—The Kepler block, at the corner of Elm and Bridge streets, is being beautified and much improved by the building of a fine cement walk along the Elm street front. W. A. Dewoody, of Oil City, is the contractor in charge of the work.

—John W. Normile, of Bullion, was in the city to-day and was in a happy frame of mind over bringing in two good producers, one on the J. M. Critchlow lease and the other on the Foster farm. The old Bullion field has set the pace and to-day leads all local fields in production.—Franklin News.

—Last Friday was Henry Sibble's forty-seventh birthday and a company of thirty-five of his friends dropped into his pleasant home on German Hill to remind him of the fact, giving him a complete surprise. A very pleasant day was spent and a splendid dinner was served to the guests, who left with Mr. Sibble a number of substantial gifts as tokens of their regard. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Sibble, Mrs. J. Emert, Mrs. F. Wenk, Mrs. P. Kelley, Mrs. C. Sibble, Mrs. A. Sibble, Mrs. H. Davis, Mrs. A. W. Stroup, Mrs. T. Hagerly, Clarence Sibble, James Whitton, Howard Sibble, of German Hill; Mr. and Mrs. J. Dies, Mrs. C. Burhens, of Starr; John Thomas, of South Oil City; Mr. and Mrs. R. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Noble, Mrs. F. Bristow, Miss Jennie Thomas and Miss Delva Reib, of Tionesta.

—Comrades of the G. A. R. and members of the Forest County Veterans' Association in Marienville have been notified by friends at Tionesta that no reunion will be held in that place this year.

—U. S. Miles is carrying around a very lame back and neck as a rather forcible reminder of a fall from the Robinson delivery wagon last Thursday morning. He was driving out of the school house lot, when the horse by one leap cleared the ditch. The wagon stopped in the ditch and Ula went over the dashboard and the horse, landing on his head in the road. For a few minutes he was just about "all in" and says it was no joke.

—The Meadville Commercial College opened September 5th, 1905, for the year 1905-1906, with the largest attendance in the history of the college. The students in attendance are uniformly bright, intelligent, and well prepared to take a successful education. They are bound to succeed if they complete their work in a satisfactory manner. The rooms of the college have been renovated during the summer, and with the increased equipment and teaching force, is easily the leading commercial college in western Pennsylvania.

—In court this morning Judge Lindsey passed sentence on the men convicted last week. Harry Smith, who robbed the Campbell residence, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary and $200 fine for house breaking and larceny. After sentence had been passed upon him he exclaimed to the judge: "Old boy, I hope you are black in hell before I get out." The sheriff hustled him out of the court room, but it is to be regretted that the judge did not add a few more years to his sentence for such actions.—Warren Times.

—The first frost of the season struck this locality Thursday morning, Sept. 14, when thermometers in some places registered several degrees below freezing, especially on the hills. We can learn of no serious damage to crops hereabouts, but in some parts of the state corn and buckwheat are reported to be nipped. From the REPUBLICAN'S record of first frosts since 1890, we gather these dates, showing this year's frost to be a full week earlier: November 13, 1890; October 20, 1900; October 4, 1901; October 10, 1902; October 25, 1903; September 21, 1904.

—At the commencement exercises attending the graduation of a class of trained nurses at the State hospital for the insane at North Warren, on Friday evening last, the REPUBLICAN notes with pride that Forest county again contributes two young ladies, Miss Effie Bell Stakeley, of Mayburg, and Miss Caroline Korb, of Tionesta. The exercises were of the highest order of excellence, and were attended by many people of prominence in the surrounding community. Some fine addresses were given, the one by Dr. Guth, superintendent of the institution, being especially noteworthy. Reig's orchestra, of Warren, furnished excellent music for the occasion.

—Dr. W. J. McKnight, of Brookville, Pa., who had been taking in "Old Home Week" at Franklin, arrived in the city to-day. The doctor resided in this section during the early oil excitement and was interested with Jacob Sheasley in drilling wells near Pithole when that town boasted of 10,000 inhabitants. He has completed a pioneer history of northwestern Pennsylvania which will be ready for delivery Oct. 1.—Oil City Blizard.

—In the preparation of this history Dr. McKnight has taken nothing for granted, but at great expense of time, labor and research has verified every point, thus making his book a true history, without a word of fiction or fancy. It has been largely a labor of love with the doctor, as he scarcely expects to keep even on his actual outlay of cash for getting out the work, to say nothing about pay for his time and labor expended.

—Rev. Paul J. Slonaker, pastor elect, was installed by a commission of Clarion Presbytery in the Tionesta Presbyterian church on the evening of September 14. Rev. Charles Marshall, of East Brady, presided, proposed the constitutional questions and gave the charge to the pastor. Rev. S. A. Cornelius, of Oil City, gave the charge to the congregation, and in the absence of Dr. Conway, of Brookville, also preached the sermon. The service was a very helpful one to both pastor and people and was well attended. The work presents many encouragements; new pews have been placed in position and a lovely new carpet covers the floor. With these improvements the church presents a most handsome appearance. The service Sabbath morning was conducted by Rev. Paul J. Slonaker, the pastor, who delivered an appropriate inaugural sermon. A good congregation was present, and the brightness of the day lent its cheer to the service.

—State Highway Commissioner Hunter is forming plans for the enforcement of the new automobile law, which goes into effect Jan. 1. The new law transfers the issuing of auto licenses from probate to the highway department and after Jan. 1 nobody will be allowed to run an automobile in Pennsylvania without first obtaining a license from this department. With the license will be furnished two number tags—one for each end of the machine. All other tags will have to be removed, so that thereafter all machines operated anywhere in this state must carry only the numbered tags bearing the license number. The number tag in the rear of the machine must be lighted at night so that it can be plainly read. The new law also regulates the speed of autos in cities, boroughs and townships, and makes a radical change in existing laws on this subject. All of which will be welcome news to those who have occasion to pass these horse-scaring jumbos on the public highway.

—Mrs. J. A. Hart and Miss Genevieve Dault were up from Oil City over Sunday.

—L. L. Graham, Esq., of Oil City, was transacting business here yesterday morning.

—Miss Julia Jones, of Oil City, has been the guest of Mrs. A. C. Urey the past week.

—Misses Lizzie and May Bellows, of Reno, were guests of Mrs. James Haslet over the Sabbath.

—Mrs. A. E. Bradt leaves this morning for Monaca, Ind., to be with her husband for a couple of months.

—Allan Gordon, of Elkhart, Ind., is here to spend his vacation of a few weeks with Tionesta friends, his favorite resort.

—Mrs. E. W. Fitzgerald, of Buffalo, N. Y., was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lawrence, during the past week.

—Miss Martie Eshbaugh returned last Thursday from a nine weeks' stay at the Oil City hospital, very much improved in health.

—Capt. J. M. Clapp, who has been spending the summer at Lakewood, N. Y., was a business visitor in Tionesta last Wednesday.

—Miss Olive Lanson will leave for Jamestown, N. Y., Thursday, to take a course in instrumental music in Prof Hill's Piano School.

—Miss Christine Agnew left last Thursday for Washington, D. C., where on Monday she began her work as a teacher in the public schools.

—Hon. N. P. Wheeler and G. W. Warden were down from Endeavor last Thursday night to attend the installation service in the Presbyterian church.

—Mrs. J. P. Koverline and two children, of Crown, and Mrs. Archie Shields, of Clough's, were visitors at the home of their uncle, L. Agnew, a few days of last week.

—Harry S. Carson, Edward Gerwick, Harold Pierce and James Murphy, of Oil City, are enjoying a two weeks' outing in camp on the east side of the river at Hunter Station.

—Miss Blanche Hunter has charge of the German Hill school and Miss Gertrude Hill the school at Oldtown, the schools of Tionesta township beginning Monday morning.

—Report from the bedside of S. S. Canfield is to the effect that he is holding his own well, and his chances for recovery seem to be improving daily. This will be good news for his many friends.

—Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. Sule M. Sharpe, Mrs. J. E. Wenk, Mrs. J. T. Carson, and Miss Sadie Morrow, left for Marienville Monday morning to attend the county convention of the W. C. T. U.

—Merton Klinefister, of Church Hill, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Oil City hospital last Wednesday morning, rallied nicely from the shock and was improving rapidly at last account.

—Mrs. J. W. Morrow and family are moving to Tidouite this week for a temporary residence for the winter. They will occupy the home of Mrs. H. M. Parsball, who, with her family, will spend the winter on the Pacific coast.

—Mrs. Ralph E. Haines returned to her home at Marion, Indiana, last Thursday, after a three weeks' visit pleasantly spent with her mother, Mrs. M. L. Thomson, and other relatives. Her mother accompanied her to Oil City for a short visit with friends.

—Mrs. Wm. Lawrence went to Grundenerville this morning. It is Mrs. Lawrence's intention to give up housekeeping for the coming winter and spend the time with her husband at Grundenerville, and with their children at Buffalo, N. Y., New Alexandria and Chambersburg, Pa.

—James H. King, one of the best known river pilots on the Allegheny river, died at his home in Warren on the 9th inst. The deceased was aged 63 years, and leaves a wife and two children. He is well remembered by many friends in this vicinity, having at one time been engaged in oil operations in this neighborhood.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Campbell went to Oil City last Saturday, where they expect to make their home in the future with their daughter, Mrs. H. G. McKnight. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell have been residents of Tionesta for many years, and their many friends, while loathe to lose them, will wish them happiness in their new home.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Priestly left Warren last week for Bartlesville, Ind. Ter., where they will make their future home. Mr. Priestly has been a most useful citizen in Warren county and it is with much regret that his many friends see him leave for the west. He is interested extensively in the oil and gas business and has some extensive real estate interests as well in the Territory.

—Merton Mealy returned Saturday from Rochester, Minn., where he had been to consult the Mayo brothers, the celebrated surgeons. The broken bone in his right arm, which was badly injured in an accident in the Reid gas engine works at Oil City early in the spring, refused to knit, but the Rochester surgeons advised against an operation and assured him that his arm would gain strength and be all right in time.

—Mrs. Esther Morrison, mother of County Superintendent D. W. Morrison, died at her home at Frampton, Clarion county, Tuesday, Sept. 12th, at 10 o'clock. Mr. Morrison was summoned to her bedside last week, and was with her when she died. Mrs. Morrison had been an invalid for the past five years, caused by a stroke of paralysis, and recently suffered the second and third strokes. She was aged 84 years. The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the New Rebooth church, near her home.

—Among the young people who have gone to attend school during the past week, we note the following: Curtis Proper and Edward Lawrence to Chambersburg Academy, Chambersburg, Pa.; Misses Bertha Lawrence and Fern Bowman to Wilson College, Chambersburg; Miss Josephine Smeathough to Washington Seminary, Washington, Pa.; Dallas Teck and Glenn Henry to Franklin College, New Athens, Ohio; Miss Daisy Shriver, of Tionesta township, to Grove City College, J. D. W. Reck accompanied his son to New Athens, Mrs. S. M. Henry accompanied her son as far as Pittsburgh, and Mrs. J. A. Shriver went with her daughter to Grove City for a few days' visit.

—It is with sincere regret that we report the critical illness of our fellow townsman W. A. Grove, who was attacked on Sunday with a severe bowel trouble which has refused to yield to treatment. Dr. Stockton, one of Buffalo's celebrated specialists, was summoned yesterday morning, and while he pronounced Mr. Grove in a very serious condition, he advised against an immediate operation, but was not sure but that such an expedient might have to be resorted to within the next twenty-four or thirty-six hours.

—On account of poor health, J. C. McNamara, the P. R. R. agent at the Tionesta station, is taking a vacation. The work here is in charge of W. C. Imel, who for the past thirteen years has been in the freight and express office at Tidouite. Mr. Imel is a thoroughly competent official and an agreeable gentleman, and we predict he will prove to be popular with all who have business with the Pennsy. The many friends of Mr. McNamara, who has been a popular official, will hope that his vacation may speedily restore him to health. Several other changes in agents have been made on the road. W. D. Waid, the Tidouite agent, going to the superintendent's office in Oil City as yard dispatcher, and W. C. Katzmaier, of Kinzua, taking the Tidouite agency.

All But Drowned.

Sunday forenoon, shortly after eleven o'clock, Kepler, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Davis, came near losing his life by drowning. With a number of other boys near his own age, he had gone to the river bridge, where the water is from ten to fifteen feet deep, to take a swim, some flat boats moored there forming a convenient and desirable place for such purpose. Kepler was not able to swim, but that fact didn't seem to deter him from plunging in, and hanging onto the oar blades of the boats, all went well for a few moments until he lost his hold and began to sink. Ralph, son of J. T. Carson, somewhat younger than Kepler, who was a member of the party, and quite an expert swimmer for one of his age, jumped in to rescue his companion, and for a time succeeded in keeping his head above water, but the drowning boy grasped Ralph by the hair and was dragging him down also, and the rescuer was obliged to free himself to save his own life. The excitement attracted other boys, and young Earl Salsgiver sprang into a boat and was able to reach Kepler just as he was going under probably for the last time, and drag him into the boat. It was several minutes before he regained consciousness after reaching the shore, but after a good deal of hustling by those who had now reached the scene he was able to don his clothing and walk home. It was a hair-breadth escape, and had young Salsgiver lost one moment all would have been over with the venturesome lad. This ought to be a warning to other boys similarly inclined, but will it?

Attempted Hold-Up and Horse Thieves.

On Tuesday night of last week as W. G. Rodgers, of Tylersburg, agent for J. W. Kerr & Son, the monument firm, of Oil City, was driving to his home, three men attempted to hold him up at a lonely spot on the road near Tylersburg. Mr. Rodgers had been to Tionesta and was driving over a dark piece of road known as "Pine Hollow," just beyond Wm. Lewis' and a mile from Tylersburg, when three men appeared at the side of the road and commanded him to halt, one of the men at the same time starting for the horse's head. Mr. Rodgers paid no attention to the command but whipped up his horse, which made a jump and passed the man who had started for its head. As the horse made the jump, three shots were fired at Mr. Rodgers by the miscreants, one of which passed through the top of the buggy on the left side and through Mr. Rodgers' derby hat. It was a close call but he considers himself lucky to escape as easily as he did. The affair occurred about nine o'clock, when it was very dark, and Mr. Rodgers could not recognize the highwaymen. Judging from this occurrence and the one given below from the Oil City Derrick, which occurred last week, hold-up men and horse thieves are again becoming perilously active and it might be well for the residents in that locality to unlumber their shot guns and get ready for these chaps. Following close on the heels of the Goliza store robbery, it looks as though a gang may be at work. The article from the Derrick follows:

"A running fight between residents of Clarion county in the vicinity of Lamar-tine and two horse thieves is reported. Rodney McCleary, one of the younger members of a well known Clarion family of that name, was awakened by the barking of his watch dog and made an investigation that resulted in his discovering that a bay horse owned by him had been stolen from the barn. Mr. McCleary used the rural telephone line and soon had a posse of a half dozen of his neighbors at his home fully armed. Enough dust had fallen through the night to moisten the dust and in this the track of the stolen horse and buggy were easily seen. After a chase of nearly eight miles in the direction of Forest county the stolen horse and vehicle were sighted and the pursuing posse opened fire on the two men in the buggy. This fire was returned but the greater number of the pursuers being mounted on horses took chances and closed in on the men in front who took advantage of a bend in the road skirted by heavy timber, to leave the buggy and take to the woods. The men who were chasing them were afraid of being ambushed and having secured the stolen property gave up the man hunt."

RECENT DEATHS.

CARNER.

Mrs. Emma Rebecca Carner, wife of Mr. Abner B. Carner, died at Goodwill Hill, Warren county, Pa., Sept. 13th, 1905, aged 40 years, 2 months and 27 days. Mrs. Carner was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays, and was born in Farmington township, Clarion county, Pa., June 17th, 1865, where she grew to womanhood. On March 14th, 1880, she was united in marriage with Mr. Carner. A great part of their married life was spent in Marienville, from which place they removed three years ago to Durbin, W. Va. For the past year she had been in failing health, her illness being diagnosed as diabetes, and about five weeks ago she was brought to Goodwill Hill in the hope that the change would prove beneficial, but it was of no avail and she passed away as above noted. During her residence in Marienville Mrs. Carner was converted under the ministrations of Rev. R. M. Whitcomb, uniting with the Free Methodist church, and her life was that of a consistent Christian. She is survived by her husband, five sons and one daughter. One daughter, Mrs. George E. McFarvey, died in Tionesta, July 13th, 1903. The remains were conveyed to her childhood home, where the funeral services were held last Friday morning in the Farmington Evangelical church, conducted by Rev. R. M. Whitcomb, of Pleasantville. The interment was in the church cemetery near by.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gilman, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by Dunn & Fulton.

A Bit of Local History.

At the Venango county centennial held in Franklin last week many incidents of local history were recalled by the old residents, and by far the most interesting and authentic was given in an address by ex-Judge John S. McCalenat, who is still well remembered by many of our citizens. Among other interesting reminiscences he told the following: "My grandfather, William Connelly, who was a spectator when Judge Yeates held court, told me that there was tried at it an ejection suit of Range vs. Poland Hunter, (I think these are the names). It was for an island at Tionesta. Cornplanter, the famous Indian chief, was a witness. The contention was that the island was a part of the main land when the settlement was made and was therefore within the claim of the settler. And here I may remark that actual settlers east of the Allegheny river were entitled to 400 acres, in reasonable shape, without any survey, whilst on the west side the settler had to have, at the inception of his settlement, a survey. The settlement laws and the conflicting claims of settlers and warrant holders made this branch of the law of much more importance than now and the study and practice of it made the great land lawyers of that day. The islands also in the Allegheny could not be held by actual settlement, but were acquired by application, appraisement and purchase from the Commonwealth.

"Mr. Farrelly, of Meadville, was counsel for the client who claimed by settlement and that the land was not an island when the settlement was made. Cornplanter was a witness for the opposite party. When called, Farrelly objected to him, that he did not believe in a Supreme Being and therefore was not competent as a witness. An interpreter was sworn truly to interpret and Cornplanter, being questioned, replied that he believed in the Great Spirit, who would punish him if he would swear falsely. He was then sworn as a witness in the case, and, on being asked how long he had known the land in dispute, he took a small boy from the audience, indicating that he was of his age. He said it was when he was with his tribe on an expedition to fight the Catawas. They encamped for the night on this island, which he said was an island then as now. Mr. Farrelly cross-questioned, and more than once, trying to shake his evidence, asked him if he was sure it was an island. Cornplanter got angry and stormed. Judge Yeates asked the interpreter what the matter was with him. Cornplanter said he was an Indian, but when he said a thing once he thought it was enough, but here was an intelligent white lawyer who made him repeat over and over, as if he doubted his word."

We may add further to this bit of history that Poland Hunter won the suit and remained in possession of the island until his death, when it passed into the hands of his son, the late William Hunter, who disposed of it at a fabulous sum during the great "oil excitement" of '65. It is still known as "Hunter's island," but is growing beautifully less from year to year.

U. E. Ministerial Appointments.

At the annual conference of the United Evangelical church, held in the city of Johnstown, last week, the following ministerial appointments were made for the Franklin district: A. J. Bird, presiding elder; Armstrong, E. T. Jones; Alum Rock, W. H. Baer; Barkeyville, P. C. Trinnies; Brookville, T. J. Bartlett; Clarendon, J. Barnes; Crawford, A. B. Day; Dempseytown, George E. Erskine; Franklin, Buffalo street, F. D. Ellenberger; Franklin, Parker avenue, M. E. Berger; Franklin circuit, B. F. Felt; Greenville mission, to be supplied; Hawthorn, S. V. Carmany; Lickingville, C. E. McCauley; McKean, V. E. Wellings; Oil City, S. H. Barlett; Shenango, S. Million; Salem, George H. Dosh; Fruitburg, to be supplied; Venango, E. A. Miles; D. M. Baumgardner, Hawthorn quarterly conference; L. E. Baumgardner, Armstrong quarterly conference; J. C. Hadesch, Crawford quarterly conference; G. W. Finney, Brookville quarterly conference; G. W. Cupp, Venango quarterly conference.

Among the appointments made by the Evangelical Association, which held its conference in the same city, the following are noted: Pleasantville, L. B. Rittenhouse; Cumberland, L. E. Haviland; L. D. Lang and J. P. McKee were made members of the Pleasantville quarterly conference; Lickingville, A. F. Richards. F. W. Ware, a former principal of the Tionesta schools, is located in the Willow street U. E. church in Johnstown.

Brisk Styles in Fall Footwear

When a man is buying his new fall footwear he likes to have the game as well as the name. In a great many cases he doesn't—simply because most shoe stores show merely the same old things made up in the same old way.

It's different here; when we say new styles we mean new—the latest ideas of the very best shoe designers copied from the ultra fashionables last of the swell custom makers.

Plenty of well proved favorites too, of course—for those few to whom style makes not so strong an appeal—but the shoes are new though.

Boys' Wearables

We have always maintained that it is false economy to buy things, especially Boys' Clothes, merely because the prices are low. Too often "very low prices" means nothing more than very poor quality. So we are for quality first and price afterward.

$3.50 Boys' Suits and Extra Trousers

Sizes 8 to 16. Made from strictly all wool weight dark mixed chevot. A suit that ordinarily sells for $3.50 without the extra pair trousers. Every mother knows the young man will be able to make use of the extra pair before the coat is gone and she knows the trouble she has in getting a pair to match the coat when the first pair is worn.

Boys' Trousers for 50c.

Any kind of a store will sell you Boys' Short Trousers for a half dollar. But do you know any other store besides Lammers' that has only all-wool clothes in the 50c Short Pants? Mothers, do you pay enough attention to this small item? Cotton or shoddy will not wear and hold color with wool, and at same price. Which will you have?
