Republican Voters Should Remember.

In order to qualify for voting this fall the last day for payment of taxes is Saturday, Oct. 8th.

FARMERS understand that mortgages constitute their biggest crops under Democratic rule.

SOME of the Democratic campaign managers are sadly disappointed to learn that the reports of crop shortages were grossly exaggerated.

It does not require the thinking voter long to choose between Governor Taft and Carl Schurz as a guide for action in Philippine matters.

It will be a little awkward for the Democrats to entouse over a campaign book prepared in the rear office of a Wall Street "Money Devil."

If there is a single trade or industry in this country that is injured by the tariff system, the Democratic party has not been able to point to it.

DEMOCRATS are much discouraged to find that their attempt to make "Rooseveltism" the issue has created a solid North for the Republicans.

ONE of the strongest obstacles in the way of H. Gasaway Davis' success in West Virginia is the thriving conditions of the industries of the State which have been built up under Republican policies.

OUR friends the enemy, call President Roosevelt "unsaid." Did you read his letter of acceptance? Does it not convince you that of the men in this broad land he is the safest and surest of them all to be our chief magistrate?

THE Democrats would like it better, too, if Tom Watson would make his campaign in the South instead of in States where the Bryan Democrats still believe they were right in 1896 and 1900 and refused to be turned over to the faction of the party which they opposed in those campaigns.

ALL men now know exactly what the policy of the Government will be for the next four years if Mr. Roosevelt is elected. Certainly in regard to the future is a very potent factor, and will enable business men to make plans as well as contracts. Judge Parker can clear up the situation on his side of the house by being equally fearless, honest, and explicit. Let him state the issues as he sees them, so that the people can draw their own conclusions. The trouble the Judge finds himself in is that his party has no issues.

THERE is something radically wrong with the Democratic campaign. The candidate himself has been spending his days and nights at Esopus waiting for the Democratic victories in Vermont and Maine which never came. Meanwhile the Democratic party has been drifting—drifting—and one can readily imagine Judge Parker, as he drifts with it, bailing his hook and casting his line and exclaiming, "Oh, if I could only catch a real live issue!" Inspiration did not come to him at Esopus, and he went to New York to look things over. A change of bait seems to be needed.

A FEW days ago, when Judge Parker made an address to the Democratic editors who called upon him at Rosemont, he said: "I shall not take up your time with any reference to the great issues upon which our party appears in the people." This was certainly very wise and conservative on his part, since the public is gasping to know what the issues are and what Judge Parker thinks about them. As the case now stands it would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to state the issues. A bill of particulars would be very acceptable from the Judge, so that the jury can determine whether there is any issue save Parker vs. Roosevelt. But the American people will soon decide the case.

Great Barbecue at Monarch Park.

The great barbecue and ox-roast at Monarch Park Oil City, on Thursday, Sept. 29th, will be one of the most notable political events of the national campaign now in progress in the United States. It will mark the opening of Mr. Sibley's campaign in the 28th Congressional district, and everybody is aware that Honest Joe Sibley never does anything by halves.

Congressman J. Adam Bede, of Minnesota; Congressman J. S. Sherman, of New York; Hon. James Francis Burke, of Pittsburg; Chief Clerk Alexander McDowell, of the National House of Representatives; Congressman J. W. Babcock, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee; Congressman J. A. Hull, of Iowa; Congressman Jesse Overstreet, of Indiana; Congressman E. L. Hamilton, of Michigan; Congressman John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania; Congressman E. B. Vreeland, of New York; ex-Congressman Henry Casson, of Iowa; Secretary of the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican Campaign Committee; Congressman Joseph C. Sibley and Hon. B. H. Osborne, of Franklin, and Hon. G. W. Magee, of Oil City.

The invitation to attend this event is general and very cordial, and should not be missed by any who can possibly make it convenient to be present. The rumors in circulation that free trains and free street cars will be run are unauthorized and wholly without foundation. Efforts are being made, however, to secure an up-river train leaving Oil City some time in the evening to accommodate those attending from this section. Whether or not this effort will be successful can not now be determined.

A Useful Hole.

The interesting announcement was made at the congress of geographers in New York City recently that there are depressions in the floor of the Pacific Ocean more than 29,000 feet deep. Into one of them, then, the tallest mountain in the world could be plunged and be entirely submerged—with room for a deep draught vessel to sail overhead without danger of grounding.

It is sincerely to be hoped that those who found those deep holes took note of the precise location of them, so that they can find them again. At least one of them may "come in handy" some time this fall, just after the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The Hill of Woelfer's Root isn't the tallest hill in the world, by a good deal, and might easily be put out of sight in a much shallower hole than one of these Pacific "deeps." Nevertheless, it is sometimes well to do a good job thoroughly, with an ample margin to spare.

Let us have the longitude and latitude of one of the very deepest of those holes. No matter if the interior of it is lined with the slime which covers so much of the ocean floor. That will only make the place more homelike to its prospective tenant.

Something about the Airedale Terrier.

The Airedale Terrier is the largest breed of terrier yet produced. It has been kept in parts of England, mostly in the north, for the past fifty years. In the early days of his existence he was known as the Bragley, or Waterside terrier. The valley of the Aire, in Yorkshire, being the chief centre of his popularity, it was at last decided that he should be called the Airedale terrier, by which name he is now universally known. This dog owes his popularity to his adaptability to every kind of soil. He is a natural hunter, has a keen nose and is easily broken to the gun. He will do all the work of a spaniel and can be taught to drive cattle like a collie. As a water dog and retriever he is a first rate workman, on shore and when hunting along the banks of a river, there are few dogs that can equal him, for his close, wiry jacket enables him to withstand the effects of the wet, while being such a large dog, he is more than a match for any sort of vermin he may meet. Rats they will destroy as quick as one can wink, being almost as rapid in their movements as a mongoose. They will hunt rabbits with the zeal of a foxhound or beagle, tree a coon and kill him when he drops, and to muskrats, water rats and weasels, they are certain death. No hole is too deep in the water for them to follow their quarry. For hours they will work indefatigably and wade the object of their search when found. In England, in addition to being used on vermin, they are taught to retrieve ducks, geese and swan, and on account of their size and strength no sea is too rough for them when in pursuit of wounded wildfowl. They are also easily broken to the gun for covert shooting, and where a bulger is to be "induced" to come out of his box the Airedale either brings him out or is a dead dog. In point of disposition no dog could be possessed of more qualities that endear him to his owner. He is far from quarrelsome with other dogs, is inclined to shun them when at walk, yet let another dog dispute his right to advance he is up and at it in a moment. Then his opponent must look to himself, however large or strong he may be. The Airedale's jaw, of wonderful strength and punishing power, soon does its work and he will die ere he turns tail. At home he is docile in the extreme, fond of children and a good guard, and obedient to a wonderful degree, which, coupled with an intelligence almost human, make him a most enjoyable companion. The Airedale moreover possesses another great recommendation in the eyes of many dog lovers, this being the possession of a very healthy constitution, which causes little trouble to his breeders during the earlier stages of his career, and in this respect he compares favorably with many other varieties. He stands any climate and is now established in the United States, Canada, Australia, India and on the Continent of Europe. Altogether he is one of the most useful dogs living and has a personality all his own.

This terrier has advanced so rapidly in public favor since its introduction in America during the year of 1877, that record prices for the breed up to $3,000 have been paid on several occasions, nearly $7,000 being paid for four terriers imported in 1901.

Cream of the News.

Taffy is the principal ingredient in an epithet. The largest, completest and best stock of fall goods ever shown in Tionesta is right here now. Hopkins. Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give you Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Emergency Medicine.

It is a great convenience to have at hand reliable remedies for use in cases of accident and for slight injuries and ailments. A good liniment and one that is fast becoming a favorite is not a household necessity—Chamberlain's Pain Balm. By applying it promptly to a contusion or burn it allays the pain and causes the injury to heal in about one-third the time usually required, and as it is an antiseptic it prevents any danger of blood poisoning. When Pain Balm is kept at hand a sprain may be treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a quick recovery. For sale by Dr. J. C. Dunn.
