--The first snow of the season fell in these parts last Sunday. Right here in the city it was hardly perceptible, but out on the hills farther they say it fell to the depth of one to two inches but didn't last long.

--The dancing club will give one of their delightful parties in Bovard's hall this evening in honor of the school teachers. Arrangements have been made for excellent music and a good time is assured.

--Turnout to the Republican meeting next Monday evening at the court house, and hear what your popular Congressman has to say. Mr. Sibley will be glad to meet all his constituents, regardless of their political faith, and will make them one of his excellent speeches. Ladies especially invited.

--There was a pretty strong forest fire out near the Fogle Farm, in Harmony township, last Wednesday afternoon that for a time threatened much damage, but which was gotten under control by hard work of a big gang of men. The rain of Saturday and Sunday has so saturated the newly fallen leaves that further trouble from fires is not much feared this season.

--James Haslet sent a batch of his silver penciled Wyandotte chickens to the Hagerstown, Md., fair last week, and has word that he took first and fifth prizes on pullets and second on cockerels. The Hagerstown fair is considered one of the largest chicken shows in the United States, and James naturally feels elated over the capture of so many nice prizes.

--"I don't want to be rich," said a Warren philosopher the other day. "Rich people are sick a long time and then die. I had rather be poor and well." There's some truth in this view, but still the vast majority of people want to be rich and are daily striving to that end, regardless of the means. And yet rich people are not as happy as the poor and contented.

--Wm. Lawrence is having a substantial pier placed under his suspended foot bridge at the mouth of the creek. The bridge firm which has the contract for this important undertaking is composed of the following artisans: Jos. Morgan, boat builder; Andrew Fleming, barge artist; and Harry Smith, Allegheny river pilot. The work will be "buddy for strong and pretty for nice."

--A curiosity of much interest to the people of this, the banana belt of Pennsylvania, is an exhibition in the show window of Robinson & Son's store, being nothing less than a thrifty lemon plant with three large and well developed lemons growing thereon, besides a healthy blossom having the fragrance of orange blossoms. The plant is the property of Mrs. J. H. Kelly, whose watchful care has brought it up to its present state of beauty and perfection. Take a look at it.

--"Hans" Wagner, "Deacon" Phillippe and "Sammy" Leever, three of the players who have made the Pittsburgh base ball team famous, and who have a host of "rooter" friends here, are enjoying a delightful outing over in Barnett township, this county. They have been located near the mouth of Coleman run, on the Clarion river, with dogs, guns and all the necessary accoutrements for successful "doins," the hunting season. When seen by a citizen of this place they were getting their share of game, and hadn't invaded any private duck ponds either.

--Cast your vote for the straight Republican ticket at the coming election. This county is Republican by a good majority, why, then, should we not elect Republicans to fill the offices of the county? Why turn any office over to the Democrats, who simply turn the laugh on you when it's all over. You believe in Roosevelt and the principles of peace and prosperity which he represents? Then show your unswerving faith in Republicanism by voting the ticket from top to bottom. There is not a candidate on your ticket who is not worthy of your hearty support. All are loyal Republicans and would loyally support you under similar conditions. Could you get the vote of any candidate on the Democratic ticket, even as a compliment, were you to ask it? These questions ought to settle it with you. Republicans, vote your ticket.

THE ASSOCIATE JUDGESHIP.

The REPUBLICAN has never belayed much in "rushing into print" and denying stories that are told in a political campaign for political effect, and it doesn't intend doing so now to any considerable extent, especially since these stories have not the least foundation in fact. However, a silly campaign fabrication is being industriously circulated to the effect that Mr. Frank X. Kreidler, Republican nominee for Associate Judge in Forest county, is running in the interest of the lumbermen, as against the interests of the farmers.

Could a more nonsensical story—one that must strike the average man of sense as more ridiculous—be invented or imagined? And yet we are told that the Democrats have so industriously stuck to this "yarn" that some of our good, sensible Republicans are inclined to listen to it.

By this story it is intended, of course, to convey the impression that, if elected, Mr. Kreidler would raise the tax valuation on farms and lower them on timber lands, being, as he is, engaged in the lumber business. Now does not that look absurd on the face of it? Does not every man of sense know that the valuation of lands for the purpose of taxation is fixed first by the assessors, and then equalized by the County Commissioners? We want to ask the people of Forest county whether or not they know Mr. Kreidler? If so, have they ever heard or known of his doing a dishonorable act? On the contrary do they not know him to be one of the kindest, most upright and just citizens we have? Have we not all heard of his many gifts of charity, amounting to hundreds of dollars, and of his goodness toward all his fellow men, in business, socially and every other way? Could any sane person now be led to believe that he would lend himself to any contemptible, underhand methods to oppress the taxpayers or to take away one iota of their just dues, if he could?

Another silly story is to the effect that Mr. Kreidler has expressed himself as favoring the granting of license in this county, and Marienville, but in no other locality. The object of this story is plain to every one who gives it a second thought; it being to spare the temperance vote away from him, and at the same time, alienate the license people in other sections of the county. Mr. Kreidler has no pledges out on this subject, but we believe that he has said that each case should be judged on its own merits, just the same as all other matters that come before the court requiring judicial interpretation. Can any fair minded citizen ask or expect more than this? Any candidate who would pledge himself to grant or refuse all licenses in order to gain votes, is not a fit man to sit on the judicial bench.

The question has also been asked why Mr. Kreidler seeks to be judge? This office is, or ought to be, considered an honorable one. The ambition to be favored by his party with such preferment is surely an honorable ambition. At Mr. Kreidler's age we have no doubt he would feel it a graceful compliment were the people to honor him in this way.

Mr. Kreidler is all right, and the Republicans of Forest county will see to it that he is triumphantly elected on the eighth day of next month.

--Rev. Ralph R. Roberts, many years ago a minister of the Methodist church, of Tionesta, where he is still well remembered by most of our older citizens, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Adda Deek, Salamanca, N. Y., last week. The deceased was prominent in the oil regions for many years, or until extreme age prevented further activity in that line, he having given up the ministry. He acquired and lost several fortunes in operations through the Pennsylvania fields. His wife died about five years ago, since which time he had made his home with his daughter.

--The Republicans of this county are making arrangements for three monster political meetings to be held October 31st, November 1st and 2d, at Tionesta, Kellewille and Marienville. The speakers will be headed by Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, Gen. John A. Wiley and other noted speakers will be present and tell the people what the Republican party is doing and some of the things they propose doing. Every voter in Forest county should attend one or all of these meetings, they only come once every four years, and we all should turn out for these meetings.—Marienville Express.

--An Oil City angler, says the Derrick, tried to put into practice in the Allegheny river the device used for capturing eels in the German rivers recently. He secured a barrel headed at both ends and bored a large number of holes in the side with a large auger, putting a quantity of meat inside as bait. The next morning there was "narry an eel" in the case, but there were more than 30 Allegheny river alligators captured. The trap is easily made and the plan might be tried with good results at every river resort along the river, with the effect of cleaning out some of these most formidable enemies of the game fish in the river from source to mouth.

--A Washington dispatch says the Postmaster General is in receipt of the following letter, which explains itself: "Dear Sir: I wish to ask a question in regards to the Postal Law for me to advertise and Raffle My Self of. There are so many Men in Western States and so few Women I have decided to Raffle My Self of Say at 2500 Chances at one dollar per Chance and Each Lady Buying a Chance will get a number and the one drawing the lucky number will get Me and the money is to start us up in life. I wish to advertise in the Eastern Papers and would Receive the Remittances through the Mail. Please Let Me know if the laws would object to such a scheme." Surely no government could be so heartless as to stop such a novel and interesting plan as this.

Cook's Mill at Cooks Burned.

The saw mill of A. Cook Sons, at Cooksburg, was burned to the ground last Thursday night. An insipid fire had started in the fine saw dust inside the building and the watchman attempted to extinguish it with a pail of water. The result was a flash and sort of an explosion, and in an instant the entire inside of the mill seemed to be in flames. The mill is located about a mile above the town, on Tom's Run, and before help could be summoned the structure was past saving. Under one roof was the sawmill, lath and shingle mills, all the machinery of which was a complete loss, amounting to between $5,000 and $10,000, with no insurance. There being no lumber near the mill there was no loss from this source. This mill was originally built over 40 years ago by the late Judge Cook, and there is scarcely any way of estimating the amount of lumber that has been made by it in that length of time. The firm will not likely rebuild this fall, but will put up a new mill in the spring down at the town on the Clarion river.

Mealy—Holeman.

Last Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Holeman, there occurred a quiet and very pretty wedding, when their daughter, Miss Eva Z., and Mr. Merle M. Mealy, of Oil City, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The Rev. W. O. Calloun, pastor of the M. E. church, officiated. The house was simply but daintily decorated in pink and white. Promptly at 4:00 o'clock Miss Lizzie Randall played Mendelssohn's wedding march, when the bride party entered. Helen Hasht, the little three-year-old cousin of the bride, dressed in white mill, acted as flower girl. Miss Pearl Mealy, sister of the groom, attended the bride, while Mr. Archie Holeman, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The bride entered on the arm of her father and was met by the groom. She wore a gown of silk crepe voile and carried a bouquet of white roses, while the bridesmaid wore white silk organdy and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The very beautiful and impressive service was used. After congratulations all entered the dining-room where a fine wedding dinner was served. They received many handsome and useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Mealy left on the 7:15 train for Oil City, where they will make their future home. They were greeted at the depot by a large crowd of young people, who gave them a hearty shower of rice and many good wishes for a long life of happiness.

The bride was reared in Tionesta where she has a host of admiring friends and is justly popular on account of her many graces of mind and heart. Mr. Mealy is a Forest county boy, a young man of steady, industrious habits, on which account his services are always in demand. He is now holding a responsible position with the Reed Gas Engine works, Oil City, in which city the happy young couple will be "at home" to their friends on Church street, after November first. The REPUBLICAN joins in best wishes to them for a prosperous and joyous future.

Mission Funds by Novel Methods.

Six months ago at the close of a mission study class that had met in her parlors every week for six weeks, Mrs. Wheeler, of Kendeavor, gave each member a dime to work with for six months, the proceeds to go towards the support of the Endeavor church missionaries, Rev. F. W. Bible and wife. Last Friday evening the ladies met in the same room to bring in the proceeds of the dimes and relate the various means employed. There were sixteen dimes accounted for at the meeting, and the total earnings of the $1.60 amounted to $132. Each church lady contributed $1 each till the final sum is nearer $1.40. The smallest sum was $1 and the largest $20. Mrs. G. B. Evans' dime earning the latter amount.

The ways and means employed in causing money to grow in this marvelous fashion made a very interesting recital. The beginnings were most interesting, and the following are fair samples: One member spent 9 cents for flour, one cent for baking powder, and made biscuit, which started a fund of $14; another bought 9 cents worth of steen and made three shirt pockets, for which she got 25 cents. Others made a small amount of candy, the proceeds earning enough for a larger amount, etc. Another bought rat-fia enough for a hat; hat brought $13. Three cents bought shot to clean bottles at a penny a piece. Another bought a pen and wrote a legal paper for which she got $1. No exorbitant prices were charged for work done, and the ladies are justly proud of the results of their labors.

Outbreak of Blackleg.

A Franklin correspondent of the Oil City Derrick gives the following information concerning a disease of cattle which may be of interest to our farmers in case of an outbreak in this county:

Dr. George B. Johnson, inspector for the State Livestock Sanitary board, returned today from Clarion county, where he vaccinated a herd of 24 cattle to render them immune from blackleg. An outbreak of this disease recently occurred on a farm near Turkey City and since then it seems to have gained quite a foothold in the district lying between Turkey City and Callensburg, which is near the Venango county line.

Blackleg, or symptomatic anthrax, is a germ disease, endemic to certain localities, and is peculiarly fatal to young cattle from six months to three years old. It is not a contagious disease, that is, one animal will not contract the disease by coming in contact with another. The Blackleg bacillus gains access to the system through a wound or scratch of the skin or abrasion of the mucous membranes, hence pasture lands infested with briars are particularly favorable to the development of the disease, when once the bacilli have found lodgement in the soil. The germ, which in technical language is termed anaerobe, remains inert when freely exposed to the oxygen of the air, but develops rapidly in tissues underlying the skin. The bacilli form spores, the hard shell-like substance enclosing the latter, enabling them to resist atmospheric influences of heat or cold indefinitely, hence young animals unprotected by vaccination, when turned out on infested pastures, readily contract the disease. Blackleg runs a rapid course, animals apparently all right one day may next day be found dead in the field. The disease is easily recognized, its most frequent local manifestation being swelling of the hind quarters, although blackleg tumors may form on other parts of the body, never below the knee or hock joints, however. Gas forms in these tumors, which on being rubbed by the hand, emit a crackling sound. On being skinned, the muscles of the parts affected are dark in color, disintegrated and inconspicuous a dark red frothy fluid exudes from the cut surface. Unlike true anthrax, blackleg is not transmissible to man, hence the carcasses of animals dying from the disease can be handled with perfect safety. In order, however, to prevent spreading the disease all carcasses ought to be cremated where the animals have died.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A Judicious Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know that there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed.
