The wedding breakfast, served under the direction of Miss Bessie Cook and Miss Ida Ledebur, by the bride's Sunday school class of young ladies in white, was in all points in harmony with the other splendid features of the occasion, the bride's table being a revelation in daintiness and beauty.

At three o'clock the bride and groom took leave of their friends amidst a shower, or more properly speaking, a downpour of rice, old shoes, brooms and good-byes, and were driven to the station at Tionesta, where they boarded the afternoon train for a ten days' pleasure trip, which will include Philadelphia, New York, a steamer voyage up the romantic Hudson, and a few days at Monticello, N. Y., where the groom has relatives living.

Upon their return they will reside at Sheffield, where a nicely furnished home awaits their arrival, and where both have a host of friends who will extend them a royal welcome.

Mr. Secor is a young man of quiet demeanor, whose steady and correct habits have won the esteem and confidence of all who know him. He has for a number of years held the responsible position of agent for the Philadelphia & Erie railroad at Sheffield station. Mrs. Secor is one of Forest county's choicest girls. Graduating with honors from the Clarion State Normal School, she took up the work of teaching, and has been looked upon as one of the leaders in her chosen profession. A girl of rare good sense and pleasing ways, she has greatly endeared herself to her large circle of friends, who think the lucky groom is to be doubly congratulated on winning so rare a prize as an helpmeet.

It would be unjust to our readers were we to close without some reference to the magnificent array of presents to the bride. A prettier display could scarcely be pictured. Solid silverware, cut glass, china, linen, and many pretty works of art, charmed the admiration of all who gazed upon them. As a mark of the esteem in which the bride is held in the community where she is reared, work at the large lumbering plant at Nebraska was suspended during the afternoon, and Superintendent Watson of the S. & T. Railroad, brought a special car down from Kellettsville to convey the guests from that vicinity to and from the wedding.

May good fortune, health and happiness attend this worthy young couple all their days upon earth, is the fervent wish of their many friends, and in which wish the REPUBLICAN joins most heartily.

The guests present from out of town were: Rev. H. A. Ellis, Prof. C. E. Judd, Mrs. Frances Secor, Miss Etta Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Klinestiver, Sheffield; Miss Blanche M. Pease, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Watson, Miss Emma Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wenk, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Abbott, Rev. and Mrs. O. H. Nickle, Mrs. Wm. Smearbaugh, Mrs. Wm. Lawrence, Mrs. J. B. Klinestiver, Mrs. Mary Smith, West Hickory; Miss Marie F. Balentine, Milan, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Watson, Gettysburg; Miss Grace Shevman, Randolph, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, Mayburg; Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Beatty, Leeper; Miss Florence Klinestiver, Warren, and H. T. Klinestiver, Tidoute.
