THE SICKROOM MIRROR.

You Must Be Discreet In Allowing the Patient to Use It.

The looking glass, whether a plus or minus quantity, plays a more important part in the sickroom than most nurses and physicians give it credit for. The patient who is allowed to look into one is likely to be frightened into a relapse at sight of his cadaverous appearance, while the one who is not allowed to look is similarly affected by the refusal, which he attributes to the fact that his face is too much for his nerves.

"All things considered, I think it a good plan to give a sick person a chance to look at himself occasionally," said a doctor. "Of course the indulgence must be granted with discretion. If a patient is really looking seedy a turn at the looking glass is equivalent to signing his death warrant, but if taken at a time when braced up by some stimulant or a natural ebullition of vital force a few minutes of communion with his own visage beats any tonic I can prescribe. It thrills the patient with new hope. It makes him feel that he isn't quite so far gone as he had thought and that possibly a fight for life is, after all, worth while.

"Being thus sensitive, a persistent withholding of a mirror convinces the patient that he must be too horrible for contemplation, and he promptly decides that the best thing for him to do is to give up the ghost and get out of the way. That is one mistake hospitals were apt to make up to a few years ago. When I was a young fellow, getting my first practice after graduation, I served on the staff of several hospitals, and in all, especially in the free wards, those aids to vanity were strictly forbidden. The deprivation went hard with many of the patients, particularly the women, and when I came to have a little authority among doctors and nurses I advised a judicious application of looking glass treatment. I still advise it both in hospital and private practice, for I find that a little reassurance as to the state of the complexion and the appearance in general goes a long way toward effecting a cure."—New York Press.

NUT VALUES.

Chestnuts are starchy and take the place of potatoes.

Brazil or cream nuts are very rich in fat and should be blended with pecans, English walnuts or hazelnuts.

Black and white walnuts as well as hickory nuts contain nitrogen and oil, but no starch. Blend with rice or potatoes.

Cocoanuts contain very little nitrogen, but are rich in oil. The fiber is difficult of digestion. The cream and milk are excellent for salads and sauces.

Peanuts are very rich in nitrogen and contain considerable starch and oil. When boiled and mashed they are much better than when roasted and ground.

Almonds are really digesters or appetizers. They are too expensive to be used alone in large quantities. Four or five thoroughly masticated at the end of a meal will frequently aid in the digestion of other foods.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Follow Your Dreams.

"To compel our thoughts to follow the memory of dreams and on no account to revert to any subject of waking thought, pleasant or otherwise"—that is a woman's formula for sleep.

"If we have already slept in the night," she says, "we should, in trying to sleep again, recall the dreams of the previous sleep and carry them on. If we have not slept, then it is necessary to go back to old dreams, which is rather more exertion and less certainly successful. But even this is far better for sleep than allowing the memory to revert to any waking thoughts or to the familiar old devices of counting a hundred or picturing sheep, etc."

PROPOSED RAILWAY MERGER.

Will Form a New Trunk Line System of 5,000 Miles.

New York, Nov. 15.—It was said here unofficially but on what was considered good authority that J. P. Morgan & Co. and H. R. Hollins & Co. have an option on a majority of the stock of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad. Representatives of these two firms are said to have started on a tour of inspection of the property.

The syndicate now in control of Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and responsible for the Pere Marquette merger, is composed chiefly of Eugene Zimmerman of Cincinnati, F. H. Prince of Boston and the United States Mortgage and Trust company. Under the option held by Morgan & Hollins, this syndicate has given up its rights to negotiate a sale, and until the option has expired H. H. Hollins & Co. will be the only medium through which control can be passed.

A merger of the Erie, Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and Pere Marquette, such as is proposed, would form a new trunk line system 5,000 miles between New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis.

Actress Died In Surf.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 15.—Miss Isidore Rush, an actress, died of heart failure while bathing in the surf. The shock was caused by an immense wave which carried her into deep water. Half a dozen members of her theatrical company were in the surf and assistance was at once hurried to her. She was unconscious when brought to shore. Physicians worked over Miss Rush for an hour in vain. Another member of the company, Milton Heriot, who endeavored to rescue Miss Rush, was rendered unconscious, but was revived after vigorous treatment.

Wins $15,000 When She Weds.

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 15.—Miss Geniveve McLeod of Chicago, who is visiting here, has been notified of a conditional bequest left her in the will of an eccentric uncle, Frederick Foss. In the event of her marriage she is to receive $15,000 cash. If she persists in remaining single her legacy is to be divided among other heirs. Miss McLeod is a bachelor girl and does not want to marry. However, she needs the money, and may change her mind. She is an artist, a musician and a short story writer, and is confident of her ability to earn a living.

Anti-Vaccination Riot.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, Nov. 15.—Business is suspended here in consequence of the rioting as a result of the opposition to the compulsory vaccination law. Military and naval detachments have been called upon to restore order. Thus far seven persons have been killed and 30 others have been wounded. It is believed that the opposition to the vaccination is only a pretext for disorder and that the disturbances are really instigated by discontented politicians.

A MOST FORUNATE MEETING

Stout Man's Delight When the Two Ladies Recognized Him.

The two ladies who entered the car by the rear door seemed rather disgusted to find that all the seats were occupied and that there were hardly enough straps to go around.

"That's always the way on the Indiana avenue cars," said the taller of the two. "They never seem to have enough cars—never. I haven't had a seat in a month—except when some gentleman was polite enough to offer me his."

She spoke loud enough for three or four "gentlemen" to hear, but they were apparently too interested in their evening papers to notice what she said.

"It's no use," said the other, with a slight giggle behind her glove. "As to the Indiana avenue cars being the worst, it's what they say of all of them."

The taller woman looked anxiously about the car. Then her face brightened. "Edge up toward the middle," she whispered. "We're in luck. There's Mr. Parker sitting over there. Move slowly and don't seem to see him until we get right close up to him."

They followed these tactics until they came to a particularly stout individual who was occupying about three linear feet of the seat space. Then the taller woman bent over and with a sweet smile said: "Good evening, Mr. Parker."

The stout man looked up. "Oh, good evening," he said, with a fine assumption of pleasure. Then he rose and said: "Won't you take my seat?"

Before the words were well out of his mouth the two women had glided into the place he had vacated. Then the taller woman said: "How fortunate that we should meet you!"

"Doubly fortunate," said the stout man.—Chicago News.

Dean Pigon's Story.

Dean Pigon, an English churchman, tells the following: "At one of our cathedrals the minor canon was ill and could not sing. A suffragan bishop had a good voice and volunteered to sing the litany. 'Go,' he said to the verger, 'and tell the organist that I will sing the litany, and ask him to give me the reciting note.' 'Please, sir,' said the verger to the organist, 'the bishop has sent me to you to say he will sing the litany.' 'All right,' said the organist. Seeing the verger remain, he said 'You need not stay.' 'Please, sir, the bishop asked me to ask you if you would give him a something—I didn't quite catch — note.' 'You mean the reciting note.' 'That's it, sir—that's it.' Seeing the verger still remaining, he said: 'You need not stay.' To which the verger sad: 'Please, sir, shall I take it to his lordship?'"—Exchange.

Guide Knew His Business.

"This is the place," said the man that was showing the party over the field of Gettysburg, "where Gen. Pickett made his last great charge."

"But," objected one of the group, "when I was here last year you pointed out an entirely different locality."

"And if you come again next year," retorted the other, "I may show you still a different place. You don't suppose he made his charge all in one spot, do you? He fit all over this neighborhood and back again, mister."

Here he made a grand sweep of his arm, apparently indicating all the territory in sight and a part of the next county.—Chicago Tribune.

He Knew the Kind of Silk.

Smith—So you bought your wife a silk dress for a birthday present, eh? How did you manage to suit her taste?

Wise—I bought her a changeable silk.

Must Take It on Faith.

A divorce story was brought into the office to-day that would make you gasp. You'll remember the Gazette said a month ago that a business change was coming that would make you gasp, and it came.—Emporia Gazette.

Reasons for Surprise.

"I—I hope this proposal of mine hasn't taken you entirely by surprise?"

"Well, yes; to tell the truth, I had given up all hope of it long ago"—Brooklyn Life.

DROWNING IS QUICK.

Man Cannot Live Under Water More Than Two Minutes.

"The story frequently repeated about professional divers who have been able to remain under water for over two minutes is silly," said a doctor. "No one can remain under water that long without drowning, whether he is a trained diver or not. At Navarino, where the sponge divers are reported to be able to remain under water three and four minutes, tests were made recently and resulted in conclusively proving that none of them remained down as long as a minute and a half. Ninety seconds seems a very long time to the watcher on shore, and it is about the limit of a diver's endurance under water. At Ceylon, where time tests were also made among the famous pearl divers, it was ascertained that few of them remained below the surface as long as a minute, and other tests made on the Red sea among the Arabs proved that a minute and a quarter was the longest they could endure without a fresh breath.

"On the coast of England several years ago a diver, a trained diver, one of the best on the coast, renowned for his endurance, went down and was pulled up so slowly when he gave the signal that he was under water about two minutes and five seconds. He was drawn out of the water insensible, with blood flowing from his nose and ears, and it was only after long and arduous work that his recovery from the effects of that two minute stay under water was assured. Drowning is a quick death. Even though the water is kept out of the lungs, insensibility will ensue in one minute and complete unconsciousness in two. The stories of people who have been in the water five minutes being resuscitated are generally mistakes or untrue. A man could not be in the water five minutes without coming to the surface several times and be restored to life."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE CASPIAN SEA.

One of the Remarkable Physical Features of the Globe.

One of the most remarkable physical features of the globe is the deep and wide depression in the hollow of which stands the Caspian sea and near to it the sea of Aral. The Caspian is nearly as large as France, and its surface is eighty-four feet below the level of the Black sea. The sea of Aral is nearly as large as Ireland and is very little over the sea level. Within recent geological times the vast expanse in which these lakes are found was sea. Its floor has been gradually raised, and the waters filling the depressions are all that is left of an ancient Mediterranean. A strange feature of both bodies of water is that although they receive large rivers, especially the Caspian, into which the Volga, the Ural river and scores of streams from the Caucasus flow, both have for many years been getting shallower. Evaporation, for they have no outlet, exceeds the inflow. But, for some climatic reason probably, the sea of Aral and its neighbor, Lake Balkhash, have since 1891 been increasing in depth. Whereas the Caspian, like the Dead sea, is very salt, owing to the rate of evaporation, Aral and Balkhash are brackish only. These remnants of what was once a great sea opening into the ocean, as the Mediterranean does now, still contain marine fish and seals. Some of the latter survive in the Aral and Baikal lakes, having gradually become fitted for their habitat, though it is no longer salt, but merely brackish, and, in the case of Baikal, actually fresh water.—London Telegraph.

Performing Wonders.

Thompson's Barosma Kidney and Liver Cure.

Is not only performing wonderful cures, as the following statements will prove, but all the cures have been permanent, there being no return of the disease or any of the symptoms even after a lapse of many years.

I was bloated and short of breath, making it very laborious for me to walk. I suffered pain in my back and sides. My stomach was also very sore and throbbed with pain. I was told I had kidney trouble and enlargement of the liver and spleen. I finally began using Thompson's Barosma and the first bottle reduced the measurement around my stomach from forty inches to thirty-six inches, and several bottles completely cured me. I gladly recommend it to others. This was five years ago. M. S. LANGWORTHY, Tryonville, Pa

E. O. Owen, a prominent resident of Troy Centre, Pa writes: "Ever since I can remember, for 20 years or more, my back troubled me, caused by inflammation of my stomach and liver first, then my kidneys became involved. At times the pain became excruciating. Having used a large number of so-called cures, I finally found a complete cure in Thompson's Barosma, several bottles reducing all inflammation and consequently curing the pain. Thanks to Barsoma, I have been perfectly well for two years. My wife's health has greatly improved by taking Barosma. She has gained in weight and the yellow tint to her skin has been replaced by a fresher and healthier color."

A WONDERFUL CURE.

Aggravated Case of Kidney Trouble Cured by Dr. Kennedy's Cal-cura Solvent.

Mr. H. W. Strauch, owner of the great Rock Station Mills, at Rock, Pa., writes as follows: "Several months ago I bought a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's new medicine, Calcura Solvent. I continued its use and I can cheerfully say that I have never found anything to equal it. I am 65 years old, and was troubled with a bad case of kidney and bladder disease for years. I now consider myself completely cured and I am doing my best to spread the reputation of this grand medicine throughout this territory."
